TOKYO DELAYS BIG OFFENSIVE

Japanese Apologize for Attack Upon Two Americans.

Nanking, (Tuesday) Feb. 16 (A.P.). China again protested today against Japan's use of the International Settlement in Shanghai "as a base for operations against the Chinese."

The national government informed the United States and Great Britain that in view of the situation it would have to act in self-defense and could not assume responsibility for any damage caused to life and property within the settlement as a result of this action.

It previously had protested to the American and British governments against the continued landing of Japanese troops in the settlement, charging that it constituted a violation of the settlement's neutrality. Its notes said the Japanese had landed 20,000 soldiers in the setttlement within the last two days, "which is a clear indication of Japanese defiance of the powers' advice to Japan not to use the settlement as a base for operations and as a place affording facilities for Japanese convenience."

Urged to Exert Influence.

The American and British governments were urged to exert influence on Japan to forestall any further Japanese troop landings in the settlement.

In view of the situation, the note said, "the national government is obliged to declare that since Japanese troops are using the settlement as a base, Chinese troops are compelled to exercise the right of self-defense and in case damage is caused to life and property within the settlement as a result of this action the Chinese government is unable to assume responsibility, which should fall on Japan."

Shanghai (Tuesday), Feb. 16.—Japan withheld her big drive today, apparently determined to wait for still more guns and troops in order that there might be no repetition of the bitter experience at Chapei, where outnumbered Japanese bluejackets were repulsed by a suddenly bellicose Chinese army.

50,000 Chinese Soldiers.

Fifty thousand Chinese soldiers have been concentrated in the trench lines and fortifications in Shanghai and at Woosung. Latest official estimates put the Japanese strength at 25,000, with additional men already on the way. Tokyo reported that still more units might be dispatched in view of the threat that the Chinese will refuse to give in until they are overwhelmed.

During the last 24 hours there has been just enough activity by the Japanese guns to keep the Chinese aware there was an enemy army in the field. At dusk yesterday heavy artillery blazed away against the Chinese lines at Chapei. A weak response came from trench mortar batteries. After an hour or so the tumult subsided.

More Outfits Landed.

Shanghai resounded to the tramp of marching men all yesterday as Japanese units were moved off to Chapei and Woosung fronts. Other outfits were landed from troopships and sent to Japanese cotton mills, factories and warehouses, which have been taken over as concentration points.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, Chinese commander, announced that two new divisions, numbering approximately

Summerall Takes Back Resignation

Petition of Entire Student Body at The Citadel Causes Action.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff of the United States Army, today withdrew his resignation as president of The Citadel, the State military college.

Gen. Summerall sent his resignation to the board of visitors last week after he became angered at a question asked him by a member of the Senate finance committee regarding a $19,000 deficit at the Citadel.

After his resignation had been submitted, the entire cadet corps appealed to him, in a petition signed by every student to reconsider. Gen Summerall came to the Citadel in September, 1931.

Japan Denies Battle Aim in Neutral Zone

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese disavowal of any intention to violate the neutrality of the International Settlement at Shanghai by the landing of additional reserves was conveyed to Secretary Stimson yesterday by Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi. After one of his longest interviews with the head of the Department of State, Ambassador Debuchi reiterated Japanese pacific intentions in the Shanghai region. It was recalled here, however, that similar paradoxical assurances had formerly

COSTA RICAN REVOLT BEGUN BY QUESADA

Ricardo Jimenez Leads in Election as Troops Rally to Oust Rebels.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Feb. 15 (U. P.).—President Cleto Gonzales Viquez rallied loyal troops and volunteers tonight to suppress a revolutionary movement which broke out before dawn at the Bellavista garrison and led to a series of street fights in the capital.

The rebels still held the garrison barracks, but the president declared they would be dislodged immediately by loyal forces from San Jose and the provinces.

"Manuel Castro Quesada (former minister to Washington), who learned that he was defeated by Ricardo Jimenez in the presidential election Sunday, initiated the plot," President Gonzales said.

Fighting continued in the streets almost all day. Casualties were uncertain, but several prominent politicians were reported wounded. The fighting in San Jose began at 4 a. m. and a strict censorship was imposed on outgoing dispatches.

The results of the election, in which Quesada was opposed by Ricardo Jimenez and Carlos Maria Jimenez, were still in doubt when the fighting began, but Ricardo Jimenez was in the lead.

The general belief, however, was that none of them would receive a majority.

Last returns gave Ricardo Jimenez 30,000; Quesada, 17,000, and Carlos Maria Jimenez, 12,000. A fourth candidate, Max Koberg, had 1,100 votes.

The coup d'etat was reported to have been aided by Minister of War Arturo Quiroz, the son-in-law of President Gonzales, who has held office since his election in 1928. The army of Costa Rica totals about 500 men.

The leaders of the outbreak were also reported holding Vice President

The senator was described as "doing very nicely," since he was taken to Georgetown Hospital Sunday. The operation is to be performed in about a week.

U. S. CABLEGRAM EXPOSES BOMB AT ST. PETER'S

PLOT ON MUSSOLINI OR POPE SUSPECTED

Duce, Pontiff and Thousands Prayed Near Where It Was Concealed.

Rome, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A mysterious message from America revealed the existence of a deadly bomb near the central altar of St. Peter's Cathedral in a supposed plot against Pipe Pius XI or Premier Mussolini, who appeared there last week, it was learned today.

The bomb was found Saturday under a massive bronze lion, but not until today was it disclosed that a cablegram from across the Atlantic had directed Vatican authorities to the exact spot. Safely exploded by Italian artillery officers, it went off with a terrific blast.

Plotters who hid the explosive in the famous basilica, it was believed, having failed in their aim against the life of either the premier or the Pope, chose to reveal the bomb's presence rather than have it explode later and possibly kill persons against whom the conspirators had no design.

Explodes Despite Soaking.

Vatican officials in charge of the basilica had it thoroughly inspected last Wednesday, the day before Premier Mussolini visited St. Peter's after calling on the Pope for the first time in his career. They said the bomb was not there then. Hence, it either was placed there the following day, when Il Duce knelt and prayed at the central altar, or the next day, when the Pope appeared to celebrate the tenth anniversary of his coronation.

Premier Mussolini was deeply interested in the discovery of the bomb and kept in close touch with the munitions experts who examined it. It was exploded today in an artillery field in the presence of the experts after it had lain for two night and a day immersed in water in a fountain just outside the Vatican City Railway Station.

Blast Is Tremendous.

The bomb, a package about the size of a shoe box, created a tremendous blast when it was set off and experts estimated that it generated sufficient force to have lifted off its pedestal the massive bronze lion under which it had been hidden.

Some 2,000 persons were present when the Italian premier appeared in the Basilica Thursday, but all were

"Green Pastures" Actor Dies of Heart Disease

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Samuel Davis, Negro actor, who played the part of "Gabriel" in "Green Pastures," died of heart disease in an Indianapolis hospital today, it was learned here tonight.

Davis had been ill ever since the show left New York three months ago, members of the cast said, and he was compelled to remain in Indianapolis. His place in the cast is being taken here by Doedoe Green, his understudy. Davis was the second man to have the part of "Gabriel" in the show. Wesley Hill, who originally played the part, was run down and killed by a taxicab in New York, a week after Davis was engaged as his understudy.

Cardozo Nominated For Supreme Court To Succeed Holmes

Selection of New York's Chief Appeals Judge Wins Praise.

(Associated Press.)

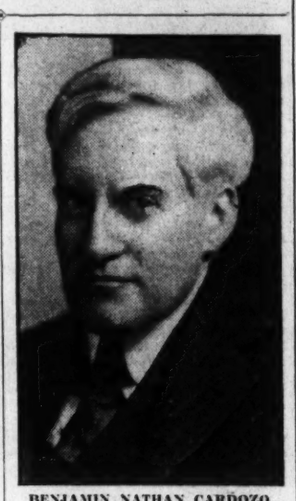

The Supreme Court seat vacated by the venerable and beloved Oliver Wendell Holmes was given yesterday to Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, chief judge of the New York Court of Appeals.

Hailed in the Senate by leaders of all groups as a liberal worthy of carrying on the traditions of Mr. Holmes, he was assured of confirmation by a universality of indorsement.

In his twenty years on the New York State court benches Judge Cardozo has claimed national attention by his decisions. He has been urged for the Supreme Court by his friends on several previous occasions.

President Hoover chose the 62-year-old New York judge, who is a Democrat and a Jew, after weeks of canvassing the Nation for a man of the Holmes legal and political philosophy. He reached his decision yesterday after a round of conferences with Senate leaders and advisers. Assured of support by the Senate chieftains, the nomination was promptly submitted for confirmation.

Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, who joined in the flow of praise, said the nomination would be considered in regular order by the committee. Its next meeting is a week hence.

In selecting Judge Cardozo, President Hoover disregarded sectional and political lines. New York already had two of its citizens on the Supreme Court—Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Harlan F. Stone.

The political makeup of the court now becomes five Republicans and

HINDENBURG TO RUN; FOES GIRD FOR FIGHT

Nationalists and Hitlerites Attack on Heels of His Announcement.

Berlin, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—President Paul von Hindenburg, who led the German armies in the World War, consented today to run for reelection and immediately Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists announced they would not support him.

The venerable president's decision was made public in a formal statement containing four characteristic and pithy sentences centering around the word "duty."

Dr. Hugenberg contented himself with a simple statement of his opposition but the Nazi headquarters in Munich, announcing the Hitlerite position, attacked the president on the score that he had changed front against those who supported him in the 1925 election by identifying himself with the "blackred parties of collapse."

"If President von Hindenburg had chosen to march shoulder to shoulder with the great majority of the nation to put an end to the system of decline, then we should be with him," the Nazi statement said.

The Nazis asserted that the president had been ill-advised and that their party had left nothing undone in an effort to save him from the

Parties Seek to Aid Trains Under Snow

Alamosa, Colo., Feb. 15.—(A.P.).—A small army of men with many machines battled howling gales and 20-foot snowdrifts tonight to carry relief to two passenger trains of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railway, stalled atop the Continental Divide between Alamosa and Chama, N. Mex.

The trains were buried in a storm Friday on Cumbres Pass. A relief train, three rotary sweepers, seven snow plows and seventeen engines were at work on the track. The sixteen passengers and twenty-one trainmen of the marooned trains assisted the sweeper crews. A freight train, snowed under on the same line, has been abandoned until spring.

Although surrounded and covered by drifts which stand 20 feet on either side of the track and constantly slide into the path which workers have been attempting to cut for three days, the passengers were warm and well fed, railroad officials said.

Maurice Costello, Star Of Early Films, Stricken

Los Angeles, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Maurice Costello, matinee idol of years ago and the father of Helene and Dolores Costello, film stars, was stricken by cerebral hemorrhage today. He was pronounced in a critical condition at the California hospital.

The stroke occurred as he was seated in a Beverly Hills drug store. The veteran stage and film actor, once publicized as "the screen's greatest lover," was taken first to the Beverly Hills Emergency Hospital pending the arrival of his physician, Dr. John Bonfiglio.

Taxes Take $25,055,659 of Fortune; Son Bequeathed $14,150 Studs.

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Thomas Fortune Ryan, the capitalist who twenty years before his death retired as an officer or director in more than 30 corporations, left an estate valued at $135,164,110.54, the second largest in the history of the transfer tax bureau here.

The valuation, as of the date of his death, November 23, 1928, was given in a transfer tax appraisal today. At the time of Mr. Ryan's death the valuations ranged from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000, and he was rated one of the Nation's greatest half-dozen financiers.

Included in the huge total were Mr. Ryan's white pearl shirt studs, valued at $14,150. They were the only part of the fortune left to Mr. Ryan's son, Allan A. Ryan, from whom he was estranged for many years. The disagreement between them was reported to have been due, in part at least, to Allan's activities in the corner of Stutz Motor stock in 1920.

Mr. Ryan's personal effects were valued at $2,122,268.75 including $728,738 worth of jewelry. A pearl necklace and clasp were valued at $546,339.

Striking Extremists Raise Red Flagg at City Hall in Tarrassa.

Barcelona, Spain, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Riotous conditions that led to one death and numerous other casualties as well as many arrests prevailed in several Catalonian cities today as a result of extremist labor activities. At the village of Ruetaria near San Sebastian a Republican was killed in a clash with Nationalists and eleven persons were arrested.

A group of infantrymen was sent from Barcelona to Tarrassa to cope with striking extremists, who took over the city hall and raised a red flag. Several were wounded in the ensuing conflict, but the infantrymen prevailed.

Two persons were arrested trying to dynamite the Barcelona water mains. Business was almost at a standstill at Cadiz because of a general strike and Badalona, Igualda and Moncada were affected by similar troubles. A partial strike was in effect at Zaragoza and Cordoba dispatches said the police were reinforcing to meet a strike threat. Several automobile trucks were burned and labor centers were closed at Seville.

SENATE ROUTS SUBSTITUTE OF DOLE MEASURE

$375,000,000 RELIEF CONTEST DUE TODAY

Roosevelt's Letter Favors Idle Aid as Democrats Join Opposition.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Senate yesterday defeated the $750,000,000 Democratic substitute bill for the relief of the victims of unemployment. The vote was 48 to 31.

Today there will be a final showdown on this question when the Senate votes on the original relief measure—the La Follette-Costigan bill—giving $375,000,000 to the States outright.

Administration senators predicted last night that the La Follette-Costigan bill would be beaten by at least five votes.

Hoover Opposes Gifts.

President Hoover has repeatedly opposed Federal appropriations for the unemployed and their dependents, contending that the States and municipalities were able to take care of their own, and that Federal aid would not only further dent the Treasury, but would discourage voluntary contributions.

On the other hand, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, the leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, favors some form of Federal relief. He said as much yesterday in a telegram to Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, who had the message read to the Senate.

The bill which was rejected by the Senate yesterday was offered as a substitute for the La Follette-Costigan bill, and was designed to stifle talk about a "dole."

Substitute Bill's Scope.

The substitute bill authorized the same sum as the original bill—$375,000,000 for relief and $375,000,000 to provide jobs through highway construction.

However, whereas the La Follette-Costigan bill would make a gift to the States of $375,000,000 for food, clothing and other essentials, the substitute bill would advance this sum to the States as a loan.

The substitute bill was sponsored by Minority Leader Joe T. Robinson and other influential Democrats in the Senate. Nevertheless, when the vote had been taken yesterday, it was found that eight Democrats had broken away and voted against the measure.

The eight were Bailey, North Caro-

Pastors Refuse to Help Form Antisaloon Unit

Danville, Va., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Declaring the work of the Antisaloon League and kindred organizations to be out of the sphere of its operation, the Danville Ministers Association today refused to participate in a movement to reorganize the local chapter of the league, discarded several years ago. The ministers went on record to the effect that such organizations have a place in community life, but should be promoted by laymen.

Later, a number of ministers met with a group of laymen to discuss the organization of some body to promote public support of existing prohibition laws, and this meeting decided to proceed with the Antisaloon League organization with a layman at its head.

U. S. May Sell $50 Bonds to Hit Hoarding

(Associated Press.)

In a direct move to draw additional money into circulation, administration financial experts are contemplating a new issue of short-term Treasury bonds in denominations as low as $50.

DRY WORK ESCAPES HOUSE FUNDS CUTS

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition enforcement excepted, the major activities of the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments yesterday felt the tight fist of economy.

Their appropriations for the next fiscal year were submitted to the House, by the Democratic-controlled appropriations committee, totaling $124,400,000, a sum $14,587,000 less than current appropriations and $5,375,000 below budget estimates.

The committee allowed $11,369,000 for the Prohibition Bureau the amount recommended by the Budget Bureau and the sum allowed this year. It divulged the bureau had disallowed the dry unit's original request for $13,635,000 to provide an increase from 2,000 to 2,500 in the number of dry agents.

Regret was expressed by Attorney General Mitchell to the committee that the financial condition of the country was such that Director Woodcock could not be given the additional 500 men as recommended by the Wickersham Commission. This year the force was increased from 1,500 to 2,000.

The Justice Department received $51,056,000 which was $2,844,000 less than the budget estimates and $172,000 below current outlays.

Mitchell estimated, not counting the prohibition unit, more than 50 per cent of the department's criminal activities arose from the dry law. He was unable to give the committee a break-up of its civil litigation and the criminal activities.

Glass-Steagall Bill Wins by Vote of 350 to 15.

SMALL BANKS WILL BE AIDED

Act Recommended by Hoover May Be Law Before Sunday.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

The House, by the overwhelming vote of 350 to 15, yesterday passed the Glass-Steagall bill extending the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve system.

Recommended by President Hoover as a major project to stimulate economic recovery, the measure provides for the infusion of billions of dollars in additional credits into the sluggish veins of the Nation's business. Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills estimated that the maximum additional credit it would provide might reach as high as $10,000,000,000.

Those who voted against the credit liberalization bill were:

Totals—For, 350; against, 15.

May Be Law This Week.

Taken up under a suspension of the rules—the first time Speaker Garner has adopted such a procedure—the measure was passed after three hours of debate, in the course of which the outcome never was in doubt. It is to be taken up in the Senate in a day or two and is expected to be finally passed and signed by the President and made law before the week is out.

The bill authorizes the Federal Reserve banks to issue the better part of $1,000,000,000 in additional currency, which would be guaranteed by a gold deposit of 40 per cent and United States securities to the face value of the currency.

"We believe this bill will enlarge and extend the service of the Federal Reserve system and make it the instrumentality it was intended to be originally," Representative Henry B. Steagall (Democrat), of Alabama, chairman of the House banking committee, said in opening debate on the measure.

The measure was designed to aid the small banks of the Nation get out of the difficulties into which they had been thrust by "unsound and vicious" practices by which the Federal Reserve system had been "perverted" almost to strangle the small banks. He urged passage of the bill so that the credit of the reserve system could once more flow through normal channels and again serve the country.

Dawes' Message Concealed.

Small banks, he said, have been "choked to death" by reserve system rules and it was for the benefit of the small banks that the President had urged its enactment.

Representative Joseph B. Shannon (Democrat), of Missouri, asked Chairman Steagall to tell the House what Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, had said at the White House conference at which the bill was agreed upon by House and Senate leaders.

But Mr. Steagall refused, saying the information disclosed at the conference "was too delicate to be broadcast" and, though Mr. Shannon in-

Mrs. Walker, D.A.R. Leader, Lauds Post Essay Contest

Chairman of National Defense for Society Says Youths Entering Competition Will Learn of Hardships Encountered by Washington.

"In these days when many citizens are engaged in projects that would diminish the glory of the heroes who built this Nation on the sure foundations of national service and the inspiring ideals of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, such a contest as that now being conducted by The Washington Post is most reassuring," Mrs. William Sherman Walker, chairman of national defense for the Daughters of the American Revolution, declared yesterday. Mrs. Walker was commenting upon The Post George Washington essay contest in which $1,000 in cash prizes will be distributed among 108 prize winners drawn from among contestants in public, private and parochial schools of Washington and nearby Virginia and Maryland.

"In studying the life of Washington and his times the young people in the contest will realize that these men, sometimes called the founding fathers of the Republic, dared in their day and generation to stand for the eternal principles of liberty even if they had to fight for them. They realize that the blessings of liberty are not bestowed on one, like the bounties of Nature; they are won by heroism, national service and right living. They were not afraid or ashamed to draw their matchless swords in the defense of their homeland and to insure freedom. George Washington and his comrades at arms were no namby pambies prating

Gibson, Swanson and Robert Pell Victimized by Intruders Seeking Secret Information; Turkey Supports Italy and Germany on Reduction.

Geneva, Feb. 15 (U.P.).—Documents containing secret information about the United States Army and Navy were ransacked by burglars who entered the American headquarters at the League of Nations disarmament conference, it was learned today.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson reported to police that on two successive nights thieves had gone through the American headquarters, breaking into filing cases, slitting brief cases and opening desks. Nothing but information was stolen.

The burglars, who are believed to have been looking for some document containing military or naval information not usually available to foreign powers, first went through Ambassador Gibson's filing cases on the night of February 2, just before his speech at the disarmament conference outlining America's plan for limitations of armaments.

Afterward the burglars ransacked the office of Senator Claude W. Swanson. They cut open his brief case containing private papers but did not take anything. The next night they came back and opened the desk of Robert Pell and looked at his secret papers. No arrests have been made.

At today's session of the disarmament conference Turkey told the world that "until the civilized world organized itself into a super state we can have only relative security."

The Turkish plan, presented by Tewfik Bey, supported the Italian position. He advocated the abolition of

FIGHT TAKEN DIRECT TO SMITH QUARTERS

Gov. Ely Notified of Plan to Pledge Supporters in Convention.

Boston, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—James J. Roosevelt, lieutenant in the forces of his father's army of supporters for the Democratic presidential nomination, today unfurled the family battle flag in the face of the Massachusetts enemy.

Young Roosevelt fired the opening salvo in a campaign for delegates to the party's national convention pledged to his father, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. The echo brought the revelation that James might seek election as a delegate to the convention.

The supporters of the New York Governor will wage a vigorous campaign and they carried notice of their intent to the enemy headquarters—the office of the Smith supporting Gov. Josephy B. Ely.

With Strabo V. Caggett, unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor at the last election, James went to the governor's office at the statehouse and announced the opening of their drive. Ely smiled and said, "That's good."

Sudden Attack Surprises.

Later Claggett said that he, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville would probably seek election as delegates at large and "it was also possible that James Roosevelt would run," along with Michael O'Leary, formerly of the Democratic State committee, and John Backus, of New Bedford.

James sounded the call to arms at Lowell while addressing the Kiwanis Club and later joined the delegation which visited Gov. Ely.

Democratic circles of the State were set aflutter by the sudden attack of the Roosevelt forces, which many expected to remain out of the contest in Massachusetts because of the predominance of Smith men in the councils of the party.

Authorization in Doubt.

In spite of the sudden burst of activity the Rooseveltians refused steadfastly to say whether the New York Governor approved of their activities or had authorized the campaign in the Bay State.

At Lowell the Kiwanians were told by the younger Roosevelt that his father had the most united backing of any Democratic nominee. He acknowledged the strong tendency toward Smith in Massachusetts, but said the supporters of his father were going to make the fight.

He added, "the Democratic party is big enough to hold former Gov. Smith and all its other leaders, with Gov. Roosevelt, my father, as its presidential nominee.

"By coming into Massachusetts we do not intend to belittle Mr. Smith or any other candidate. As a matter of fact, we feel that Mr. Smith has been a great leader of the Democratic party since the last presidential campaign and that he has done much to deserve the popularity he has been accorded here in the East.

To Invade Every District.

"We must all remember the East is only one section of this country, and the vast population of the South and West is just as much entitled to its opinions as we who live in the East. The time is ripe for a change and all parts of the country must be united insofar as that is possible."

When the scene of action changed to the State House Claggett took charge. He told Ely of the intentions of the Roosevelt proponents, but later he declined to say whether Gov. Roosevelt sponsored the plan. He said the campaign would be pushed in every district for the election of district delegates, while an intensive drive would be waged also in the case of the election of delegates at large. He maintained that even if one Roosevelt delegate is elected the object he had in mind would be served.

The only outstanding Democratic leader of the State who heretofore had declared for Roosevelt was Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, who is now in Cuba for a visit. All others have declared for Smith, who carried Massachusetts at the last national election.

cided this plan would not be satisfactory.

There was no avowed link between the new issue and the antihoarding drive, but some of those arguing for the bonds have contended that if the small bonds were sold through banks to the public, bankers could suggest readily to those holding money in safety deposit, to replace their currency with these securities.

The bonds would pay, it is indicated, around 3 per cent, possibly 3¼ or 3½. The size of the issue has not been determined.

The amount of hoarded money in this country has been estimated by President Hoover at $1,300,000,000 or more. It did not appear likely, however, that a new bond issue would attempt to reach any such large amount, especially as it is contemplated to bring it to early maturity.

TOM MIX.

Yuma, Ariz., where most of the celebrities of the Hollywood film colony have gone of late to tie their wedding knots, lost out to Mexicali because it was too far away.

The cowboy film star, after driving with his bride and a party to Palm Springs, Calif., yesterday with the announced intention of going to Yuma, decided to stop here and go across the border for the wedding.

Mix said he couldn't see the necessity of traveling the additional 130 miles to the Arizona marriage capital and decided he would try a Mexican marriage.

Miss Ward is the third wife of the actor. Mix is 52 years old. His other wives were Olive Stokes Mix and Victoria Forde Mix.

The ceremony was performed by Gen. Juan N. Vasquez, judge of the Mexican civil court. The witnesses were the actor's daughter Thomasina, 9 years old; Monte Blue, film star, and his wife, and Dale Tierney, the actor's secretary.

Thomasina is the daughter of Mix and his second wife, Victoria. He has another child, Ruth, born to him and his first wife.

Mix recently recovered from an illness and began work at a Hollywood studio, attempting a comeback in motion pictures.

It was his departure from pictures some months ago that led to the romance. Last year, while touring the country in a circus, he met Miss Ward. The romance did not become known until yesterday.

Miss Ward, although widely known in the circus world, was acquainted only slightly in Hollywood. During the actor's illness she was a frequent visitor at the hospital where he was confined.

CREDIT EXPANSION MEASURE PASSES HOUSE, 350 TO 15

sisted that "everything that pertains to the American people" should be told to Congress, the chairman continued in his refusal.

Representative Louis T. McFadden (Republican), of Pennsylvania, whose sharp criticism of President Hoover's economic program has made himself something of a storm center, led the fight against the bill. He was chairman of the banking and currency committee in the last Congress and is ranking Republican member now.

He said that the measure had not been drafted in response to the demands of trade and commerce but would put at the disposal of speculators a great sum of money, and urged that the present slump was the inevitable result of the greatest period of inflation in the history of the Nation. The bill, Mr. McFadden said, would wipe out the safeguards of eligibility and would strike at the very foundations of the Federal Reserve system.

Although there seemed no doubt that the Senate would quickly pass the credit liberalization measure, it will not get through that body as easily and quickly as it got through the House yesterday. Under the suspension of the rules in the House no amendments may be offered.

Glass Has Amendments.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, coauthor of the bill, has proposed two amendments which the administration does not like.

One of these woud limit credit extension to banks having not more than $500,000 capitalization. The purpose of this amendment is to make certain that the legislation does what it is intended to do for the small banks and prevent diversion into the great money marts.

Another amendment suggested by Senator Glass would require any bank to exhaust all paper now eligible before it would be permitted the additional rediscount privileges provided in the liberalization measure.

The administration is opposed to these restrictive amendments and efforts are being made through conferences to persuade Senator Glass they are not necessary and would interfere with operation of the law. Senator Frederic C. Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, conferred with Mr. Glass yesterday and Secretary of the Treasury Mills had a conference with Senator James E. Watson (Republican), Indiana, party floor leader, in the course of which he outlined objections to the Glass proposals.

Senator Walcott said he might attempt to have the bill sent back to committee with instructions to eliminate the amendments if they are in the bill when reported.

From the standpoint of speed, acceptance of the bill as passed by the House is desirable. If the Senate does not pass the House bill the Senate bill will have to go back to the House for approval.

Home Loan Bank Plan Is Indorsed by Witnesses

Indorsement of the administration plan to set up a system of home loan discount banks was given by several witnesses appearing yesterday before a Senate banking subcommittee.

Amendment of the plan so as to prevent loans leading to speculative overbuilding was urged by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, in the course of questioning Walter S. Schmidt, of Cincinnati, who indorsed the measure. Mr Schmidt represented the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Mr. Schmidt said his organization felt a home loan discount system was a necessity which would be of permanent value.

Several objections to the measure were advanced for the Ohio Banking Association by Thomas Monks, vice president of the Guardian Trust Co., of Cleveland. He urged that trust companies, savings and other banks be accorded the same eligibility as given building and loan associations, homestead associations, insurance companies and cooperative banks.

Hudson Broadway, of Detroit, representing the Detroit Real Estate Board and the Michigan Association of Real Estate Boards, urged passage of the bill, saying it would liquify mortgages. C. A. Stirling, of the Capitol Building and Loan Association, of Topeka, Kans., also advocated the legislation, as did Marcus Rose, of New York, editor of the Business Week, the name of whose paper gave Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, opportunity to ask when we had had a business week and how week was spelled.

Mrs. Mann Predicts Hoover Reelection

Women Are Favoring Him, Says Former Democratic Committeewoman.

Commenting on the present political outlook, Mrs. Frank N. Mann, of Huntington, W. Va., former member of the Democratic national committee and twice a delegate to Democratic conventions, yesterday predicted the overwhelming reelection of Herbert Hoover on her return to Washington from a speaking tour.

Mrs. Mann, who left the Democratic party in 1928 to campaign for Mr. Hoover, said: "It is my conviction that the women of our country are for President Hoover as in 1928 and will be a determining factor in his reelection this year.

"The people of the United States are realizing that the President has met the economic emergency in masterful fashion and has presented the only constructive program for recovery. Popular appreciation of what President Hoover is doing has been cumulative in the past few weeks. An informed electorate will reaffirm its indorsement of the President in November."

Trustee for Stockyards Of Swift to Be Chosen

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday ordered Frank J. Hogan, attorney for the Swift & Co., packers, and John Lord O'Brian, Assistant Attorney General, to select a trustee to take over the stockyard holdings of Swift & Co. pending the sale of the holdings.

Mr. Hogan said that because of business conditions a sale of the property had not been consummated and he consented to the appointment of a receiver to manage the properties pending their sale. The sale of the properties was ordered in the lengthy "packers' consent decree" which more than a year ago was entered by the District Supreme Court.

U. S. Rights Upheld On Citizens Abroad

H. M. Blackmer Is Ruled in Contempt by U. S. Supreme Court.

(Associated Press.)

Harry M. Blackmer was told yesterday by the Supreme Court that the United States retains authority over its citizens whether they are in or out of the country.

In a case that had its origin in the Teapot Dome oil trials, the court decided that Blackmer, a Colorado oil operator, should pay $60,000 in fines for contempt of court because he ignored a subpena to return to this country to testify in the Sinclair-Fall trials.

Blackmer went to France just a year before Harry F. Sinclair, a California oil operator, and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, were indicted in the criminal proceedings which grew out of the Teapot Dome leases.

A law was passed giving the Federal Court authority to have United States consuls subpena citizens wanted in foreign countries to serve as witnesses. Blackmer refused to come and contended through his attorneys that the subpenas were illegal.

Chief Justice Hughes in his opinion yesterday held that United States citizens in foreign countries are subject to punishment for failure to respond to proper court orders. He decided the United States can require their return to this country whenever public interest requires.

Mr. Riccardi, who lives in Washington, received injuries of the back in the crash, it is alleged. He is represented by Attorneys Lanadale G. Sasscer, Waldo Burnside and L. A. Widmayer.

G. O. P. SEEN VICTOR AFTER HARD FIGHT

Mrs. Kahn Says Conquest of 'Defeatist Spirit' Is Its Outstanding Task.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Conquest of a "defeatist spirit" was termed the outstanding task facing the Republican party by Representative Florence P. Kahn, of California, tonight at a banquet unofficially opening the party's campaign in Connecticut.

Declaring the Democratic party has spread "insidious poisonous propaganda," Mrs. Kahn said:

"This constant dripping has left its impress on the minds of the people, and 'Oh, what's the use' is an almost prevalent attitude among the Republicans.

"We are not defeated by a long sight, and what's more we are not going to be. But we must work as we have never worked before."

Mrs. Kahn and Senator Hiram Bingham discussed national issues at a banquet of the McKinley Association of Connecticut, attended by Republican leaders from all parts of the State.

Both attacked the eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Kahn contended that prohibition no longer is a political issue, but should be considered as a question "affecting our whole people, socially and economically, and threatening the stability of our Government.

"It is a cancer sapping our vitality," she said. "It will require drastic operation to remove it, but it must be removed to restore a normal, safe, healthy condition."

Senator Bingham, author of a bill to legalize 4 per cent beer, urged modification of the Volstead act to make it "more in conformity with public opinion, and more promotive of temperance in its best and highest sense." Legalized beer, he said, would make possible collection of a tax of $400,000,000 and would aid in relieving unemployment.

Mrs. Kahn, a member of the House military affairs committee, warned that pacifist organizations might innocently give aid to Communists, and urged that the Army be brought to the full strength provided by the national defense act.

Educator to Run On Wet Platform

Arkansas College Founder Also for Jobless Aid in Congress Race.

Mena, Ark., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The founder of one of the strangest educational institutions in America—Commonwealth Labor College, near here—plans to run for Congress this year.

Dr. W. E. E. Zeuch, who give up the presidency of the school a year ago and is now traveling in Europe on a Guggenheim fellowship in the interest of workers' education, will seek the Democratic nomination for the Fourth District seat in Congress, now held by Mrs. Effiene Wingo. His platform will include modification of the prohibition laws, unemployment relief, stronger regulation of public utilities and strict Federal control of banking.

Dr. Zeuch founded the college in the hills near here several years ago. It awards no degrees. The students work on the college farm for their board and attend classes only when they feel like it. The success of a teacher is gauged by the number of students he is able to attract to his classes. The teachers receive no salary.

Federal Attorney Loses Favorite Pen at Court

Assistant United States Attorney Milford Schwartz, at Police Court today is mourning the loss of his favorite fountain pen.

Yesterday the pen was being used in official business in court when Schwartz dropped it and turned to some other business. When he looked for it a moment later, it was gone. No one in a group of 15 persons knew anything about the pen.

SENATE DEFEATS SUBSTITUTE $750,000,000 RELIEF BILL

lina; Coolidge and Walsh, Massachusetts; Costigan, Colorado; Neely, West Virginia; Stephens, Mississippi; Thomas, Oklahoma, and Tydings, Maryland.

Some of these—Costigan and Neely, for example—voted against the substitute because they favored the original bill, which gives the money to the States instead of lending it to them. Others opposed it because they are against tapping the Treasury to help the States.

Senators La Follette and Borah and the other Progressives joined with the regular Republicans in voting against the Democratic substitute.

Oddie Supports Bill.

The only regular Republican who did vote for the substitute bill was Oddie, of Nevada.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, was in favor of going ahead yesterday and voting on the La Follette-Costigan bill. However, Senator La Follette favored a recess until today, and he so moved.

When Vice President Curtis put the motion, the "noes" almost smothered the few "ayes." Nevertheless, Curtis said that the motion had carried and that the Senate would recess until today.

Defeat Is Forecast.

The big question today will be, how many of the Democrats who voted for the substitute bill will vote for the La Follette-Costigan bill. If the prediction of the administration leaders is correct, the number will not be sufficient to bring about passage of the measure.

La Follette and the other Progressives are expected to argue that the Democrats, by voting for the substitute bill, conceded that the States were in need of relief. They are expected to argue further that if the Democrats now fail to vote against a relief bill, they will be open to a charge of inconsistency.

A score or more amendments were acted on yesterday. The Gore amendment, providing that goods instead of money be distributed to the needy, was rejected when La Follette pointed out that many of the destitute needed money for rent. The Wagner amendment, under which relief funds would be distributed on the basis of 1930 census of unemployed instead of population, also was rejected. La Follette contended that the unemployment census was not altogether reliable.

Among the amendments to be acted on today is one by Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, adding $250,000,000 to the bill, the additional sum to be used for public works. Then there is the Couzens amendment, advancing $375,000,000 to the President, that official to distribute the money to the States most in need.

The telegram sent to Senator Wagner by Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, said:

"I am glad you are working for the unemployment relief bill. It is an important factor in the present emergency. It will equalize the burden throughout the Nation.

"Although it should not be regarded as a permanent Government policy, nevertheless it is justified as carrying out the definite obligation of Government to prevent starvation and distress in this present crisis."

HOOVER'S HIGH RANK IN HISTORY IS SEEN

Will Take Place as One of Wisest Leaders, Says Senator Jones.

The prediction that President Hoover will have his place in history among the wisest, most courageous and patriotic of our Presidents was made last night by Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, in an address over the radio.

"Harsh criticism, personal slurs and insinuations have been hurled at President Hoover on the floor of the United States Senate, in the public press and from the public platform," he said. "He has borne them without complaint, conscious of his own honest intentions.

"Our interest and welfare is his highest aim. He will make any personal sacrifices for the people's good. * * * It may be encouraging to men now in high positions dealing with the difficult problems of the Government and who are earnestly striving to do the best possible for the welfare of our people, but who are severely criticized in their personal characters, their motives and their honesty impugned, to recall the facts showing that the great men in our history who in their own day were most severely denounced are today the most idealized.

"When our people return again to the high plane of prosperity, as they will; when the future historians write of these troublous times and the unselfish leadership of those who conducted us through them; when his calumniators and detractors are forgotten, Herbert Hoover will have his place among the most courageous and patriotic of our Presidents."

The election was for the administration offices and for 22 members of Congress, half of the total membership. President Gonzales had taken precautions against election troubles by issuing regulations interpretating doubtful and conflicting provisions of the election laws.

The Ricardo Jimenez party has charged that police authorities in the provinces were overzealous in promoting the caus. of Quesada and the president sent police from the Province of Cartago, a stronghold of Ricardo Jimenez, to superintend the voting, which was by secret ballot. Ricardo Jimenez has served two four-year terms as president in the past, has been a member of Congress four times, and was once chief justice of the Supreme Court. He is 72 years old. Both his father and grandfather were presidents of Costa Rica.

Miners' Protest Session Prevented

Guardsmen and Special Police Deputies Turn Back Unionists.

Barboursville, Ky., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—State troops today prevented a scheduled National Miners' Union demonstration in protest against the slaying of Harry Simms Hersh, union organizer. Thirty members of the Harlan unit of the Kentucky National Guard, augmented by 50 special police deputies, patroled the outskirts of the city and turned back a few miners who came here unaware of banning of the miners' meetings.

A union memorial committee from Knoxville, Tenn., had announced it would take charge of the body and hold a mass protest at services just outside the city, before sending it home.

Authorities, however, permitted only two members of the committee to enter the town and they, together with Miss Dorothy Wilkes, New York nurse, who came to Pineville near here, recently with a committee of New York writers, took charge of the body.

New York State, where Ryan lived for 57 years, during which he amassed his wealth, received the bulk of the inheritance and estate taxes, totaling $25,055,639. The transfer tax New York received alone amounted to $9,241,187. Federal taxes took $5,011,131 of the estate, which also paid a small tax on real estate and personal property in Ryan's native State of Virginia.

The only larger estate in the history of the transfer tax bureau was that of the late Payne Whitney. It totaled approximately $180,000,000.

EAST'S RAIL MERGER HEARINGS RESUMED

(Associated Press.)

Hearings on the application to consolidate Eastern railroads into four systems were resumed yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission with attention centered on the Van Sweringen's holdings.

J. W. Carmalt, representing the Virginia Corporation Commission, started the proceedings before Chairman Porter of the commission with cross-examination of R. S. Marshall, vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, one of the Van Sweringen roads.

Before the investigation was adjourned temporarily several weeks ago, Mr. Marshall presented a mass of statistics in support of an application to consolidate Eastern roads around the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, and the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate systems.

The commission has proposed a five-system consolidation. The applicants claim the fifth system is unfeasible and asked the commission to amend it to provide for four.

Virginia is particularly interested because the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, and the Virginian Railroad, all involved in the consolidation plan, carry great quantities of coal from Virginia and West Virginia mines.

Indications are the hearings will continue until well into March.

Georgian Recants Smith Allegiance

Congressman Parker Calls for Nominee Free From Defeat.

(Associated Press.)

A Georgia Democrat last night asked for a party standard-bearer in 1932 "who can enter the campaign unscarred by former battles and unmarked by the diatribes of vicious opponents."

Addressing the Democratic Women's Educational Council, Representative Homer G. Parker said:

"At this stage of the game, along comes Alfred E. Smith and his little brown derby. He probably figures that since the Democrats have done so much to rehabilitate Mr. Hoover that it is up to him to add his mite also.

"In 1928 I supported Gov. Smith whole-heartedly. I took especial pride in the vote of the State of Georgia for the Democratic candidate when neighboring States were deserting our cause. I am convinced that Gov. Smith's candidacy in 1932 will do much to deter the party."

Cleveland Elects Its Mayor Today

First in 10 Years Will Be Chosen; Police to Be on Guard.

Cleveland, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The dying blast of Cleveland's bitter mayoralty election contest rumbled here tonight, with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and 30 State inspectors warning that armed deputy sheriffs would be banned from the booths tomorrow, when the first mayor in ten years will be chosen by popular vote.

Brown and his inspectors came here to check charges of fraudulent registration and to guard against intimidation of any of the 175,000 citizens expected to choose between Daniel E. Morgan, Republican, former city manager, and Ray T. Miller, Democrat, county prosecutor.

The secretary of state told the county administration, controlled by Democrats, that guns, badges and uniforms would be taboo in the booths. Fred Alber, chief deputy sheriff, said deputies would act as witnesses and challengers, but they would be unarmed. Police were detailed to guard voting booths tonight to prevent any theft of ballots, and more will be on duty tomorrow to guard angainst any possible slugging and intimidation.

Water Bill Action Slated for Today

2 Other Measures to Be Discussed by Senate District Body.

Senator Millard E. Tydings' bill to link Washington's water supply with adjoining Maryland Counties under a system administered in Maryland by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, will be considered by the Senate District committee at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Tydings proposal would authorize the District Commissioners to confer with the Suburban Sanitary Commission, with the understanding that any terms worked out would not jeopardize the Capital's water supply.

Two other bills will be taken up, Chairman Arthur Capper announced. They include new regulations for the inspection of steam boilers in the District and a bill to amend the prevailing law for condemnation of insanitary buildings.

Drought of 1930 Is Finally Broken

Geological Survey Says Heavy Rains Restored Water Supplies.

(Associated Press.)

The heavy rainfall in the last month of 1931 and the early part of 1932 has effectively broken the Nation-wide drought which began in 1930.

The Geological Survey announced yesterday that drought conditions are gradually disappearing under heavy precipitation and there is a marked improvement in both surface and ground water supplies.

"The indications are," the report said, "that during 1932 water supplies in most sections of the country will return to normal."

United States Weather Bureau records for 1931 show that precipitation was below normal in 41 States and in three of these—Alabama, Georgia and South Dakota—it was lower than previously recorded.

Portgual went on record as favoring the abolition of gas, bacteriological and chemical warfare and the use of bombing airplanes, as well as limitation of army by budgetary means.

ENGINEERING STAFF OF DISTRICT FILLED

Capt. Clark, of Fort Lewis, Assigned as Assistant Commissioner.

All available executive positions in the recently reorganized District engineer department were filled yesterday with the assignment by the War Department of Capt. Howard P. Clark, of the Sixth Engineers, Fort Lewis, Wash., to Washington as assistant engineer commissioner.

Capt. Clark will have general supervision of the construction activities and land-purchasing, taking over the general duties of Maj. H. L. Robb, who was transferred first to the Chief Engineer's office and recently to the Canal Zone.

Lieut. Robert E. York, who was ordered to report to engineer commissioner several weeks ago, has not arrived. He will take over the duties carried on by Capt. Hugh P. Oram, who resigned from the Army.

Capt. Clark is 47 years old and an able engineer, according to Maj. D. A. Davison, acting Engineer Commissioner, who served with him on two previous assignments.

Although an amendment to the reorganization of the engineer department has placed all three assistant engineer commissioners on the same basis, instead of having one designated as an executive officer, each of the assistants will have a different service rank in the present setup.

Capt. Clark, who is not expected here for six weeks, served in the World War as a major. A native of Kansas, he was graduated from Leland Stanford University in 1908 and in 1912 he received the degree of bachelor of science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Baltimore, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A military board of investigation today reported that the death of Capt. Lewis A. Day, found shot to death in his quarters at Fort G. Meade February 7, was "suicide during a period of mental derangement." The report of the board is final, it was explained.

The officer, who was 38, was connected with the Tank Corps and was a native of Iowa. His widow, who resides at the fort; two children by a former marriage and his parents, who live at St. Louis, survive.

SENATOR CLAUDE A. SWANSON.

UNITED STATES SENATOR CLAUDE AUGUSTUS SWANSON, of Virginia, is now in Geneva, Switzerland, working along with the statesmen of 60 other nations in the interest of disarmament.

It marks the second time that this Virginia Democrat has been selected by a Republican President for such a mission. In 1929, Swanson was sent abroad to help negotiate the London naval treaty. Senator Swanson is accustomed to have Presidents lean on him. Back in the World War days, he was one of President Wilson's most trusted lieutenants on Capitol Hill. At that time he was chairman of the Senate naval committee, having taken over the post upon the death of Ben (Pitchfork) Tillman, of South Carolina. It was Swanson who sponsored the $500,000,000 naval building program in 1916, a program which produced most of the capital ships that now fly the Stars and Stripes.

Swanson looks and acts like a Virginia statesman might be expected to look and act. He upholds all the traditions of the Old Dominion. He is tall, courtly and of distinguished mein. When he makes a speech, he declaims in the old-fashioned manner, and his voice, a rich one, carries to the farthermost gallery.

The senator was born March 31, 1862, at Swansonville, Va. His parents were not affluent, and the result was that he had to work his way through school. After leaving the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, he worked for two years as a grocery clerk, and then went to Randolph-Macon College for two years.

He was elected to the House in 1893, served six successive terms, and then resigned to become Governor of Virginia. In 1910 he was appointed to the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of John W. Daniel. He has been in the upper house ever since.

Geneva Learns That War Is Suspected in Shanghai

By JOHN J. DALY

GENEVA is thrown into a state of nervous tension by rumors of war somewhere. The League of Nations has just heard from its investigators. They report that "a state of open war exists," and they suspect it is at Shanghai, but they are not sure.

In this emergency a secret meeting of the league's council is called. If the rumors should be verified, there may be a full assembly of the league or an assembly of the full league. Something, undoubtedly, will be done by somebody. But first the war must be located.

The people of the United States have heard a lot about the unpleasantness. At first, they tried to minimize the danger. Then, acting on the principle that where there is smoke there must be fire, they reconciled themselves to the fact that something actually was going on, and it looked like war. Try as they would, they could not quite convince themselves that it was only target practice. Now, with the League of Nations hearing from its investigators, the jig is up. It must be war.

Since the League of Nations has taken the case under advisement, there is only one thing to do: Sit back and wait.

There was a story broadcast about the battle of Shanghai. The Japanese army and navy combined in an attack on the Chinese. Warships, regiments, guns and planes went into action. The campaign, divided into two attacks, saw 20,000 Japanese soldiers and sailors swing into the Chapei district behind the International Settlement. Then came the bombardment of the Woosung forts, 16 miles away. There, as it is poetically expressed, the Whangpoo River runs into the great Yangtze. Though Woosung was called China's Verdun, the League of Nations had not even heard of it.

• • • •

UNITED STATES and British steamers and battleships, trying to keep out of Japanese fire as Nippon's warships blasted away at Chinese batteries, sent word back to the old folks at home that 5,000 Japanese bluejackets had occupied Woosung Village. Nor were the boys on shore liberty, looking for geisha girls and cabaret entertainment. Even the premier of Italy had sent over a cruiser and a destroyer to protect his daughter, the Countess Ciano, better known as Edda Mussolini, wife of the Italian consul general at Shanghai—and the League of Nations knew nothing at all about it.

America dispatched its own Thirty-sixth Infantry, a gathering of doughboys who marched into the International Settlement singing Mademoiselle from Armentieres." If that isn't war, what is? And the League of Nations is just getting the news.

No wonder they are nervous in Geneva. Boy, switch the call to Switzerland!

ANOTHER MAN SHOT IN IRISH CAMPAIGN

Political Animosities Are at White Heat on Eve of Election.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Political animosities in the Irish Free State, an infant of only ten years in the family of nations, have been fanned to white heat by two assassinations and an attempted murder on the eve of the general election tomorrow.

James Ennis, a government candidate from the Synglos District, County Dublin, was fired upon twice this morning. The hood of his automobile was pierced by the bullets, but he was not hit.

Patrick Reynolds, also a government supporter in the Dail Eireann, and a detective named McGeehan were killed yesterday while delivering political addresses at Foxhill, County Leitrim.

When President William T. Cosgrave heard of the death of Mr. Reynolds, he said:

"May the Lord have mercy on his soul and bring the person responsible to justice. The people are determined that this sort of work shall be stopped and every right-thinking man and woman in the country wishes in God's name that it may be stopped."

Free State troops were being sent tonight to a number of areas to guard the polls as a precautionary measure. The government said no organized attempt to influence the voting was anticipated.

The campaign has been one of remarkable quietness until last night, when the outbreak of violence changed its entire aspect.

Two major parties and several minor groups were named candidates for seats in the Dail. The leader of one of these, the Cumann na nGael, is President Cosgrave, who has headed the Free State for ten years and seeks to return to power.

The chief of the other principal party, the Fianna Fail, is the stormy Eamonn de Valera, who will become president if his group is victorious.

In the fortnight's election campaign the government parties have waged their fight for retention of power on a platform of economic cooperation with England, with a view to tariff preferences, which would mean money in the Irish farmer's pocket, and the contention that to give power to the Fianna Fail would be to foster Communism, lawlessness and favoritism to the "gun bullies."

The Fianna Fail have conducted the most moderate campaign in their party history. The party objects of making Ireland self-contained, further severance from England and such details as abolition of the oath to the king and the land annuities to England, have been restated. The retort to the charge of favoring the gunmen has been the most of these would make good citizens if given a government which they could support. Repeal of the public safety act of 1921, establishing military tribunals for offenses against public order, is promised if Fianna Fail is returned to power.

In the last Dail, which was dissolved January 29, the Cumann na nGael and its allies mustered 85 out of 152 seats. A majority of eight or nine usually could be depended upon in close battles.

BLAGDEN, KIDNAPED, BELIEVED MURDERED

Brothers of Sportsman at Lake Placid Will Offer Reward for Return.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 15 (A.P.). Fearful that their brother has been murdered by his kidnapers, Thomas and Augustus Blagden tonight prepared to offer a reward for Harry H. Blagden's return, with their assurance that the family would not prosecute his abductors.

Mr. Blagden, wealthy sportsman, a bachelor of 45, has been missing since Thursday night. A letter bearing his handwriting, written by Harry, was received by Thomas on Saturday. It demanded $1,000 ransom and designated Tupper Lake as the rendezvous. The brother was there yesterday with the money, but the kidnapers did not show up.

The father of the five Blagden brothers, Thomas, 77, is with his sons Augustus and Thomas. He is on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The other two Blagden brothers, Douglas and Donald, are not here.

State and local authorities who have taken part in investigating the kidnaping, intensified by its setting at the exclusive Lake Placid Club during the winter Olympics, have refused to discuss what steps they have taken to recover the missing sportsman.

State forest rangers have tramped over the woodlands around Tupper, Saranac, Mirror and Placid Lakes, but not a clew to Mr. Blagden has been revealed.

The last seen of him was Thursday night when he took quarters at the club to await the arrival of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, of New York, the following day. Mr. Harriman is the son of the late E. H. Harriman.

While Olympic game visitors danced nearby and the highways purred with passing motors, Mr. Blagden disappeared from his cottage. Outside his window were footprints. None heard an outcry or saw an untoward event.

M'BRIDE DECLINES BEER HEARING BID

Accuses Senator Bingham of Seeking Cross-Examination of Dry Leader.

(Associated Press.)

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, yesterday declined an invitation to appear Friday before a Senate committee conducting hearings on a bill to permit 4 per cent beer.

In a letter to Chairman Metcalf (Republican), Rhode Island, he said he had prior speaking engagement out of town.

Mr. McBride said the attitude of the league was presented before the committee fully by its attorney, Edward B. Dunford. He added that Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, author of the beer bill, "seems to feel that he has lost his opportunity in not being present to cross-examine the representative for the dry organizations and now desires to have the game begin again so that he might go to bat."

(Associated Press.)

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the national prohibition board of strategy, yesterday described as "not impressive" the "prophecies" of Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in his annual report.

He said:

"Mr. Curran's 'wet' prophecies are not impressive. When the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was claiming nearly one-third of the House of Representatives a few years ago and which is only one-half of the requirements for repeal, they only mustered 95 votes, just about 33 1-3 per cent less than their vociferous claims at the time.

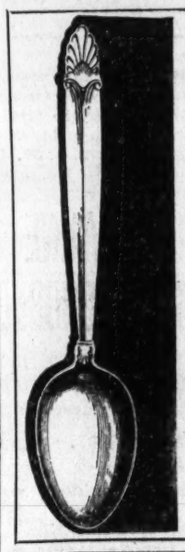

"The few gains in the 1930 election were chargeable to the depression from which prohibition suffered as well as the party which happened to be in power, and were not primarily chargeable to prohibition. • • •

"Mr. Curran says 34 senators now favor a submission resolution, which means a repeal resolution, but when these senators had an opportunity afforded them to help the 'wet' propaganda scheme in the Senate January 21 only fifteen of these militant 'wets' in the Senate voted for the Bingham resolution to invite referenda in the States."

EXPERT TO EXAMINE LITTLE, HELD IN JAIL

State Will Take No Further Action in Arlington Until After Quiz.

Dr. J. S. DeJarnett, superintendent of the Western State Hospital, at Staunton, Va., will be called to Arlington County immediately to examine William Little, of Arlington, Arlington County, confined in the county jail following the finding of his wife's body on the floor of their home Sunday afternoon, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas announced last night.

No indictment will be sought, Mr. Douglas said, until after an examination has been made by Dr. DeJarnett.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields yesterday morning said Little told him, "I was sitting on the sofa at our home with my wife, she asked me to get her beads which I did; she then asked me to put them around her neck, after that I remember nothing."

Sheriff Fields said that he would continue to maintain a special guard at the jail.

Former Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and H. Bruce Green have been retained as Little's counsel.

Gloth said that at his request Dr. Leslie Newman, of George Washington University, Washington, has made a careful examination of the body of Mrs. Little.

Mrs. Roberts has been associated with her husband at St. Paul's Church in Nanking.

Ornate Washington Cake Given Hoover

St. Louis Master Bakers Make Presentation at White House.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was so pleased yesterday at the receipt of a huge and ornately iced cake from the St. Louis Master Bakers Association that he offered its donors a figurative key to the city.

The cake was several feet wide and had upon it a bust of George Washington carved in sugar. Around its edges were delicately fashioned sugar flowers and at intervals replicas of the American eagle. It was fashioned in honor of the Washington Bicentennial Celebration.

The President inspected it for several minutes, after receiving an explanation from Joseph Mackatschek, president of the association, that it weighed 60 pounds, and was so fashioned as to last for 20 years. He lifted the shell to show underneath an edible cake weighing 20 pounds.

"We will be very proud of this for a long time," Mr. Hoover said. "I hope you enjoy your visit here. Any place you can't get into let me know."

DRY WORK ESCAPES HOUSE FUNDS CUTS

Alabama, chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the bill, said the only dispute was over the prohibition allotment. He said unusual difficulties in enforcement resulted in no cut in enforcement funds.

The committee cut Commerce Department allotments $10,292,000 under this year, allowing $44,129,000 for 1933, or $586,000 less than the budget. Savings were made in the census, lighthouse and aeronautics branches.

Although Secretary Stimson testified State Department labors had been increased because of 10 revolutions in foreign countries, the universal economic situation, banditry and conflict in the Orient and the Geneva arms and other conferences, it was allowed $15,198,000, or $3,166,000 less than this year. The budget estimate was cut $1,750,000.

The Labor Department received $14,329,000, a cut of $155,000 under the budget and $655,000 below current expenditures. The immigration service received $10,569,000 to assist it in deporting undesirable aliens and cutting down immigration.

Private Violator Immune To Arrest by U. S. Men

A "private violator" of the Volstead act is one who "makes his own" or "has his own in his pocket." Revenue officers don't bother either, Gen. Amos W. W. Woodcock told the State, justice, commerce and labor appropriations subcommittee, which reported to the House yesterday.

"We have been pursuing the policy of directing our efforts solely against the commercial violator, leaving the private violator to his own conscience or to the forces of education," said Col. Woodcock.

"Is that true in the District of Columbia?" asked Representative George Holden Tinkham.

"If they have gone away from that policy in the District, they have gone contrary to our directions," said Col. Woodcock. "I have had no complaint that any private violator has been molested here."

The prohibition director testified his office made 2,116 liquor cases in the District during the fiscal year 1931. He said his revenue men find more stills in Maryland than in any other State, and have trouble gaining "legal entry" to homes.

Mr. Tinkham asked, "If a man had a still in the window of his home and operated it, how revenue authorities would proceed?"

"In Maryland he would probably have to rap on the door and ask the man if he could see him, then arrest the man, and then seize the still," Col. Woodcock testified.

VICTIMS OF MAINE DISASTER HONORED

Patriotic Groups and Friends Hold 34th Anniversary Observances.

The memory of the sailors and Marines who lost their lives in the explosion and sinking of the battleship Maine, in Havana Harbor, on February 15, 1898, was honored yesterday afternoon with exercises at the Maine shaft in Arlington Cemetery, and in the riding hall at Fort Myer, Va.

Senor Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador, who made one of the principal speeches at the services at Fort Myer, declared that "the flame which preceded the explosion on the Maine illuminated a sinister moment in the history of Cuba, but it brought forth good from the bad, and from sufferance sprang glory.

"The warship, which carried the name of the most beautiful of your States, and Cuba will be intimately bound together in the palpitant reality of daily life," he said. "The Cubans and the citizens of the United States will never forget those men who bowed tragically to destiny."

War Veterans in Charge.

The services were conducted by the United Spanish War Veterans, and addresses were made by George R. Lunn, commander in chief of the veterans; John Lewis Smith, past commander in chief, and Maj. Samuel J. McWilliams, department commander of the District of Columbia United Spanish War Veterans.

Selections, including a march entitled "Battleship Maine," were played by the United States Marine Band. Miss Hazel Arth, former winner of the Atwater Kent audition contest, and now with the National Broadcasting Circuit, sang several solos.

The services were opened with the presentation of colors, and concluded with the firing of three volleys. Invocation and benediction were given by Capt. Ralph C. Deibert, chaplain, U. S. A., at Fort Myer.

Auxiliaries Conduct Services.

The ceremony at the Maine shaft was conducted by auxiliaries of the United Spanish War Veterans of the District. Janet Sikkien, president of the auxiliaries, presided, and Florence H. Baker, national president, and other national officers, were present. Wreaths were placed at the mast which marks the resting place of victims of the Maine disaster.

Havana, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Cuba remembered the Maine today at memorial services attended by President Machado, United States Ambassador Guggenheim, and other notables.

The ceremony was held at the base of the monument raised in memory of the men who lost their lives when the battleship was sunk in Havana Harbor 34 years ago today.

Al Capone Appeals $391,506 Tax Claim

United States Board Is Asked to Redetermine Assessment.

(Associated Press.)

Al Capone, convicted Chicago gang chief, yesterday took his troubles with the Internal Revenue Bureau to the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

The racketeer, now awaiting the outcome of an appeal from conviction for evading income taxes, asked the board to redetermine a $391,506 deficiency levied against him for not paying income taxes from 1924 to 1929. He set forth that the bureau had charged him with having income amounting to from 41 to 52 per cent of the profits of the Cicero gambling syndicate. He said he had no interest in this venture.

He also asserted that the bureau had erroneously assessed him on bank deposits and checks cashed holding that one-sixth of the total was his income but declared that it had not stated who deposited the checks or who cashed them or identified the account.

Aviatrix Dies of Poisoning.

Memorial Rites Held for Wallace.

London, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Peers, actors, novelists, newsboys and city workers mingled today at memorial services for Edgar Wallace, mystery writer, who died in California. The ceremony was held at St. Bride's Church in Fleet street and was attended also by the widow and several of her friends.

JAPAN WITHHOLDS BIG DRIVE AND SENDS MORE SOLDIERS

20,000 men, have been added to his army. This gave him a total force of about 50,000.

The Chinese also improved their status so far as artillery is concerned. New howitzer batteries were put in the line, and the infantrymen worked desperately to strengthen their secondary defenses. Extra supplies of ammunition were issued to Chinese machine gun detachments.

At the same time approximately 10,000 men of the foreign garrison—including the Americans, British and French—improved the defenses they have raised around the International Settlement and the French concession.

Advised to Evacuate.

Indications that the United States authorities feared disorders in other parts of China were seen in an announcement that Americans living along the lower Yangtze Valley had been advised to evacuate. Other foreigners also were reported to be getting out of the interior.

The Japanese consul general apologized to United States Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham for the attack last week on Arthur Ringwalt, American vice consul and Mrs. M. Young an American citizen.

Mrs. Young a Chinese woman born in Los Angeles and Mr. Ringwalt, whose home is in Omaha, Nebr., were set upon by a mob of Japanese when they entered the Hongkew section to get Mrs. Young's baby from a family of her kinsfolk.

The Japanese consul general assured Mr. Cunningham that the attackers would be punished and promised that in the future authorized foreigners would be permitted in the Hongkew district without molestation.

Spasmodic outbursts of fire from both Chinese and Japanese artillery on the Chapei front this morning punctuated the calm which had been virtually undisturbed since early last night, but was of short duration.

Both sides apparently prepared constantly for something, but just what nobody seemed to know. A visit to the positions of both forces revealed that troops were continually on the move. Each side extended its outposts from Chapei to Woosung. Each apparently sought to checkmate the constantly greater preparations going on in the enemy camp.

Further Wage Cut Hits 10,000 Miners

10 Per Cent Reduction Is Second This Year at Mount Hope.

Mount Hope, W. Va., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A further 10 per cent wage cut, affecting about 10,000 miners in Raleigh, Fayette and Boone Counties, will go into effect tomorrow.

Operators of the New River and Winding Gulf Associations announced that the second cut since the first of the year had been made necessary by the general condition of the country; the increase of 6 cents per ton in freight rates recently granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the inability of the New River and Winding Gulf coal fields to meet competition, due to reductions in wages that have been put into effect in some of the neighboring fields, plus the further serious inroads on the coal business made by foreign oils, duty free, and the use of substitute fuels."

A. W. Laing, of Charleston, said the new scale will result in a reduction of from $4.64 for an eight-hour day to $4 for machine runners and from $4 to $3.60 for motormen.

The minimum wage for outside day labor, he said, will be reduced from $3.20 a day to $2.64.

Council Considers China's Plea Today

Special Assembly Expected Not to Be Held Before End of Month.

Geneva, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The general impression tonight was that the meeting of the League of Nations assembly requested by China for consideration of the Shanghai conflict would not be held before the end of the month.

The twelve neutral members of the League of Nations council were to have met today to consider the Chinese requeust, but they postponed their session until tomorrow.

Reports abroad that American representatives would participate in the assembly meeting were scoffed at by United States officials here. They expressed the belief that there was no chance of the United States taking part, particularly in view of the protests which resulted when America sat in on the league council meetings several weeks ago at which time the Sino-Japanese crisis was considered. Chinese authorities were prepared to call upon the league to authorize an economic boycott against Japan unless they obtained the redress they sought through the special meeting of the assembly.

Gherardi Is Appointed Head Of Hydrographic Delegation

Bureau Meeting to Be Held at Monaco, Sessions to Start April 12.

The appointment of Rear Admiral Walter R. Gherardi, hydrographer of the Navy, as chairman of the American delegation at the meeting of the International Hydrographic Bureau, to be held at Monaco, starting April 12, was announced yesterday by the State Department, acting upon the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy.

Rear Admiral Gherardi was born in Honolulu in 1875, the son of Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, of the Navy. He was appointed to the Naval Academy by the President in 1895. In the Spanish-American War he served in the West Indies on the U. S. S. Marblehead and on the Indiana.

He was appointed Naval Attache to the American Embassy in Germany, served in that capacity until the entry of America into the war. He then returned home with the American Ambassador to Germany and was placed in command of the De Kalb, the old German ship Prinz Eitel Friederich.

At the close of the war, Rear Admiral Gherardi served with the peace commission in Paris, and later was in command of the aircraft squadrons in the Atlantic. He completed a course at the Naval War College in 1920.

In June, 1924, he reported for duty as aid to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, and in June, 1926, he was ordered to duty in connection with the fitting out of the aircraft carrier Lexington.

Rear Admiral Gherardi qualified as an aviation observer at Pensacola. He was on duty in the First Naval District from June, 1927, to June, 1928, and came here as a member of the general board.

At the present time, he is a member of the United States Geographic Board, and of the Interdepartmental Ice Observation and Ice Patrol Service. He is also chairman of the committee on navigation and geophysics of the International Scientific Expedition to the West Indies, and is a fellow of the American Geographic Society.

Capt. D. McD. LeBreton, U. S. N., at present the United States naval attache at Paris, and Commander G. T. Rude, of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, are the other members of the American delegation to the conference at Monaco.

JAPAN IS PREPARED TO SEND MORE MEN

War Minister Says Divisions May Be Stationed Around Shanghai.

Tokyo, Feb. 15 (U.P.).—Japan is ready to send more troops to Shanghai to reinforce the 20,000 or more now fighting Chinese armies in the Yangtze Delta.

Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa informed the American, British and French ambassadors today of the government's decision after he had discussed the Shanghai situation with War Minister Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki.

The war minister told Yoshizawa it would be necessary to place Japanese divisions around Shanghai if the conflict became more serious, as advices from Shanghai indicated it would.

Explained to Forbes.

The foreign minister then explained the circumstances to W. Cameron Forbes, United States Ambassador; Sir Francis Oswald Lindley, the British Ambassador, and Count de Martel, the French Ambassador. He reiterated previous arguments concerning the necessity for protection of Japanese lives and property in China and said that, because of the increase in Chinese troops at Shanghai, it would be necessary to send more Japanese units to the scene of warfare.

Yoshizawa said various Chinese divisions were reinforcing the Nineteenth route army in Shanghai.

After the conference with the ambassadors, the foreign minister conferred again with Gen. Araki regarding the additional reinforcements which the army deems necessary.

Meanwhile, a full meeting of the privy council with the emperor presiding, had finally approved the appropriation of 34,000,000 yen (about $12,000,000) which the war ministry considered necessary for driving the Chinese troops from Shanghai.

Conference at Mukden.

Advices from Manchuria that a conference would open tomorrow at Mukden, in preparation for forming a new Manchu state, caused much speculation. Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, the Chinese leader who unsuccessfully defended Tsitsihar against the Japanese, and Chang Ching-Hui, pro-Japanese leader in North Manchuria, will attend the conference.

Viscount Ishii warned the government that it must be cautious about any plans for forming a new state in Manchuria, now entirely in the hands of the Japanese military. Premier Inukai replied that nothing "unreasable" was intended.

The Japanese were reported some time ago to be attempting to set up Henry Pu-Yi, the former boy emperor of China, as head of a new Manchu dynasty at Mukden, but the scheme collapsed.

Baum and Risley Win Prizes for Home Designs

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A two-story house in Fieldston, N. Y., designed by Dwight James Baum, and a one-story dwelling in Palos Verdes, near Los Angeles, designed by Winchton L. Risley, are winners in the better homes in America contest, the American Institute of Architects announced today.

Gold medals will go to the architects. President Hoover is honorary chairman of the organization and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur is president.

Gifts may be left at Community Chest headquarters, 223 Investment Building.

New and additional gifts to the Community Chest continued to reach headquarters, 223 Investment Building, by mail and by personal calls yesterday. Two gifts of $200, one of which was an additional gift, and another of $100, a new contribution, were among those reaching the Chest office.

In the meantime, workers from the metropolitan unit are continuing an informal "clean-up" campaign of their own, seeking persons who have not given or who might make an additional emergency gift, and the members of the group solicitation unit are also conducting a "clean-up" job. A large number of the smaller gifts, both new and additional, are coming to the Chest as a direct result of the appeal being made in the newspapers.

Chest officials are facing a difficult proposition from two directions, it was pointed out yesterday. They are confronted with a deficit and are being asked to meet a constantly increasing demand for relief, due to the unemployment situation.

Gifts received yesterday amounted to $792.06, bringing the total to date to $2,413,006.90, and leaving $187,993.10 yet to be raised to meet the Chest goal of $2,601,000. Nebraska Banks Denied Writ for $2,918,550

Lincoln, Nebr., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—State banks which tried to enjoin Gov. C. W. Bryan and other officials from collecting assessments under the old bank guaranty law and under the present final settlement statute lost their case in District Court today.

Judge E. B. Chappell denied an injunction and entered against the 525 banks judgment of $2,918,550 to cover the assessments. The suit, filed last year by the Hubbell Bank and others, attacked the constitutionality of the final settlement fund law and the validity of assessments under the old law in 1928, 1929, and on January 2, 1930.

JAPANESE DENY INTENTIONS OF NEUTRAL ZONE FIGHTING

The landing of another division and one brigade has brought the number of Japanese forces to approximately 14,000, according to Japanese figures. With these military effectives, of whom 4,000 are marines, the long-expected offensive to "clean up" the Chinese native districts is being anxiously awaited. Dispatches from Shanghai indicate, however, that the total number of Japanese effectives is nearer 25,000.

Meanwhile, the forces of peace were continuing their efforts in the visit of French Ambassador Paul Claudel to the Secretary of State shortly after the Japanese Ambassador had departed. M. Claudel was affable, but vague; he smiled agreeably at the correspondents who surrounded him at his exit from the private office of the Secretary of State, and said nothing.

Coordination of Instructions.

The real purpose of the French Ambassador's formal call was the coordination of the French instructions which have been dispatched both to the French representatives in the Orient and to Ambassador Claudel here. Ambassador Claudel exchanged the confidential reports which the French Ambassador at Tokyo, Count de Martel, and the French Minister now in Shanghai, M. Henri A. Wilden, forwarded to the Quai d'Orsay. In this way the closest relations can be maintained between the United States and France for the reconsideration of any further peace overtures when the moment is opportune.

However, the atmosphere of uncertainty which has prevailed in the region of Shanghai still continued, with the American Consul at Nanking ordering the evacuation of still more Americans there and similar instructions going forward to the Americans at Soochow, Wusih, Changchow and Changau.

American Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham acted on his own initiative with regard to these emergency measures and also urged that all American women and children in the vicinity of Kiangyin be moved to some safe place, preferably Shanghai.

Taken as Precaution.

This measure was simply taken as a precaution in the event that any great uncontrollable movement of Chinese troops either in triumph or in rout endangers the lives of all foreigners left in the threatened areas. This danger from attack was further complicated by reports that the Japanese army was contemplating the use of poison gas in an endeavor to dislodge the Chinese from some of their vantage points. Emphatic denial of this act in contravention to all international and humane conduct was speedily made by the Japanese military and naval attaches through an authorized representative.

It was announced that no such measures have been taken by the Japanese generals and that none are contemplated.

The United States and Great Britain, through their consular representatives at Shanghai, have protested the landing of Japanese troops in the International Settlement in defiance of the agreement recently made with all the other nations. Japan, however, was not a party to this agreement, but formal verbal assurances had been given by the Japanese generals in command that no further military movements of reinforcements would be ordered on this neutral soil.

Consul General Cunningham, in common with his British colleague, cabled the State Department that he had made the following protest to the Japanese consul general at Shanghai:

"I have the honor to refer to a telephone communication from your consulate general at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon (Saturday), informing me that Japanese troops were expected to land at the Nippon Yusen Kaisha wharf in the International Settlement tomorrow, February 14.

Considered to Be Binding.

"In connection therewith I have to state that on behalf of the American Government I protest against any use whatever by either of the disputants of any part of the International Settlement as a base or channel in connection with military operations."

A formal protest to the same effect had been made to the Tokyo government by American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes at the time of the last Japanese violation of the international territory in this fashion and, therefore, was considered to be binding for the reiterated violation of the Japanese military commanders now.

American consular authorities at Shanghai are thoroughly in agreement with the report to the League of Nations regarding the finding of the neutral committee appointed by the league that a state of war now exists in Shanghai. While Mr. Cunningham did not sign it with the other consular officers in Shanghai, he was, nevertheless, authorized to cooperate with the league there and it was made clear that the report undoubtedly had his concurrence.

FIANCE'S QUIZ ASKED IN COOK HOAX DEATH

Consul at Naples Makes Request of Arnold; Girl Named in 5 Wills.

Boston, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—St. George Tucker Arnold, fiance of Miss Elizabeth Barrett Cook, who died under mysterious circumstances at sea February 7, received a message from the American consul at Naples, Italy, tonight requesting him to investigate circumstances of the death.

The message was relayed to Mr. Arnold from Washington by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State. It read:

"Request you be urged to meet Capt. Uncles, master of the steamship Chinese Prince, on arrival February 17 at Boston, and obtain particulars of the death of Elizabeth Cook, who died February 7 at sea off Gibraltar, and investigate a telegram received by the captain for Miss Cook at Naples signed 'Helen James,' and which announced your alleged death."

Secretary Stimson added that the consul stated Mrs. Mabel Cook and Miss Louise Cook, mother and sister of the dead girl, would arrive in New York on February 22 aboard the Conte Biancamano and that Arnold might wish to meet them.

The telegram added new depth to the mystery as Mr. Arnold previously supposed that Miss Cook had received the message before boarding the Chinese Prince and that it was the message that caused her to start for this country.

The message contained an erroneous report of the death of Mr. Arnold and said for Miss Cook not to come home under any circumstances.

After receiving the telegram from Secretary Stimson, Mr. Arnold said his fiancee had been short of funds and that she could not investigate the message which may have resulted in her death.

"She was strapped; she hadn't a nickel more than enough to pay her fare aboard the boat," Arnold said. "How could she investigate? How could she radio home asking for details about my death?" Mr. Arnold asked.

Miss Cook would have benefited under five wills now on file in Massachusetts courts, investigation disclosed today.

Her mother is made a "life tenant" in four of the wills, with Elizabeth and her sister Louise, 17, to come into possession on the death of their mother. While no one was prepared to say what her total share would have been, one official estimated the amount at $100,000.

Her father, Harry M. Cook, once a prosperous Hornell, N. Y., business man, left an estate of about $50,000 according to papers filed in Dedham probate court. Elizabeth's aunt, Miss Jessie W. Cook of Brookline, left personal property worth $57,929, accountings filed there indicated.

Gibraltar, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The mother of Elizabeth Barrett Cook, Boston girl who died recently at sea under mysterious circumstances and was buried here, arrived today on the liner Conte Biancamano in apparent ignorance of a faked telegram reporting the death of her daughter's fiance.

Owing to the brief stay of the vessel, Mrs. Cook, who was deeply distressed, gave no interview. But Richard L. Sprague, United States Consul, saw her for a few moments and said she was under the impression that her daughter died of pneumonia.

CARDOZO NAMED TO SUCCEED HOLMES ON SUPREME COURT

four Democrats. Justice Holmes was a Republican.

For the first time, two members of the Jewish race will sit with the highest tribunal. Justice Louis Brandeis, of Massachusetts, is the other.

Judge Cardozo never has been closely identified with politics. He was elected to the New York court on a bipartisan ticket.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, who first presented his name to the President, said yesterday "he succeeds Mr. Justice Holmes not only in fact but in spirit—for both jurists have captured the admiration and affection of the country by the clarity with which they saw and interpreted the function of law to serve humanity."

Senators Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader; Borah, of Idaho, a pilot of the Republican Independents, and Walsh, of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, heartily indorsed the selection. The President conferred with Senators Watson and Borah, as well as Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Cabinet members, in reaching his decision.

Senator Reed, in commenting on the selection, said: "I think he is not only one of the great judges of the United States, but I am glad to see that the tradition of liberal thought set by Justice Holmes is to be carried on by his successor."

Senator Borah described the appointment as "excellent" and so did Senator Walsh, who was one of those prominently urged upon Mr. Hoover by Senate leaders.

Narrowed List to Eight.

In making his selection Mr. Hoover narrowed a lengthy list of possibilities down to eight, then chose Judge Cardozo. The group included four Democrats and four Republicans. The other Democrats were Senators Walsh, and Robinson, of Arkansas, and Newton D. Baker, of Ohio. The Republicans were Federal Circuit Court Judges William S. Kenyon, of Iowa and Orie L. Phillipps, of New Mexico and D. Lawrence Groner, of Virginia, justice of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and Federal District Judge William H. James, of Los Angeles.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, said he did not know Judge Cardozo but had "heard he is an able judge."

Senator Watson said: "He is one of the ablest judges in America. He will grace the Supreme Bench with dignity and learning and fill the niche made vacant by Justice Holmes. He is a liberal in tendency without being a radical."

Senators of all groups praised the appointment of Judge Cardozo in one of the most universal choruses heard recently on Capitol Hill.

Fine, Declares Norris.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, the chairman of the judiciary committee, said "It is a very fine appointment; I am very glad it was made."

Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York: "I am very happy over his appointment. His service of twenty years on the court of New York has endeared him to our people. We recognize him as a just, righteous man. I know of no man more highly respected. It is an excellent appointment."

Senator Couzens (Republican), of Michigan: "I am delighted at the selection of the President. I wish earnestly to commend him."

Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose retirement from the bench recently created the vacancy to which Judge Cardozo was appointed, expressed great pleasure at the appointment.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas: "He is an eminent judge."

Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware: "All right."

Senator Hull (Democrat), Tennessee: "As strong an appointment as could possibly have been made."

Approved by Vandenberg.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan: "I enthusiastically approve the appointment."

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York: "Fine. The best appointment made in a long time. A worthy successor to the incomparable and only Justice Holmes."

Representative Snell (Republican), New York: "Judge Cardozo has been recognized for many years in our State as having one of the finest legal minds in the whole country. I think he will make a very valuable addition to the Supreme bench."

Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri: "A most excellent appointment. Judge Cardozo is one of the ablest men I know, and I had opportunity to watch him work. He uses fine judgment, and the country is very fortunate to have him named for the Supreme bench."

"sad consequences" of the course he had pursued.

"A storm will rage over Germany when the signal to attack is given to sweep away the corrupt and old, who rose through a system based on treason, and to clear the path for the young Germany that will follow its leader against whomever he calls," the Nazi statement said.

In opposition to the president in the election will be a thus far unnamed National Socialist-Nationalist candidate and Ernest Thaelmann, Communist, who obtained almost 2,000,000 votes in the last election in 1925 and seems certain to get more this time.

Leaders of the forces supporting President von Hindenburg estimated his probable vote at 18,000,000 to 19,000,000 and the total opposition at 12,000,000 to 14,000,000, but in the present state of politics in Germany this was merely guesswork.

The Reichstag will meet February 23 to fix the date for the election. It has been proposed that the first balloting take place March 13 and the second, if needed, April 19.

The former field marshal announced his candidacy in the following formal statement:

"After serious consideration I have decided, conscious of my responsibility for the fate of our fatherland, to place myself at the disposal of the people for reelection.

"The fact that the request to do so came to me not from one party, but wide classes of the population, makes me look upon my declaration of readiness as a duty.

"In the event of my election I shall continue to serve the fatherland faithfully, conscientiously and with all the strength at my command in order to help it to achieve liberty and equality abroad, unity and revival at home.

"Should I fail of reelection then I will be spared the reproach that I deserted my post at a serious time.

"One Real National Goal."

"For me there is but one real national goal—welding our people together in its struggle for existence, unstinting devotion of every German in the arduous contest for preservation of the nation."

President von Hindenburg is 84 years old and there has been talk that his age makes him unavailable, but his adherents have pointed out that Wilhelm I, whom the old field marshal greatly venerates, reigned until he was almost 91, and the reich flourished under him.

Second Man Found In $7,000 Holdup

Driver of Car Used in 1930 Robbery Is Inmate of Insane Asylum.

The second participant in the holdup of Miss Eleanor Page, assistant treasurer of Children's Hospital, in which $7,000 was stolen on July 31, 1930, has been located in a Knoxville, Tenn., insane asylum.

Earl C. Roberts, said to be of Fairfax, Va., is the man who has been found. He drove the roadster in which Walter Jones, the holdup man, escaped, according to police. Jones is now serving five years for his part in the holdup. He was arrested in San Diego, Calif., a few months after the holdup.

Detective Sergt. Van D. Hughes, who found Jones, also located Roberts. Hughes also has located Philip W. Bowers, a jeweler, who disappeared several months ago with jewelry of about 100 customers. He is in an insane asylum in Binghamton, N. Y. Neither Roberts nor Bowers can be returned here for prosecution because of their mental condition.

"Their thoughts must dwell," concluded Mrs. Walker, "as they write their essays, on the heroic deeds of George Washington during his lifetime. And with the recollection should come the hope that they, too, should opportunity call, would be glad to serve America in some way even as he had served it.

"Good luck to The Post George Washington Essay Contest!"

Once more it is reiterated for the benefit of the contestants that any phase of Washington's life may be selected as the topic for the essay. There is no attempt to restrict essays to any particular feature of Washington's career. In this way a greater scope for their varying talents will be found.

Hundreds of essays are now in the hands of The Post Contest Editor. They are being sorted into age groups for submission to the judges after the contest closes on March 14. While there is no desire on the part of the essay editor to hasten any contestant in preparation of his entry, still, any that can be turned in in advance of the closing date will be appreciated greatly.

JAPAN'S DEADLY COURSE.

Japan and China are about to engage in a major battle at Shanghai. This battle will probably put an end to the hope of early peace. If Japan should win its victory would serve as a tocsin of war in China, and the Chinese people would undoubtedly organize for hostilities on an immense scale. If the Chinese forces should defeat the Japanese in the forthcoming battle there would be no alternative for Japan but to send reinforcements in an endeavor to crush resistance. Japan finds, like other aggressors, that it is easier to plan limitations of hostilities than it is to induce the antagonist to agree to them. War, "like an ill-sheathed knife," cuts the hand that wields it.

The use by Japan of the International Settlement as a base of operations brings forth vigorous protests from the United States and other governments affected. Step by step, Japan is becoming involved in entanglements which will prove costly to her, however disagreeable they may be to others. The powers will not resort to war if they can possibly avoid it. A great battle at Shanghai may result in the killing of neutrals and thereby compel the defensive forces of the neutral powers to go into action. Only a recklessness akin to desperation could drive the Japanese commanders to run this risk of making enemies of the great powers.

The lengths to which Japan has already gone make it certain that the empire will be called to account for treaty violations. This accounting may take the form of diplomatic adjustments in case the war should go no further; but since no nation can control a war once started, it seems probable that Japan will be driven into still more gross violations of treaties in struggling with the stubbornly resisting Chinese. Thus staggering obligations may be incurred by the Japanese empire, permanently impairing its standing among nations.

STABILIZING EMPLOYMENT.

Unemployment reserves to be set up by each firm to care for its own idle men are favored above general unemployment insurance in the report of the Interstate Commission on Unemployment Insurance. This body, organized by the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey, six of the foremost industrial States, has completed an intensive study of the whole field of industrial insurance. Its conclusions doubtless will have far-reaching effect on any legislation that the States adopt to meet the unemployment problem.

European forms of unemployment insurance, most of which have descended to mere doles, were dismissed as unsuitable to the needs of American industry. The commission insists that insurance against the exigencies of industrial work should be kept entirely separate from the administration of relief. Most of the European insurance systems have been wrecked by the appropriation of government funds to supplement the contributions of workers and industries. In the plan which is recommended for the States the Federal Government would play no part. The States would administer the relief fund, but would contribute no part of it.

All industries employing more than six workmen would be required to set aside unemployment reserves. An amount equal to 2 per cent of the firm's pay roll would be paid into the fund until the reserve equaled $30 for each employe. Then the contribution would be reduced to 1 per cent. The financial responsibility of an employer would be strictly limited to the amount of this reserve fund.

Employes would make no contribution to the fund. The commission held to the theory that industry itself, and not wage earners, should be charged with the responsibility of stabilizing employment. By requiring the employer to supply all of the reserve fund it is hoped that employers may be induced to provide regular employment. One other factor is designed to encourage stabilization. The reserve funds would not be merged into a great pool that might be dissipated by irresponsible industries. Funds contributed by an employer could be used only for the employes within his plant. Another serious defect in the European unemployment insurance plans is thus eliminated.

The maximum benefit that any employe might receive would be $10 per week for ten weeks within any one year. That amount would doubtless be too meager to encourage idleness. At any rate, employes would be made to realize that benefits would not run on perpetually, because the employer's liability would be limited to the amount of his reserve, and there would be no siphon into the public treasuries.

The wisdom of having the States administer the reserve funds instead of merely supervising their administration is open to question. In general, however, the interstate commission's plan seems to be the most practical approach that has been made to a satisfactory work insurance system. It would not, of course, remove the widespread need for direct relief in times like the present, but it might lay the foundation for more stable employment and for relief of those who are only temporarily without work.

EAGER FOR PROSPERITY.

The stock market last week made as sudden and sensational a start upward from rock bottom as its precipitate drop from the clouds in 1929. For weeks it has been evident that standard stocks and bonds were selling at prices that were not justifiable except upon the theory that the country would never recover from the depression. Never before in the history of the various periods of hard times experienced by the United States has the Nation, at the end of more than two years, been in a condition where only one element was lacking for recovery—confidence.

The phenomena of overconfidence and of undue fear apparently exert their mass influence in much the same manner. Recently standard railroad bonds have been going begging at less than 50 cents on the dollar, levels that returned a yield of 8 per cent in a market that was loaning money at 3 per cent, while the securities of European governments that had not defaulted fell to levels that would yield two and three times as much. It is not so surprising that there should have been greater loss of confidence in foreign securities, in view of the many suspensions of interest payments, but prime American stocks and bonds have deserved better treatment.

It was but 28 months ago that dividends, earnings, book values were all swept aside and the price of stocks inflated threefold beyond the normal level of "ten times earnings." Stocks were boosted ten points a day that were already on a dividend basis of less than 2 per cent. Buying on future values was the order of the day. It was as futile, during that orgy of speculative enthusiasm, to preach caution and overinflation as it has been during recent months to point out unjustifiably low prices of securities.

Last Thursday the investing world awoke to learn that the President, supported by members of Congress of both parties, had proposed another important measure for the relief of the credit situation. It was at once recognized as offering the widest and promptest aid of anything yet suggested. To unlock the vast resources of the Federal Reserve system was a master stroke, and its possibilities for good were instantly appreciated. With the knowledge that the measure was assured of prompt passage by Congress the market broke all records in the percentage rise in the value of stocks.

The spontaneous response of stocks, bonds and commodities to this legislation shows how keenly the country watches the course of events and how eager the public is to resume the march to prosperity.

JUSTICE CARDOZO.

The President has selected a great jurist to succeed Oliver Wendell Holmes upon the Supreme Court bench. Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo has been chief justice of the Court of Appeals of New York State for seventeen years, having previously served on the bench of the State Supreme Court. He stands at the forefront of American judges. His opinions have inspired admiration for his philosophy as well as for his knowledge of the law. The human sympathy of his writings long ago drew attention to his fine qualities as a man. Deep study of the law has not put him out of touch with everyday humanity.

The new justice is a Democrat. It is well that the President should keep the two great parties substantially represented on the supreme bench. Although politics does not enter into their labors, public confidence is maintained when the common citizen perceives that partisanship is ignored in filling such high places.

Justice Cardozo is in vigorous health and has before him the prospect of many years of service. His nomination is universally commended, and he will enter upon his duties with the best wishes of the people.

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG.

Germany's inveterate soldier and statesman, Paul von Hindenburg, will again run for the presidency of the Reich, at the age of 84 years. With the exception of the Hitlerites and the Communists, the German electorate is almost unanimous in demanding that he continue to serve.

It is well known that President von Hindenburg wished to retire. He was in retirement prior to the war, yet he became the dominating figure in Germany both during the war and throughout the postwar period. Von Hindenburg is known as Germany's man of steel. One can not picture him relinquishing his post when the Republicans of Germany unitedly request him to carry on.

The decision of President von Hindenburg to seek another term is a blow to the Hitlerites and the Communists. Both of these factions have been looking forward to the elimination of this stalwart character from the political field as an opportunity to strangle the German republic. But so long as President von Hindenburg holds the front line against their intrigues they will not be able to make much headway. Germany's grand old statesman stands firmly on the platform of "liberty and equality abroad, unity and revival at home."

Chancellor Bruening foolishly attempted to have President von Hindenburg's term extended without reelection, which would have weakened the constitution that he is endeavoring to uphold. Adolf Hitler, the Brown Shirt leader, defeated the plan. Loyal Germans probably now recognize that the Fascist chief did Germany a good turn in frustrating an irregularity in the presidential succession. The veteran president will undoubtedly be elected once more, and even though he may not be equal to seven more years as chief executive, he will be able to step gracefully aside when the present crisis is passed.

The world is more inclined to cooperate with Germany in a solution of her problems when President von Hindenburg is at the helm. The June conference at Lausanne can proceed with a new settlement of the reparations question on a basis that will be fair to Germany without jeopardizing the treaties on which the peace of Europe rests.

Costa Rica held a presidential election without any disorders. It must be great to live in a country where elections are peaceful.

Japan proposes to use "sterner measures" in Shanghai. Maybe the Japs will follow the American precedent and send some notes.

Judging from the size of the appropriations in the proposed relief bills, the taxpayers are the ones who will be relieved.

President Hindenburg of Germany will seek reelection. His campaign will probably be for more and bigger moratoriums.

"Federal architects to dine," says a headline. We have known all along that business was getting better.

AMERICA AND JAPAN

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

II.

In the first article comparing the naval strengths of America and Japan we concluded that their relative strength in capital ships could be expressed by the following tonnages: America, 364,500; Japan, 231,260.

Consider now the aircraft carriers available during 1932. We have three ships of 77,500 tons. Japan has four ships of 68,870 tons. The number of planes which can be operated from the two carrier groups is about the same, 210.

We have two very large carriers of 34 knots' speed. These vessels can accompany the fleet at all times. As they are the fastest large ships afloat they can also conduct missions independent of the fleet. However, these ships were converted from battle cruisers and consequently their design is comparatively poor. The number of planes they can operate is very small when compared with their great size. Our third carrier is a converted collier and can make only 15 knots. Consequently it is of use only for secondary operations.

Japan has two large and two small carriers. The two former were converted from capital ships and thus are of comparatively poor design. The two small ships were originally designed and built as carriers and thus are effective ships. Perhaps they are a little too small—about 7,500 tons. All four Japanese carriers can make from 23 to 28 knots. Thus all can accompany the fleet in high-speed operations. The availability of four landing points, as against our two, increases the effectiveness of all the Japanese fleet aircraft, including planes based on battleships and cruisers. On the other hand, the Japanese carriers can not conduct independent operations unless strongly supported by cruisers or even battle cruisers.

Everything considered, the Japanese carriers, ton for ton, are probably more effective than ours. But in the quality of planes flown from carriers it is considered that we have a considerable advantage. These factors just about balance. Thus we consider the carrier groups, ton for ton, to be equally effective.

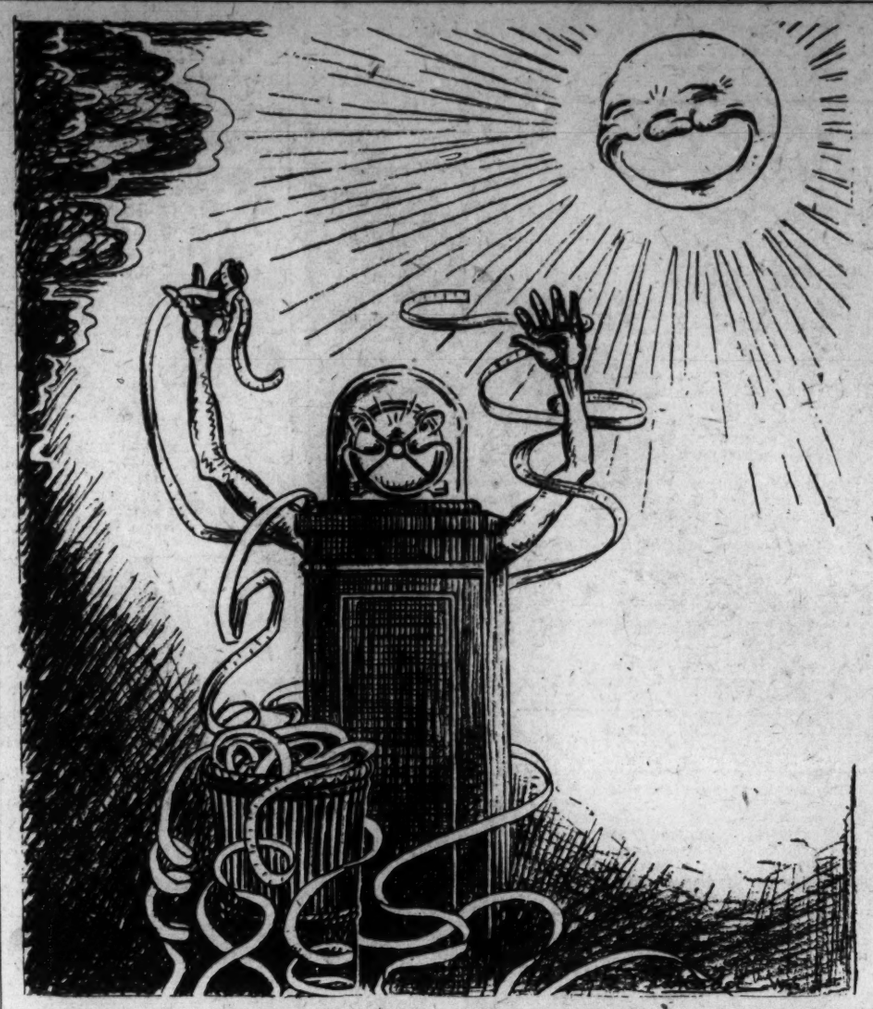

Now we come to the much debated cruiser problem. We will have during 1932 20 cruisers of 163,400 tons. Japan will have 29 of 189,855 tons. This eliminates all ships twenty or more years old. Japan has five such ships to our one, but none is of any real value.

Our twenty cruisers are divided equally into two types. We have ten large 6-inch cruisers, each about 7,000 tons, and ten 8-inch cruisers, varying between 9,000 and 10,000 tons. Our oldest cruiser was completed in 1923. Ten of the Japanese cruisers were completed prior to that date. Thus our cruisers average somewhat newer than the Japanese. Our cruisers are well built, with two very important exceptions. The battery of the 6-inch cruisers is poorly located and is made up of twin-mount and single-mount guns, a fact which does not contribute to accuracy and rapidity of fire. The protection of some of the 8-inch cruisers is poor. Our only consolation in this respect is that most of the other navies have made the same mistake, some even to a greater degree than ours. The fact that our first 8-inch cruisers displace only about 9,000 tons allows us the opportunity to increase their armor without exceeding the 10,000-ton limit.

The Japanese cruisers are divided into three types. There are eight large 8-inch cruisers, built to the limit of 10,000 tons. These are well-built ships with 10-gun batteries. There is no official information on the thickness of armor. Jane's Fighting Ships estimates it as three to four inches. This is above the average for 8-inch cruisers. Then there are four small 8-inch cruisers of 7,100 tons. This type is not generally favored, being considered too small for 8-inch guns. Finally, there are seventeen small cruisers, mounting 5.5-inch guns. Most of them are about 5,100 tons. These are finely-designed craft and valuable for many purposes. The present trend of naval opinion favors rather larger ships.

Everything considered, we believe the cruisers of the two navies, ton for ton, are equally effective. This brings our relative strength in capital ships, aircraft carriers and cruisers in 1932 to the following:

United States, 605,400.
Japan, 489,935.

POST HASTE.

The Shanghai commission of the League of Nations reports that a state of "open war" exists. What a slander on Japan's little private argument with China!

The Federal reserve bill and the stock market have joined the American Legion's drive for 1,000,000 jobs and will be valuable aids de camp.

Speaking of politics, Newton Baker finds Mexico a very interesting country to visit.

Oh, you parliamentary system! Premier Laval concludes the momentous reparations agreement with Great Britain, and today his government faces possible defeat over a minor electoral measure.

The dominating party in Germany is that of the Social Democrats. Possibly there is method in Mr. Raskob's victory dinners.

Japan demands the withdrawal of Chinese from Shanghai just as though they were trespassing upon her Manchurian territory.

Josephus Daniels refuses to be a candidate for Governor of North Carolina. No true Democrat will aim so low before the presidential nominee is selected.

Nothing superstitutious about Frank Knox, who is going to dig up the dead dollars to provide more ghost walks.

As the harmony efforts increase Democrats become farther apart among themselves than they are from Republicans.

Japan will find that the two-edged sword of modern warfare, opposing her is ruinous war expenses and ruined trade,

LIFE'S NEED.

'Twas little that we learned in happier days
To serve us now; the winds blow bleak and cold;
Who gains from youth the art of being old,
Or in good health gives thought to palsy's ways.
Men must plant crops they may not live to raise
And cling to things which better might be sold.
For if the future surely could be told
Dull things indeed would be both blame and praise.
Life holds a zest because we can not know
To what of pride or failure we proceed;
Can never guess just what will come or go,
Or to what goal tomorrow's path may lead.
The best that we can hope for, high or low,
Is to possess the courage we may need.

Why Take Preventive Medicine if You Won't Take Enough to Prevent Disease?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE first duty of a nation is to protect its people.

If that is true, the first duty of statesmen is to provide a means of protection.

Means of protection are few. Statesmen must choose between treaties and armaments.

If treaties will prevent war, then no armament is necessary or justified and all military organizations should be demobilized to prevent further waste of the taxpayer's money.

If treaties will not prevent war, then armament is necessary to protect the lives and property of the people. And armament is necessary so long as one mad, arrogant nation bent on conquest disregards treaties.

If that is true, the only question that remains is how much armament is necessary.

The answer is easily found.

If you must cross a field infested with poisonous snakes, do you protect yourself by wearing boots almost heavy enough to prevent the penetration of their fangs?

Why call it protection if it doesn't protect?

When a nation builds a vault to protect its hoard of gold from thieves, is it content with a structure that will survive the explosion of ten sticks of dynamite? Or twenty? Or forty?

Or does it build the vault so strong and safeguard it so well that no conceivable combination of wit and power can open it?

What is the value of a protection that almost protects?

If the snakes in the field are not poisonous, it is absurd to wear any protection at all. If they are poisonous, common sense requires the wearing of boots so heavy and so tough that no fang can penetrate them.

If treaties protect America, the building of battleships, pursuit planes and submarines is a criminal waste.

If protection depends on armament, elemental common sense requires an armament that will protect—an armament so complete, so modern and so powerful that no conceivable enemy could overcome or withstand it.

Given that protection, America would have no wars to win, for no enemy would dare attack.

Nations never begin a war if they know they have no chance to win.

The President could find no better successor to Mr. Mellon at this time than the Undersecretary, Ogden Mills—an administrator of high rank exceptionally qualified by his studies no less than by his experience in Congress and in the Treasury Department as a specialist in taxation, banking and the Government's financial problems. The new Undersecretary, Arthur A. Ballantine, formerly of this city, is also highly competent. However, their social philosophy and economic theory might be criticized by some people, it is many years since men technically better fitted to serve the Government than President Hoover, Secretary Mills and Undersecretary Ballantine have been in charge of the fiscal administration of the United States Government.

Secretary Hurley illuminated the whole problem of Filipino "independence" when he told the insular committee of the House of Representatives that the islands can have no political independence until they have achieved some measure of economic independence.

That, indeed, is the only true solution of the problem of the Philippines—and it is not in sight. The islands have not yet provided an economic foundation capable of supporting the superstructure of political independence. Their dependence today is an economic dependence upon the United States far more than it is the mere political dependence of which the native politicians make so much in their appeals to the national spirit of the Filipino people. Mr. Hurley revealed the weakness in those appeals, as respects the welfare of the people of the islands, when he said no Filipino leader had been able to inform him how an independent government could be maintained in the islands except through favored trade relations with the United States.

A Tumulty Vision.

Springfield Union.

Mr. Joseph P. Tumulty, who charges Democratic leaders and candidates with running away from the peace ideals of President Wilson, to whom Mr. Tumulty was a faithful secretary, places altogether too high an estimate on the capacity of the Democratic leaders to stick to one issue for more than two years. He confesses to a wonder if these acts of "surrender of the cause of peace to the mob" are not those of expediency.

Of course they are, Mr. Tumulty. Democratic strategy is always based on a Democratic conception of expediency. It may be wrong, generally is, but it is the only Democratic substitute for a deficiency in positive convictions and policy such as Al Smith properly demands but so far has not supplied.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Reminders of the Patriots of the Revolution and the Precepts of Their Leader.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: About 160 years ago a number of the leading men of the British colonies in North America were discussing the possibilities of the colonies becoming free and independent states.

One of them remarked that they might be hanged if not successful. Another said that if they did not hang together they would surely hang separately. And hang together they did through eight years of the hardest struggle ever put up by any people to gain their independence from a tyrannical government.

Out of this struggle came the United States of North America. Out of the minds of the men who did not hang separately came a Constitution that has been considered the best of its kind and has since been used as a model by other peoples founding new governments.

The wisdom of the men who wrote this Constitution has been praised by all men since. Their patriotic actions and sayings have been used to instill into succeeding generations a love of country that to a great extent equals their own.

This year—1932—the people of this country will attempt to honor the immortal leader of the men who hung together by celebrating the 200th anniversary of his birth.

Innumerable speeches will be made by leading citizens lauding his many admirable qualities, but do you not think he would be better pleased if we followed his teachings closer than we are today?

Did he not say "In time of peace prepare for war."

Did he not advise us to "avoid foreign entanglements?"

Do you not think that he, whose wisdom and patriotism you praise so highly, would want the country to which he gave so much to be at least the equal of any other country in our preparations for war, as we are leaders in our desire for peace?

By being prepared for war in time of peace we have never lost a war.

By avoiding foreign entanglements we have never been the aggressor, nor have we ever declared war on any other country except when attacked or seriously menaced.

By following the teachings of the men who hung together we became the strongest, the richest and the most progressive country on earth: a country of which the peoples of all other countries, by thousands each year, are trying to become citizens; and by continuing to follow those teachings, and not unless we do, we shall continue to be the greatest country on earth and worthy of the efforts of the men who hung together.

ROY J. MICKEY.

France Contrasted With China in Matter of Preparedness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has been a great deal of talk both in America and Europe to the effect that because French munitions factories are booming, there is a secret alliance or treaty or agreement between France and Japan in the present controversy in the Far East.

All such talk is meaningless and entirely unfounded upon facts. What about the United States during the years of 1914 to 1917 inclusive? Our munition factories were working overtime during that period and new factories were cropping up all the time. Did the United States have any secret alliance with the allies or the Teutonic powers? No! Yet we certainly were turning out implements of warfare in great quantities.

There is only one way to insure peace, that is to be prepared for war. China presents a shining example of the cost of unpreparedness. She is the largest nation in the world today as far as population goes, yet the weakest nation of all nations from a military point of view. Japan would not court trouble at the hands of China but for the fact that the latter is totally unprepared to defend her rights. France is a wise nation. She needs a strong army to protect her borders, which are well fortified against invasion. She has a strong standing army and also a sufficient amount of war material to insure her safety. France is wide awake and does not intend to be caught napping at any time.

S. W. WILLIAMS.

Parachute Should Be in Equipment of Every Plane—Load Can Be Lightened in Emergencies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No flyer in the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps is ever permitted to leave the ground without a parachute; and this commonsense precaution has saved the lives of literally hundreds of our military personnel. There are now some 500 members of the Caterpillar Club, both men and women, who pay tribute to the lowly worm that made the silk from which their life-saving parachutes were made. The writer, himself, is alive and able-bodied today only because a parachute made it possible to escape from a mid-air crash at an altitude of slightly more than a mile.

The victims of the Century-Pacific air liner crash died without a chance. Pilot Sandblom undoubtedly knew that he was in serious danger long before the crash occurred. If motor trouble or ice on the wings of the plane was forcing him down he might have saved himself, the ship and part of his passengers by "bailing out" one or two of them. Under such circumstances the weight of a single passenger might be the difference between gaining altitude and safety or being forced down to a crash.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

Gives a Bride Some Egg Recipes.

WE DO not find, Mrs. Michel, that eggs are as cheap now as they will be in the near future, for the spring of the year provides Mme. Hen with an attitude entirely opposed to her attitude during the winter, and eggs, because they are "harvested," so to speak, in larger quantities, become cheaper as a direct result of supply versus demand. But this doesn't in any way limit our giving you the egg recipes you want. I merely inferred from your letter that eggs had now reached their low point, which, of course, is not the case, but also is, of course, a natural deduction for a young housewife who is entering her first spring as a housekeeper.

Nancy Carey.

An apple omelet is an unusual dish, and then eggs with tomato may appeal to you and your young husband. Savory eggs are unusual, as are eggs farci, which, of course, means literally stuffed eggs, but not the deviled eggs to which we are accustomed, since this is a hot dish, and perhaps you would like fricaseed eggs.

At least, we will give you these recipes today and hope they are pleasing to you, and may we wish you a very good fortune in this new endeavor in housekeeping.

Apple Omelet.

2 eggs, beaten
5 tart apples
1½ teaspoonfuls butter
½ cupful sugar
Cinnamon

Cook the apples until soft, then mash them and add the butter, sugar, eggs and cinnamon. Pour into shallow pudding dish or pie pan and bake in a moderate oven until nicely browned. This is a pleasing and delicate dish to be served with broiled spareribs or roast pork.

Eggs With Tomatoes.

Toast
6 eggs
2 cupfuls tomatoes
1 onion, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Cook onion and tomatoes slowly in shallow pan for ten minutes. Add salt and pepper, then reduce heat until tomatoes stop bubbling. Break the eggs and slip them carefully on top of tomatoes, being careful not to break the yolks. Cook slowly until the whites are set, then break the yolks and let them run into the whites and the tomatoes. Serve at once on buttered toast.

Savory Eggs.

6 hard-cooked eggs, hot
4 tablespoonfuls cream, hot
1 cupful thin white sauce, hot
6 slices buttered toast
Chopped parsley
Anchovy paste
Salt and pepper

Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise and remove the yolks. Mash yolks, add seasonings, cream, parsley and anchovy, and refill the whites. Place on the toast and pour the white sauce over them. Serve at once.

Eggs Farci With Curry Sauce.

6 hard-cooked eggs
½ teaspoonful salt
¼ teaspoonful pepper
1 tablespoonful butter
¼ cupful milk
Few drops of onion juice
1½ cupfuls curry sauce.

Remove the shells from the eggs and cut them in halves, crosswise. Then cut a slice from the end of each half, so that they will stand upright. Remove the yolks carefully, mash, and mix the seasonings, butter, milk and onion juice. Refill the egg whites and set in a shallow pan. Bake in a slow oven (250 to 235 degrees), for about six minutes. Service on a hot platter with curry sauce.

Curry Sauce.

1 tablespoonful butter
2 teaspoonfuls chopped onion
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 pint chicken bouillon (may be made with cubes)
1 tablespoonful flour
Salt and pepper.

Heat the butter and saute the onion until a delicate brown. Add the flour, stirring to a smooth paste. Then add the curry powder, salt, pepper and bouillon. Simmer for ten minutes, stirring all the time. Allow it to boil for a minute or two, strain and serve.

Fricasseed Eggs.

6 eggs, hard-cooked and sliced
3 cupfuls stock
3 tablespoonfuls fat
3 tablespoonfuls flour
4 tablespoonfuls cream
Salt and pepper to taste
Chopped onion
Minced parsley

Make a sauce of the stock, fat, flour, parsley and onion. Add the sliced eggs, cream and salt and pepper. Mix well and serve very hot.

Left—A costume in gray, white and black plaid for train or motor travel to winter sports. Right—Navy gabardine trousers, white proofed linen lumberjack and hand-knitted gloves in red, white and blue for skiing. (Costume, Mirande. Skiing, Maggy Rouff.)

New York, Feb. 15.

ONE is always reading about silhouette, without really knowing what is exactly meant by the person who is writing it. That makes a lotsa help, doesn't, as our China boy says—when we can't hear him!

"The silhouette!" What crimes are committed in thy name! For the silhouette, as it is so fondly called, is, like the something that everyone knows about but no one has ever seen.

I'm just giving away style fashun-writer secrets to my deah public today, because I don't want any of my readers not to know what it's all about in the style world and language. And so many of you have written and asked me what "The silhouette" was to be for spring, that I just know that you don't even know what a style silhouette is. Be not downcast—neither does any one else, from the Haute Couture straight down to your little self!

To be as specific as possible about the matter, this term is supposedly applied to what a composite outline would be, of the style and style trends, if any one Coutourier had any one style to offer in his collection, and all of the collections of all of the coutourieres were put together, and all of the styles that each of the couturieres sponsor were assembled and sifted and merged into one general outline!

* * * *

'N' just for that, here is what my latest Paris bulletin says: "The silhouette (!) for spring is straight of line, full shouldered, slightly lower as to waist, and with skirt fullness at the hem only."

* * * *

Which is simply great—especially when I happen to know that Lanvin, Louisbolanger and a few others are showing gathered skirts, and Heim, Agnes-Drecoll and a few more are showing decidedly higher waistlines!

* * * *

Want to see what a truly chic miss would actually wear to her winter sports? Well, for motoring or the train trip there, let's select a gray, black and white plaid skirt; a black or gray (dark gray) of course) cape and vest, and the vest open to show a blouse of white. Or if one prefers the same color scheme with a coat instead of a cape, that would do just as well.

Now for the actual sports. Maggy Rouff offers the ensemble sketched, of navy gabardine trousers trimmed with red and blue braids, worn with a lumber-jacket of what is called "proffed-linen" in white. And white hand knitted gloves and scarf, with red and blue design. I like this especially, because it is sufficiently informal to be exceedingly chic—and surely would distinguish itself from the usual winter sports costume on any icy snow-covered slope!

Au revoir!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR PREVENTS MEASLES.

DR. GEORGE HELLER, a family practitioner, one who calls on his patients in their homes rather than have them call on him or go to a hospital, advocates a simple method of preventing measles. It is one that every family doctor might well consider. He carries a medicine bag, as the classical family doctor always does. In this medicine bag he has a syringe with a barrel that holds at least one ounce, and with a long, strong needle. This syringe and needle have been sterilized and are kept wrapped in sterile gauze covered by cellophane. In addition, he has in that bag a bottle of alcohol, one of tincture of iodine and some sterilized gauze.

When he is called to a house in which there is a case of measles he then and there injects all exposed children who have not had the disease. The first step is to find some healthy person who has had measles at some time or other. This person is solicited to give some blood for the protection of the children.

Nine times out of ten the person who acts as a donor is one of the parents. It is not a matter of much importance when the donor had measles. Blood from an adult who had measles in childhood is satisfactory. Nor is it necessary to make a Wasserman test to type the blood or to look minutely for evidence of disease. A mother who appears to be in reasonably good health and who gives no history of syphilis—certainly none of recent symptoms—makes the most satisfactory donor as a rule.

The detail of consent having been arranged, the doctor proceeds to clean and sterilize the skin of the mother over an exposed vein and the skin of the child or the children over a small area in the back, usually the back of a limb. The doctor then draws a little more than two-thirds of an ounce of blood from the mother's vein and quickly injects it deep into the child's muscle. If there are several children, the process is repeated for each, though the services of a second donor may be called for. This job being finished, the physician cleans up his tools, puts them in his bag, and is on his way.

If all the susceptibles in the household are inoculated the quarantine provisions can be lightened materially with safety, though all the facts should be reported to the health department for its decision as to which rules must be observed.

Many of the children thus injected do not develop measles. They become immune and remain so for several weeks. Others develop a few symptoms of measles after a few days, but they are sick for a day or two only and their symptoms are trivial. Those who develop mild attacks of modified measles are immune thereafter for life.

NOT RELATED.

N. R. G. writes: Are asthma and tuberculosis closely related? Is asthma a form of tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Asthma and tuberculosis are not related. There is an old notion that asthmatics never get consumption because the first disease protects against the second. There was little basis for this opinion. In fact, a fair number of asthmatics have been found to be consumptive also, the symptoms of the first disease masking those of the second.

EAT A SMALLER MEAL.

H. L. C. writes: I have a very uncomfortable feeling after eating my noon meal. I suppose it is indigestion.

REPLY.

At least try eating a smaller and simpler noon meal. You may need no more than that.

NO CHANGE BY DISEASE.

M. writes: Is smoking good or bad for a diabetic?

REPLY.

The disease does not alter matters.

CAUSE OF NEURITIS.

E. F. B. writes: 1. What is the cause of neuritis?

2. Is there any mineral water that will cure it?

3. What should one eat?

REPLY.

1. Infection.
2. I don't think so.
3. Diet is of secondary importance.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

AN UNEXPECTED BLUFF.

THERE are some Bridge players from whom we always expect bluff or so-called "psychic" bids. There are others who use them rarely, if at all. As I have frequently stated, bluff bids are generally losing bids because you can not deceive expert opposition as to the cards they hold with any degree of consistency—certainly not frequently enough to compensate for the appalling losses which may follow such bids.

So fond is Mr. Oswald Jacoby of so-called "psychic" bids, that the newspaper men covering my recent match with Mr. Lenz to determine the respective merits of the Culbertson (sometimes called the "One Over One") System of Contract bidding and the Official System, now call such a bid a "Jacoby."

In the tenth session of the match Mr. Lenz fell prey to the infection and injected a bluff bid, when vulnerable, on the hand below:

Mr. Lenz

◇ A J 7 4 3 2

Mr. Culbertson

Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

The Bidding:

The result of Mr. Lenz's sortie into bluff bidding was a penalty of 1800 points, the contract going down 5 tricks doubled, vulnerable. It was the chief factor in our side winning the largest rubber, up to then, of the match, the net total of 2,580 points being scored. This bid complied with one requirement in psychic bidding—that is, the partner was even more surprised than either adversary. In fact, so great was the surprise, so far as Mr. Jacoby was concerned, that he was tempted to bid vulnerable at the range of two on a hand containing 1 bare honor-trick, and thus he was misled into making a direct contribution to the astounding set.

When the score was being jotted down, Mr. Jacoby remarked:

"I thought that we had decided not to bid that way."

"That was exactly the kind of hand you bid on during the early part of the match," Mr. Lenz answered.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Bluff bids are perfectly fair if they contain the element of surprise so far as the partner is concerned. However, a penalty of 1,800 points is an excessive price to pay for surprising your partner.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

THE CHILDREN'S RIGHTS.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Here is my answer to Mother. Let me say at the start that I'm no old maid aunt trying to break into a field I know nothing about, but the mother of three girls.

First, Mother, where have you lived to keep such old-fashioned ideas? Your children go out once a month—or so! Good grief! Are you crazy? Or do you want to drive them to that state of mind?

Did your children beg you to bring them into the world, promising to pay you back, dollar for dollar, every dollar it cost to raise them? Snap out of it! I have heard your plea all my life, from a mother just like you, trying to rule her children so they would do and even think as she did. Even today, though I'm past the half century mark in years, she turns sullen and won't speak to me for hours if I buy myself a new garment or go to movies or any place of amusement.

You ought to feel mighty proud that your children work and pay board. My neighborhood is running over with young folks living at home and paying no board, and not even helping about the house or place. They use every cent they earn on autos, dances, movies or what have you for a new thrill. Even the married ones are taking their families back to mother and father to support.

Wake up, Mother, and think what cause you have to be thankful. Get out among other people and then go home and thank God for your children.

One more word of advice: Don't forget to take time now and then to give those big children a hug and a kiss. Next time one of them wants to go out, just give her a big hug and tell her to run along and have a good time. Your trust in her will go farther to keep her on the straight road than your sharp tongue. I know what I'm talking about. Stolen pleasures are costly—and shameful. Sooner or later your young folks are going to find pleasure somewhere, somehow. Let it be clean, Mother. The few dollars they spend now may save you a broken heart later.

MOTHER M'SELF.

Dear Frances McDonald: When I saw that letter from "Stenog," I felt mighty sorry for her and I thoroughly agree with the advice you gave her and the views which "Mrs. Fifty" holds. But when I saw the letter from the lady signed "Mother" I was very indignant. I don't believe that woman has a right to the sacred name of mother. I am in a position to know quite a bit about wayward young folk, and the ones who get in trouble are the ones who are allowed to run wild or are restrained too much. The latter class get so they do things on the sly—which leads to trouble.

When I tell my age you will probably think I am too young to know what I am talking about. I am 16. I do not work, in fact, I am still in high school, but I do know how young folks act and what they do and the trouble they get into.

I have an understanding with my parents that when I get to work I will pay board and the rest will be mine to do as I please. They would never think of making me support their children!

"Mother" speaks of the fact that the children should repay the parents. My folks look at it in this manner: They were young once and had a good time if they wanted it. They gave up the good times to raise a family, but that is not the fault of the family, so why make them pay? The children will settle down and have a family of their own, no doubt, so they must have pleasure out of life some time and I'm sure it's not while they are raising a family of children, so they must have the pleasure while they are young.

As you can see I thoroughly disagree with the person who calls herself "Mother," and believe my own parents have the right ideas!

Sincerely, "BUNNY."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

IF February 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Unfavorable astrological influences will still remain in force on February 16, and certain dreams will receive a shattering blow from an unexpected quarter. If important business negotiations are in progress, it is a most critical time, and tactful and intelligent moves are called for.

Children born on this February 16 will have studious, busy minds, and will be quick and accurate in everything which they do. They will be very fond of an argument, and will argue for argument's sake. They will never "hide their light under a bushel," and will be clever self-advertisers.

Born on February 16, you will always play second-fiddle in the orchestra of life, although you feel chronically hurt and disappointed not to be able to join the star players. You have allowed feelings of unworthiness and inadequacy to master you, because you can not throw off your exaggerated inferiority complex. You try to hide this handicap through many psychological defense mechanisms. When you feel the smallness and weakness within, you put on a false front of overconfidence and may become bombastic, pompous or snobbish. The larger your show of superiority to others, the more inferior you feel yourself. You try to raise your self-importance by criticizing others. You try to fill boots too large for you, which only breeds unhappiness and discontent.

Your tastes and domestic ideals are as cautious as your expenditures. You are the sort of person that loves not woman or man, but a woman, or a man. You will love whole-heartedly but once. If you be a man, you are chock full of romantic chivalry.

In your work you are industrious, ambitious, persistent, but without much initiative. It would be well for you to specialize along some line which interests you, as you are not capable of doing anything and everything well. A proper training would help you to increase your self-confidence. You are extremely honest, and you have a great fear of debts.

Successful people born February 16:

Phineas P. Quimby, mental scientist.

John J. Gilchrist, jurist.

George Harvey, an Ambassador to England.

Sarah A. Dorsey, author.

George Kennan, journalist.

Robert F. Weir, surgeon.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

LAST winter I had a most beautiful bird's nest fern given to me, which died. I mean to get another, provided you think this fern can be coaxed to live in an apartment. RACHEL F. P.

It was the dry air of the house, no doubt, that was responsible for the death of your plant. The bird's nest fern requires a great deal of moisture, especially in the atmosphere. This is hard to achieve in the house. One way of giving a plant a steam bath is to carry it to the bathroom and turn on the hot-water faucets. When the room is filled with steam place the plant on the middle of the floor for an hour or so. A steam bath helps any plant.

Please tell me how to care for a pandanus. The leaves of mine are beginning to turn brown on the edges. MISS RUTH D. H.

The pandanus requires a warm, sunny place in winter and a place near an open window or a semisunny porch in summer. It should be watered whenever the surface of the soil in the pot is dry. When watering it, give enough to moisten all the soil in the pot. Spray the foliage once each week. With such care it should do well.

Will a lemon verbena do well in a window box? MRS. THOMAS F.

Yes, if the box is in the sun and is well watered every day.

Please tell me the names of some rapid-flowering vines. ANNIE F. W.

Why does a Mexican rubber plant persist in dropping its leaves? I water it daily and keep it in the sun. MRS. ROGER F.

It is a case of too much water. The crassula should be watered only about once a week. Keep it in the sun in winter and where there is at all times a current of fresh air.

INSULL APPLAUDED EXPLAINING SLUMP

Defends to Stockholders Judgment on Securities Showing Big Loss.

Chicago, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull faced shareholders of two of his utility interests today with annual reports showing approximately $285,000,000 in stock depreciations, defended his judgment in the purchase of these stocks, and adjourned the meetings amidst rounds of applause.

The white-haired, 72-year-old utility owner took home with him from the Insull Utility Investment and Corporation Securities meetings a resolution approving his management.

The day of accounting opened with the Insull Utility meeting. Hecklers were frequent among the several thousand shareholders as Insull, contrary to reports that his son would present the reports, opened the meeting. Half an hour of quoting statistics was followed by shareholders' questions.

"Why did you buy stocks at such high prices?" asked one owner of stock in the company organized amidst the boom to hold Insull Utility investments.

Judgment of All Found "Poor."

Insull replied:

"The original purchases by Insull Utility were at prices from 10 to 12 points below the market on that day. They were paid for, not in cash, but practically in promises, in the form of preferred and common stocks of Insull Utility. In them we showed the same judgment that you stockholders showed in buying Insull common, preferred and debentures and the judgment that many experienced financiers over the world showed at that time. In the light of conditions today that judgment was very poor."

"I don't want to indulge in sob stuff, but at the close of a busy and fairly extensive career I find myself facing conditions that I have never seen equaled. I did the best I could, according to my knowledge and ability."

At the afternoon meeting of the Corporation Securities Co. Insull, who has rounded out six decades of light and power operations since his immigration from England as a young man, added the statement that very satisfactory arrangements had been made with Eastern and Chicago banks for continuing their loans. The Insull Utility report showed bank loans of $53,257,145.

Shares Suffer in Market.

The day opened with an ill wind for Insull issues, blowing from the Chicago Stock Exchange. Insusil debentures, under heavy offerings skidded down 6⅛, to 20¾. Other Insull shares fell, too. Commonwealth Edison dropped 3½.

The notice of the Insull Utility shareholders meeting accompanying the mailing of the report gave an inkling of a consolidation of the Insull Investments and Corporation Securities with this statement:

"The management of the company realizes that as a result of the decline in market value of the securities in its portfolio a reorganization must be effected as soon as market conditions show sufficient improvement."

To Corporation shareholders Samuel Insull, jr., president, said, "Any such action might involve a consolidation with Insull Utility Investments, Inc., for practically the same purpose."

Stomach Ailment Sends Culbertson to Hospital

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson entered a hospital today for treatment for ulcers of the stomach. A complete rest for three weeks and a rigid diet for a long period have been prescribed by his physician, Dr. Howard E. Shattuck, who said today he would be unable to decide at present whether an operation would be necessary.

Culbertson, it was said, has been suffering from stomach trouble for some time, but delayed going to a doctor until the recent contract bridge tournament had ended.

The upper view shows a portion of the crowd on board the steam launch which operated on the canal between Georgetown and Great Falls. The launch was constantly in demand for parties desiring to picnic at the Falls.

Holiday for Business Declared to Aid Banks

Craig, Colo., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Business houses in Craig and Hayden, Colo., started a business holiday today for the purpose of creating confidence in the banks of the two cities, which have been closed for a stated period.

The movement started in Hayden. Mayor Earl Erwin called a meeting of business leaders and a program by which stores will remain open but a few hours each day was evolved. A committee was designated to obtain promises from depositors that they would leave their money in the bank until next November. There are two banks in Craig and one in Hayden.

Man Loses $2,000 Bet He Would Visit Notables

Philadelphia, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The time limit on William B. Crissy's wager with four friends that he could "crash the gate" to dine with President Hoover, play golf with Bobby Jones, motor or play golf with the Prince of Wales and golf with John D. Rockefeller, jr., expired today and his friends looked forward to spending $500 each.

Crissy resigned his post with a brokerage firm to set out last February 15 on his mission, which was not to require more than one year. One of the stipulations was accomplished when Crissy attended a White House Correspondents Association dinner last February 21 with Mr. Hoover present. His friends here said the other three stipulations were not so easy.

Valet of Austrian Heir Dies With Dual Tragedy Secret

Mystery of Love Tryst Deaths of Rudolph and Marie Unrevealed by Old Servitor; Doctor's Recent Passing Also Fails to Add Clew.

Vienna, Austria, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Another page in the mystery of Rudolph and Marie was written today—but it did not solve the violent end of the heir to the Austrian throne and his beautiful sweetheart, the Baroness Vetsera.

It was on a cold and foggy January morning in 1889 that the lovers met in a hunting box at Mayerling, Austria, and died with the secret of their rendezvous.

Every shred of evidence that has since come to light merely confounded self-appointed Sherlocks and now the death of the archduke's former valet has come, and it is no exception.

His name was Johann Loschek and he died Saturday at the ripe old age of 87, leaving the secret of that rendezvous untold, for the public at least, although he was said to have imparted it to his son, now the mayor of Kleinwolkerdorf, Austria.

The captain, a Mr. Hawkins, master of the schooner Islena, touching at Cristobal, said a secretive doctor, Hans von Tietdjke, died recently at San Andres, Colombia, with the Mayerling mystery and words of guilt on his lips. The doctor died, Capt. Hawkins added, without saying anything more than this:

"Suppose you had to take the blame of another's crime. Suppose, although living blamelessly, you were forced by circumstances to assume guilt to shield another higher up. Just say Hans von Tietdjke, who was connected with the Mayerling tragedy, has just died."]

There was evidence here that old Loschek, the valet, knew the secret of the mystery, that is, whether it was suicide, murder and suicide, or two murders.

Shortly after the deaths became known a parcel that had been sealed by the valet appeared. In it was a curious onyx ash tray, and on it had been written in mauve ink: "Rather revolver. Not poison. Revolver is more certain." It was the Baroness Vetsera's handwriting.

Few mysteries of fact or fiction have equaled the deaths of Rudolph and his love. From the very first false clews marred the trail. The royal family at first merely announced he had committed suicide in his hunting box.

Later it became generally known that Marie died of a gunshot wound by his side. The exact manner of the archduke's death was never fully revealed.

There were stories of suicide. Then murder and political intrigue, some of which linked the archduke's name with a coup to sieze his father's throne

Only last year Dr. Friedrich Mark, of Cologne, published an article purporting to show that Rudolph was slain by a rival for the love of Marie.

Countess Marie von Larisch, an Austrian, previously published "My Past" in London, and although insisting that what actually happened was conjecture, intimated political intrigue was afoot, and that Archduke John, of Tuscany, had planned a coup with the crown prince.

When FAT Goes Back Comes Vim

The World Way

The right way for treating obesity is now employed by doctors the world over. It is based on a new discovery—a gland cause.

Modern science finds that a great cause of excess fat lies in a scanty gland secretion. Then food which should be turned to energy simply piles up fat. Thus people grow both fat and lazy through the same gland cause.

Doctors everywhere now feed that lacking factor. They know that abnormal exercise and diet can never bring fat down, and vim back, while that lack exists.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and the use has spread. Excess fat has been disappearing fast in those years, as everybody knows. It will go faster when more people recognize this right way to reduce.

Go try Marmola. A book in the box gives the formula, and tells why it does what it does. Cease the methods which have failed you. Combat the cause. Do what multitudes are doing with results you see. Go start today. At all druggists.

THE YEAR'S BUSINESS REVIEWED

". . . I think you will agree with me that for a year such as that through which we have just passed the showing is a remarkably fine one.

"New assurances of over $527,000,000, and a total in force exceeding $3,000,000,000 are figures so great as to need no emphasis.

"The distribution of our new business is interesting. Canada contributed $101,000,000, United States $291,000,000, Great Britain $50,000,000, and the rest of the world $85,000,000.

"Our mortality experience has been even more favourable than that of last year, the claims being but 54.3 per cent. of the expected, against 57.6 per cent. in 1930.

"Since business was commenced in 1871 we have paid out in benefits $594,000,000. Last year alone our payments were $93,000,000, an amount exceeding the total assurances written in 1922. We may well rejoice over the magnitude and importance of the social service which the Company is performing.

"During the past year life assurance has been tested as perhaps never before, and it has withstood the trial triumphantly. So far as I am aware not one life company on the continent has had to close its doors, a wonderful record. In Canada we can claim with pride that ever since Confederation not one Dominion licensed company has ever failed.

"It will be noticed that in addition to the surplus of $16,000,000 over all liabilities and capital stock, we have a contingency reserve of $4,700,000 to provide for possible shrinkage in mortgages and other real estate investments. Our reserves have been calculated on the same strong basis as last year. Although our investments payable in American currency greatly exceed our liabilities in that currency, we have treated both as on a par, taking no credit for the premium on American funds. Our liabilities under contracts in other currencies also are included at a total greater than required at the prevailing rates of exchange.

"Our holdings of stocks have been valued on the basis laid down by the Dominion Department of Insurance, which is practically the same as that adopted for all companies by the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners of the United States.

"In new investments we have favoured high grade bonds, the yield on which is now very attractive.

"The profits paid or allotted to policyholders amounted to over $26,000,000, or over 20 per cent. of the total annual premium income.

"In the light of these figures, the report is indeed an excellent one.

"And what of the future? No one believes that the depression will last forever. It is impossible to say just when the turn will come, but with the vast natural resources of this continent, and the brains, energy, and actual wealth of its people, business recovery is inevitable. When prosperity does return no company will share in its benefits in greater measure than our own."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Completely Equipped League.

FRANCE knocked the League of Nations delegates out of their chairs the other day with a proposal that the league be measured for army and navy uniforms, armed to the teeth and authorized to leap into any war begun without a Geneva permit.

• • • •

Nothing could have caused more of a sensation except a suggestion that bayonet practice be voted a part of the league ritual.

• • • •

The French proposal is that the organization be fully equipped for the firing line and allowed to act against any aggressor nation, the contention being that nobody has any respect for a policeman who carries nothing but a whistle.

• • • •

The trouble with the league is that it has been equipped only for basket picnics and left helpless when the disturbing element began throwing bottles.

• • • •

Under France's plan each nation belonging to the league would contribute its quota of guns, planes, ships, tanks, ammunition, canned beef, navy beans and other necessities of war, including tough top sergeants and cooties.

• • • •

The forces would be under league command. It is this feature of the proposition that gives the members the jitters. The thought of a league army rushing to war under the leadership of a group committee is pretty disturbing.

• • • •

UNCLE SAM is among those chilled by the idea. He realizes that one of the first acts of a League of Nations empowered to wage a war would be to draft the "unofficial observer," and take himself along, too.

• • • •

• • • •

Can you imagine the league army and navy going forth with a British general, a French chief of staff, a Chinese intelligence officer, an Italian admiral and a Russian commissary sergeant to put down a war between Japan and Germany.

• • • •

The old-fashioned type of war was bad enough, but you could at least identify all the players without knowing their numbers.

• • • •

It's all too confusing. Fancy the League of Nations holding a Geneva session to stop a war in which its own army and navy was one of the star contestants!

SEVERAL GET PRISON TERMS IN ARLINGTON

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Fourteen indictments naming fourteen persons were returned yesterday by the grand jury at the opening of the February term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County, with Judge Walter T. McCarthy on the bench.

Those indicted for violation of the prohibition law were Harry Hawkins, Charles Petticrew, Abie Shea, Charles Shea and James Harris.

Those indicted on charge of a felony were Herman Anderson, Rollo Lewis, Robert Vodrey, Grover Bell, Clerks Alsbrooks, Richard Savoy (two indictments) and Henry Green (two indictments).

Pleading guilty to both charges, entering the home of C. B. Yeatman, at Lyon Park, where articles valued at $400 were taken, and entering the home of William Van Riswick, at Clarendon, where a bicycle was stolen, Richard Saboy was sentenced to four years in each case in the State Penitentiary at Richmond by Judge McCarthy, the sentences to run concurrently.

The testimony of Sheriff Howard B. Fields revealed that Savoy, who had been identified by a number of citizens in the county, is the man who has been operating in Arlington County for the past two months and has been seen peeping in windows of a number of homes.

Charged with stealing chickens from Clifford Williams, Robery Vodrey was given a sentence of two years in the State penitentiary.

Herman Anderson and Rollo Lewis, indicted on a charge of felony, in that they entered the home of Archie Mason with intent to rob, were each given a sentence of three years in the State penitentiary by Judge McCarthy.

Harry Hawkins, charged with violation of the prohibition law, was sentenced to serve three months in the county jail in addition to a fine, including costs, of $45.75.

James Harris, on a similar charge, drew a sentence of one month in the county jail and a fine of $97.75, including costs.

First of a series of meetings on "The Woman and the Home" will be held today at 2:45 o'clock in the parish hall of St. George's Episcopal Church, at Clarendon, by Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, of Washington.

Surviving Miss Connell at Methodist Home in Serious State.

Death yesterday separated the Connell twins for the first time in their 77 years. Miss Emma died yesterday in the infirmary of the Methodist Home for the Aged and Orphans at Gaithersburg, Md., leaving Miss Addie still a patient in the infirmary. Officials at the home deeply fear the effect upon Miss Addie.

The twin sisters were born April 21, 1854, at Washington, later moving to Rockville, Md., where they passed most of their years until they moved with a sister, Mrs. Floyd Faber, to live at Silver Spring, Md. About five years ago they entered the home at Gaithersburg.

It was the proud boast of the Connell twins that they have never been separated a day in their lives and had slept in the same bed every night until about two months ago when Miss Emma was injured seriously when she fell down while trying to turn on an electric light. A month later, Miss Addie also fell and injured herself in the same manner and they have lain side by side and suffered together the last month.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the funeral home of Warner E. Pumphrey at Rockville, Md. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Frank A. Tyler, pastor of the Rockville Methodist Episcopal Church South, of which they were members, and the Rev. Herman M. Wilson, superintendent of the home. Burial will be in Rockville Cemetery.

Old Takoma Park Legal Battle Ends

Rail Siding Case Cost Town $1,238 Over Four Years.

Final disposition of the North Takoma siding case over which the town council of Takoma Park, Md., and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad have battled legally for some four years was reported last night at a meeting of the town council by J. Bond Smith, corporation counsel. The case has cost the town about $1,238. The railroad has asked the court to dismiss the case as the siding has been removed.

The council on motion of Councilman I. H. Ware, voted to enforce the town dog tax ordinance which provides for the impounding for two days of all dogs found without licenses. After two days of impoundment, the dogs are liable to be shot or otherwise disposed of.

A petition was received from Lisle Morrison opposing the improvement of Chestnut street in connection with the Fern street underpass by the Montgomery County Commissioners. The council discussed at length the Fern street underpass and voted to approve the original plans. Robert E. Lohr asked that the grade be established for Lee avenue in order that he could proceed with construction of six houses.

ROBBERS GET $1,000 IN BUS LINE OFFICE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The office of the A. B. & A. bus line, at Pitt and Cameron streets, was robbed early yesterday of approximately $1,000 by two bandits who, at the point of a pistol, ordered George A. Simpson, clerk, 40 years old, into a back room. The loss is covered by insurance, according to representatives of the bus line. The loot consisted of about $900 in cash and $100 in metal tokens, and represented Sunday's receipts.

About 4:45 o'clock Simpson took the money and started to count it. As he did so he found himself looking into the muzzle of a pistol. About this time a second man entered and the first bandit shoved Simpson into a small room, where the safe is kept, closing the door, and the two men then scooped the money and made their escape. The automobile in which they escaped is said to have been a green sedan, bearing Virginia license tags believed to have been issued in Alexandria, although the numbers were not obtained.

When the first bandit entered the office the second man mounted guard outside. Kemp Cockrell, reporting for work, was warned by the outside bandit not to enter, and he complied with the command, but notified Edwin Creel, a helper, who ran to police headquarters, two squares away, and called for assistance. Officer Grimm, on duty at headquarters, responded on foot, as there was no car available at the time, but when he arrived the robbers had disappeared.

Simpson said the man who held him up was extremely nervous. He was described as being about 28 years old, about 185 pounds, and wore a blue overcoat, dark slouch hat, and had the appearance of an office worker.

The robbery is being investigated by Sergts. George Everly and Lawrence Padgett and Policemen Grimm, Jones and Mullen.

Teachers Will Decide Feb. 22 School Closing

Closing of Prince Georges County schools on February 22 will be left to the discretion of the individual teacher, it was announced yesterday in a circular letter sent out by Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools, to the teaching staff.

Under the Maryland law the school board has no authority to declare the day a holiday, but the statute provides that teachers may release their children to attend exercises elsewhere. If the children do attend school on this day, patriotic celebrations must be held in the classrooms.

The letter, which quotes President Hoover's bicentennial proclamation, also calls attention of the teachers to the sessions of the National Education Association, which will be held on Washington's birthday.

Radio Car Wreck Hurts 2 Policemen

Machine Was Hurrying to Veteran Robbed of Bonus Check.

Two Alexandria policemen were injured last night when their radio car was in collision with another machine. The officers were on their way to investigate the holdup of a Fresno, Calif., World War veteran, who had just received his adjusted compensation bonus check after a trip across the continent.

Of the pair in the radio car, Policeman Frank Stover was the most seriously hurt. He is in an undetermined condition in Alexandria Hospital with injuries to his back and left leg. Policeman Clifford Dodd only suffered bruises and was able to leave the hospital. The police car collided with the automobile of F. X. Buckley, 22 years old, of Myrtle avenue, Alexandria, at Washington and Mount Vernon avenues.

A second police car dispatched to the Southern Railway roundhouse at the Cameron Yards, found Lee Blake, 29 years old, and colored. Blake said he had come by side-door pullman from Fresno. He had gotten his bonus check for $400 yesterday and was on his way back. In the yards two other colored men met him, pulled a pistol and forced him to give up his check and $23 in cash.

HIGHWAY COMPANY NAMES 250 IN SUIT

Action Seeks to Have Bank in Fairfax Made Trustee of Bonds.

The Washington-Great Falls & Dranesville Highway Co., of which Col. Robert N. Harper, of Washington and Virginia, is president, has filed suit in the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Va., naming 250 persons as defendants. More persons are named in this suit than in any ever filed in the history of the county, according to county officials.

The company, which operates the only toll road in northern Virginia, running from Langley to Great Falls on the Potomac River in the territory embraced in the proposed George Washington Memorial parkway, under the Cramton act, borrowed a large sum of money several years ago secured by bonds of the company. A Washington banking firm was made trustee of the company under the bonds at that time. Since then this company has resigned as trustee and discontinued business.

The present suit seeks to have the National Bank of Fairfax made trustee of the bonds and all persons recorded as bondholders are named defendants. Thirty of the bondholdess accepted service of the suit and under the State law the others can be notified by mail at their last-known address. According to the firm of Barbour, Keith, McCandlish & Garnett, of Fairfax, representing the highway company, the case will come up at the March term of Fairfax Court.

Woman Dry Chief Warns Democrats

Mrs. Nicholson Says Peril of Nullificationist Is Facing Party.

"Tendencies in the Democratic party at present point to a repetition in 1932 of the tragedies which were enacted in 1920, 1924 and 1928," it is declared in an editorial in the Woman Voter, the March issue of which comes out today.

"Women Democrats," the editorial continues, "who are anxious for party success realize steps must be taken to check the wave which is again sweeping the country for the nomination of a nullificationist or Tammanyite for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket."

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, left today for the South. She will speak Saturday in Atlanta, Ga., and her trip will include stops in St. Petersburg and Miami, Fla., North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Mrs. Nicholson will then go to the Pacific Coast to confer with women's Democratic organizations preparatory to taking part in the 1932 campagin.

20 MEN DOMINATE BEARS, SAYS BANKER

House Judiciary Group Told of "Ruthless" Raids to Recoup Fortunes.

(Associated Press.)

A House judiciary subcommittee was told yesterday that 20 men dominate the bear raiders on the New York Stock Exchange.

This statement was made by Harold Arons, lawyer and banker connected with the International Trust Co. of New York City, who appeared before the committee in behalf of legislation to prohibit short selling.

He said the defense of short selling made by Richard S. Whitney, president of the New York Exchange, "has not been supported by the facts."

Mr. Arons said recent bear drives constituted "the ruthless efforts of speculators to recoup fortunes lost in 1929."

"It is not even gambling," Mr. Arons said. "It is playing for huge stakes with loaded dice."

Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois, author of one of the bills under consideration, said if short selling had been stopped in 1929, half of the banks and industries now closed would have been saved.

"We have seen within the last week the intimate anatomical relationship between the stock market and governmental policy in the present financial situation," Mr. Arons said.

"The carefully worked-out plan for your reconstruction corporation and the actual inauguration of its functions found no response in the stock market and there was until the close on Wednesday a decidedly down trend, which the large short position on February 1 gave no indication of mitigating.

"On Wednesday it was known in Wall street that the rediscounts of the Federal Reserve Board were to be liberalized. This was the policy which certain influences in the financial world have long favored and the stock exchange had the power, and demonstrated by the market's action, to withhold recognition of the constructive program of your reconstruction corporation until other legislation which it wanted was assured.

"When that which it wanted was promised in such form as to be treated as an accomplished fact, it resolved its power into plaudits in the most spectacular upward movement of the market in many months, as was done in connection with the foreign debt moratorium."

By NELSON B. BELL.

Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld has another hit on his hands!

With his accustomed command of beauty, movement and kaleidoscopic pictorial effect, which few in the field of light musical entertainment have been able to approximate and none excel, the dean of musical comedy and revue producers has here revealed an exquisitely lovely work, no less tuneful, no less picturesque and much more animated than his earlier "Rio Rita."

This happy consummation could hardly have been achieved without a substantial foundation of book and score upon which to rear his structure of swirling splendor, enchanting dances and riotous humor. Lew Brown, Ray Henderson and Mark Hellinger have worked not only well but overabundantly. The two acts last night ran a full 60 minutes over the usual 11 o'clock hour for the final curtain.

There are, of course, scenes that can be almost wholly eliminated without impairing the narrative that fragmentarily concerns the adventures of a New York troupe of cafe artists who journey to Mexico City on the promise of mellow moonlight, bright sunshine and fabulous monetary returns; others can be effectively tightened and many of the purely dialogue passages can be easily and advantageously speeded into a faster and more fitting tempo.

In view of the multiplicity of scenes, the innumerable changes of costume and the intricacy of many of the ensembles, last night's first performance on any stage was extraordinarily smooth.

It is never possible on a first night even remotely to estimate what the final form of as pretentious a musical comedy as this will be. It is, nevertheless, not among the impossibilities to perceive that from the wealth of material at his disposal, Ziegfeld, the old master, will evolve an entertainment that will add new luster to a name already heavily laden with honors in the theater.

Brown and Henderson have contributed a lilting, melodious and richly orchestrated score, with frequent reprises of numbers that are sufficiently meritorious to warrant the repetition. The songs are adequately sung, although with the exception of Tito Coral, there is not a member of the cast who can boast of a voice of genuinely impressive caliber. This is not a criticism. It is merely an excuse for celebrating the rare skill with which the composers have adapted their score to the capabilities of the voices selected for its interpretation. They have not written a single note beyond the abilities of their principals.

These principals comprise a notable group of young players. The love interest centers in June Knight and Buddy Rogers, who early in the first act sing, "You Can Make My Life a Bed of Roses," evidently destined to be the song hit of the show. The contrasted comedy romance is intrused to Marjorie White, tried and true vaudevillian, who, after an excursion into pictures, now is capitalizing her thorough stage training, and Bert Lahr, late star of "Flying High." Another wisecracking love affair exists somewhat nebulously between June MacCloy and Lynne Overman. Revya Reyes is the feminine menace, Bob Gleckler, the masculine. Tito Coral is a handsome foil for the robust comedy of Mr. Lahr, and many other incidental parts of minor importance are distributed among a seemingly limitless personnel.

The 75, or more, maidens who lend their manifold charms to Mr. Ziegfeld's gorgeous methods of glorification by their generous, natural endowments, render his task absurdly simple.

Numbers that won unstinted applause last evening included, in addition to "Bed of Roses," "Conchita," sung by Miss Reyes; "I Want Another Portion of That," by Marjorie White and Bert Lahr; "For You," by Senor Coral; "Say What I Want to Hear You Say," by June Knight and Buddy Rogers; "Fiesta," rousingly sung by Coral and a male ensemble; "I Make Up For That in Other Ways," by Lahr; "There I Go Dreaming Again," by Miss Knight, and "There's Nothing the Matter With Me," one of Marjorie White's liveliest bits of the two acts, with full ensemble support.

The comedy pursues something of a crescendo in both explosiveness and drum-fire rapidity as the two acts progress. Some of it is distinctly smoking-car—a quality that seemed to add to the warmth of its reception by the largest standing-room crowd of the season.

Of dancing the beautiful ladies of the ensemble do their full share in a succession of costumes notable for their perfect taste, but the tribute to Terpsichore goes beyond that. In scene 6, of act 1, Veloz and Yolanda, Yakoloff and the De Marcos, in one of the most magnificent periods of the play, execute a series of Spanish dances that are as blinding in speed and complexity as they are novel and varied.

The Joseph Urban settings are atmospherically colorful and no doubt sufficiently Mexican for all practical musical comedy purposes.

Will Rogers was an interested spectator in F row, center, probably wishing he was up there doing his stuff. His entrance was as enthusiastically applauded as if he had been.

Miss Ethel Barrymore has abandoned pursuit of the false gods of the theater and returns to us this week with a revival of a classic strongly associated with the traditions of her distinguished family. Washington did not see her Lady Teazle, which she played opposite her uncle, John Drew some eight seasons ago in an all-star revival of "The School for Scandal." Last night, however, an appreciative audience at the Belasco Theater was given opportunity to witness what superb acting can do for the Richard Brinsley Sheridan comedy.

Here is a fresh and vibrant story told with exquisite skill. Miss Barrymore has infused amazing vitality into a play that is deathless. And, which is more important, the role of Lady Teazle restores to us the Ethel Barrymore of former years. Her appearance in the opening tableau of this season's "School for Scandal" is positively startling. We see once more the slender, youthful Ethel Barrymore of "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire." And the golden voice that wove music into "Sunday" gives added value to the delightfully rounded sentences that form the more important dialogue of Sheridan's brilliant satire.

There is not a blemish in this revival. A well-loved star is at her best. She is supported by a cast that seems made to order for this classic. A uniformly smooth presentation is not thrown out of balance by shades of acting. The fine work of the principals does not stand out too conspiciously because even the bits are extraordinarily well played. Moreover, if you must have your dash of sentiment, there is a minor role played with perfect poise and family grace by young John Drew Colt, who supports his mother in the role that brought triumphs to his famous grandmother, and even more famous great-grandmother, in the days when the old Arch Street Theater in Philadelphia set the pace for the American stage.

Expert direction as well as rare acting are required to eliminate the creakings of age from a play as venerable as "The School for Scandal." Yet Miss Barrymore achieves this effect. Familiarity with the text does not prevent an auditor from following with keen interest and unceasing amusement the assassination of character in Lady Sneerwell's home, the domestic bickerings between Sir Peter and Lady Teazle, the auction of family portraits by Charles Surface, the episode of the "French milliner" in Joseph's house and the typically Sheridan denouement of the final tableau.

Miss Barrymore, it seems, does not object to strong rivalry on the stage. Her acting of Lady Teazle is, of course, the central jewel of the revival. But it never overshadows the gorgeous portraits created by Charles H. Crocker-King, as Sir Peter Teazle; Walter Gilbert, as Charles Surface; Harry Plimmer, as Sir Oliver Surface; McKay Morris, as Joseph Surface; A. G. Andrews, as Moses; Arthur Treacher, as Sir Benjamin Backbite; Beatrice Terry, as Lady Sneerwell, and Erna Rowan, who makes a charming and demure young person of a half-forgotten century in the interesting role of Maria.

The younger generation of theatergoers will find delightful entertainment at the Belasco Theater this week. Their parents will revel in a revival of a classic that carries one's recollections back to the period of Ada Rehan or Georgie Drew Barrymore.

HOLLYWOOD HONEYS. A Columbia burlesque production, with Rosamond May, "Cherie" and "Peggy." Little Jack Rosen, Ace Brown and Bert Saunders. Reviewed by William L. Wright.

"Hollywood Honeys" is not a world beater, as shows go. However, a glance at the list of featured stars will assure any one familiar with these players that they can anticipate a pleasant evening, even if the festivities are a bit slow at times.

Little Jack Rosen, who makes up for his lack of size by the excellence of his work, teams well with Red Martin in several hilarious comedy scenes. Their best are "Just a Dream" and "Taking a Picture."

Leading the feminine stars is Cherie, a charming brunette, who played in this theater several weeks ago. Her classy singing and dancing is the highlight of the show. "Peggy" White, held over from last week, also gets over in a big way.

Thelma Smith, a shapely brunette, has a good voice and could help the show considerably by appearing more often. Rosamond May and a certain Dorothy Dehaven display nifty figures to win much applause.

Two colored lads, proteges of Jimmy Lake, get over some rhythmic tap dances to the very evident enjoyment of those present.

Freighter's S O S Halts Broadcasting

Call Later Canceled and Fire-Damaged Vessel Continues on Way.

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—An SOS call from the Swedish freighter Hallaren today halted broadcasting along the Atlantic seaboard for 20 minutes and caused the captain of a Canadian vessel to start a hurried trip to its assistance. Then the call was canceled, and the two ships continued on their way, the Swedish vessel somewhat damaged by a fire which the crew had extinguished.

The call was received here at 8:52 a. m. by the Radiomarine Corporation through its Chatham, Mass., station. It had been intercepted and relayed by the steamship Frederick Lee. A few minutes later the freighter Beaverford, of the Canadian Pacific Line, reported she was within 35 miles of the Hallaren and was proceeding to her assistance.

Then at 9:08 a. m. came a cancellation of the SOS from the Hallaren, then about 425 miles off Halifax with her crew of 26. The fire was out, the message said, and no assistance would be needed.

Extra Assembly Session Is Predicted in Virginia

Richmond, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A special session of the General Assembly next year to deal with declining revenues of the State government is looked for by Senator Aubrey Weaver, of Front Royal.

"We are going to pass an $85,000,000 budget bill, but I do not believe anyone on either the finance committees, or anyone in the State government, can say whether we will have the money to pay the appropriations," Senator Weaver said tonight. "This bill is based on expected revenues. But whether we will get the revenues is another thing."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WITH rare thoughtfulness and consideration for the, at best, fitful slumber of the ladies and gentlemen of the press, the Messrs Ravenscroft, Collier, Wallach, et al., of the Rialto Theater, decided to screen "Murders in the Rue Morgue" early in the morning instead of late at night. Early yesterday morning, as a matter of fact, at 9:45 o'clock, which, I will leave it to any one, is not only early in the morning but practically in the middle of the night!

I wouldn't be sure that Erik, the gorilla, in this free adaptation of the Edgar Allen Poe fiction, is as terrifying a monster as the soulless creation of the young scientist, Frankenstein, in the picture of that name, or that Bela Lugosi is as repellant a character in the role of Dr. Mirakle as he was in the title part of Count Dracula in "Dracula," but I will say that the whole eerie business is horrifying enough for all reasonable purposes and probably will serve as anything but a soporific in the lives of sensitively organized women and impressionable children.

There are a few minor matters that may or may not be anachronisms. For instance, in the Paris of 1845 we see a carnival company putting on their outdoor ballyhoos precisely after the manner of present-day carnival companies in this country. I am not certain that spielers and hootchy-kootchy dancers were prevalent in Paris in 1845. Nor does the American Indian exhibit strike me as being entirely kosher, either.

However, by particularly deft lighting and some settings that add appreciably to the grimness and atmospheric gooseflesh of the ghastly thriller, "Murders in the Rue Morgue" manages to classify as another potent reason for stopping by the doctor's and laying in a bottle or two of some good sedative. Unless, of course, you are on the Sunday and dramatic desk of a morning paper, in which case you never get any sleep anyway, so what difference does it make?

Among the interested observers at Sunday night's rehearsal of "Hot-Cha!" at the National were Ethel Barrymore and her leading man, Walter Gilbert, appearing at the Belasco in a slightly modernized revival of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classic comedy, "The School for Scandal."

The occasion must have revived a flood of memories in the mind of each of them, for Miss Barrymore has appeared many times on the National stage, and Mr. Gilbert not so long ago was leading man of the National Theater Players, who resume their summer "little season" on April 18, according to present plans.

It is not among the impossibilities that Walter Gilbert might again be among those present when the curtain rises in April, although I have no assurance whatever that he will be. In view of the high degree of popularity which he enjoyed worse moves could be made, however, than to bring him back.

Joe Cook's current season of appearances with his Vaudeville Revue in the de luxe Loew houses, including the Palace this week, does not at all mean that he has abandoned musical comedy. In fact, its meaning is so far from that that Morris Green, one of the producers of "Fine and Dandy," in which Mr. Cook was seen at the National earlier in the season, flew down from New York on Saturday for no other purpose than to discuss the book of his next vehicle with the Evansville (Ind.) comic—now permanently transplanted, I believe, to Lake Hopatcong, N. J.

The book, I am given to understand, will probably turn out to have been written by Donald Ogden Stewart, who was responsible, if you remember, for "Fine and Dandy." Well, he was, whether you remember or not.

Ziegfeld away-from-Broadway premieres—especially when the show is headed directly for New York and a prospective run—are important matters to the gentlemen who conduct the Gotham theater ticket agencies. So important that they flock to whereever it is and form their own judgment as to whether the particular opus is a "buy" or a bust.

Giving "Hot-Cha!" a coldly appraising once over last night, among others, were Tom Norton, representing Tyson & Co.; John McNamee, of the Bascom agencies, and John McBride, of McBride's.

It may sound like a lot of trouble, but by making the trip down from New York these theatrical railbirds can clock themselves in or out of a nice piece of change!

And now for a few of the items that a smotheringly tight paper deleted from yesterday's column, so handsomely mangled in the operating room!

It is definitely announced that El Brendel, the Philadelphia "Swede" of both stage and screen, will appear in person at the Fox Theater the week beginning Friday, February 26. The screen attraction for the same week will be "The Gay Caballero," with Victor McLaglen, George O'Brien, Conchita Montenegro, Weldon Heyburn and Roland Young. This looks a little as if Fox had adopted the multiple-star policy inaugurated by M-G-M.

Henry Mullins, that young seven-foot-eight giant from Atlanta, whom Carter Barron, managing director of the Loew interests in the Capital, has figuratively taken under his wing, is the only member of his family of abnormal size and tracing the family genealogy fails to reveal that he is a throwback to any earlier generation that reared any Gargantuan ancestor. Just too much pituitary gland, the doctors say.

It is Bess Schreiner, among the foremost of the distaff disseminators of playhouse publicity, who calls up to say in a 15-minute telephone conversation with Ethel Barrymore Sunday evening, the theater's "first lady" expressed warmest enthusiasm over being in Washington the same week Escudero, the famous Spanish Gypsy dancer, is to appear at the National.

Miss Barrymore is said to have described Escudero's New York program as one of the most genuinely exciting experiences of her life in the theater. She will be an eager boxholder at his dance recital in the National this afternoon, as will also Margaret Anglin.

And that reminds me. Escudero was the guest of honor at a dinner given to him and attaches of the Spanish Embassy at the Madrillion last evening, to which this desk was graciously bidden, but which, unfortunately was doomed—in consonance with our usual luck—by the theater openings demanding first-night attention.

How fortunate it is that there is an apple-vending machine in the lobby and a popcorn shop almost next door!

Lexington Coroner Returns Suicide Verdict in Death of Earl Bibb, 30.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned here today in the death of Earl Bibb, 30, assistant instructor in economics at Washington and Lee University, who was found dead this afternoon in his apartment. He died from a pistol wound in the head.

Bibb was unmarried, maintaining bachelor quarters in the home of Edward Graham, Lexington merchant, a brother of Prof. John Graham, who said today that he had visited Bibb in his room last night, remaining with him until about 10:30, and Bibb had seemed a bit gloomy and downcast at the time, but not enough to arouse any apprehension.

Bibb came originally from Montana, and his mother, Mrs. Collie K. Bibb, maintains a home in Warren, Ohio.

While a student at Washington and Lee, Bibb was president of the senior commerce class, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Kappa Psi, honor fraternities and of Pi Kappa Phi, social fraternity.

TRADE PLAYS PART IN FILIPINO TALKS

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

At the hearings before the Senate committee on Territories Senator Pittman asked whether it did not stand to reason that if independence now would bring severe economic effects upon the Philippines through the loss of the American tariff protection it would not accentuate those effects if independence were postponed, say, 20 years from now.

The reply must be in the affirmative if the Philippines were to expand those industries which must have the American tariff aid to exist. On the contrary, the reply must be in the negative if the Philippines were to adopt an economic program arresting the present course of development and directing it toward the status of self-support.

Such program must rest on two complementary propositions: (a) The acreage nonexpansion of the tariff-protected industries, such as sugar and coconut oil, which can be carried out effectively in the islands, and (b) the development of the unprotected products, which have been neglected and of which the islands have many, among them being rubber, coffee, quinine, camphor, cacao and plantain, a development postulated on normal conditions and which the Filipinos themselves should undertake.

Will Solve Problem.

This program will solve a row of problems. It will allay more completely the fear of the American farmer against the expansion of those Philippine industries which he considers potentially competitive; diversify Philippine production and build up the Filipino commonwealth; place Philippine-American commercial relations on a more harmonious basis; give time to the present tariff-protected industries for the inevitable adjustments; and, above all, create in the Philippines a new, self-sustaining economic structure that can stand by itself without the American tariff support.

The opening up of new markets outside of the United States is a necessary part of the program. For this purpose the Philippines should be empowered by Congress to conclude commercial treaties with foreign nations subject to the sanctions inherent in the sovereign position of the United States. With this power the Philippine government can carry out the program by itself.

Graduated Tariffs.

It is obvious that if the acreage expansion of the tariff-protected industries is stopped and economic activities are devoted to the development of the unprotected ones there is neither necessity nor justification for the alteration of the present Philippine-American commercial relations by the imposition on the part of Congress of maximum tonnage limitations or a system of graduated tariffs.

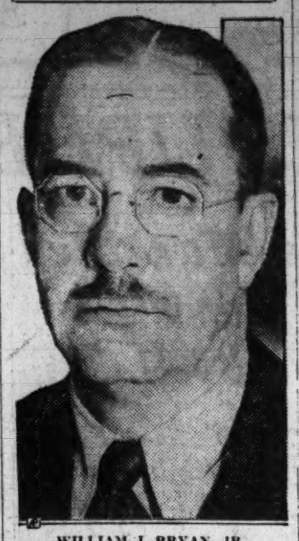

The success of the new economic program will place the Filipinos in a position eventually to separate from America, not only painlessly in an economic way but also equipped with the economic sinews essential to the maintenance of a stable and durable independence. Independence will be far or near, according to the earnestness with which the Filipinos work out the program. This may be one of the things Secretary of War Hurley had in mind when he stated that independence must be achieved in terms of accomplishment of conditions, a thought that shows constructive friendship for the Filipino people.

Doctors Ready to Defend Cancer Cure Libel Suit

Davenport, Iowa, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Defense attorneys in the trial of the half million dollar libel suit filed in Federal Court by Norman Baker, of Muscatine, against the American Medical Association today prepared to back up their assertions in opening statements that Baker's cancer treatment was composed of equal parts of carbolic acid, alcohol, and glycerine, with a touch of peppermint.

Two physicians, Drs. Wilbur J. Teeters, dean of the College of Pharmacy, State University of Iowa, and Dr. Paul Nicholas Leech, Chicago, director of the chemical laboratories of the American Medical Association, were called as witnesses.

GIANNINI INTERESTS WIN TRANSAMERICA

Founder Displaces Bankers Who Disapproved of His Policies.

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Amadeo P. Giannini, former San Francisco fruit merchant who became a leader in banking circles of the country, today won his greatest triumph by displacing a powerful group of bankers from control of the Transamerica Corporation at its annual meeting.

As the 62-year-old financier emerged from the meeting in which he had replaced Elisha Walker, of New York, as chairman of the board, he said, "it is the greatest triumph of my career." In a formal statement later he said his jubilation was tempered by the great responsibility of the important task ahead.

The meeting, climaxing a six-months' battle for control of the corporation, which Giannini founded in 1928, was considered as an overwhelming vindication of Giannini policies of which the Walker group has disapproved. He had voluntarily resigned from control in 1930 on his sixtieth birthday carrying out his announced intention.

Walker Concedes Defeat.

A temporary board of directors was chosen to be replaced later, Giannini announced, by bankers residing on the Pacific Coast without regard to what faction they were aligned with during the fight for control.

An anticipated lengthy battle of proxies did not materialize as a count showed the founder and his associates controlled 15,371,578 shares of a possible 24,453,900. Even before the meeting opened Walker had conceded victory, saying, "as Transamerica's largest shareholder I wish the new management every possible success."

John M. Grant, of San Francisco, was elected president of the corporation when the board met at the conclusion of the stockholders session. Giannini was chosen chairman and agreed to serve without pay. Grant's salary was fixed at $20,000 a year.

Coast Officers Resign.

San Francisco, Calif., Feb. 15 (A.P.) Arnold J. Mount, resigned today from the presidency of the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association. George G. Webster, executive vice president in charge of extensions, also resigned.

The resignations were presented at the director's meeting preceding the annual stockholders' meeting, and following the annual Trans-America Corporation meeting in Wilmington, Del., at which A. P. Giannini regained control of the bank holding company.

Mount had participated in the struggle for Trans-America control under orders of Elisha Walker, chairman of the board, whom Giannini defeated.

The resignations of the executives were accepted by the directors, who thanked Mount and Webster for their services.

Sweden May Extend Gold Ban.

Stockholm, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The Swedish government has indicated its intention to extend until May 15 the suspension of the gold standard, according to today's newspapers. The present suspension order expires February 29.

W. J. BRYAN OPENS CRUSADE FOR SILVER

Doctrine of Great Commoner on Bimetalism Carried on by His Son.

Denver, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Men and sons of men who cheered William Jennings Bryan in 1896 returned today to cheer William Jennings Bryan 2d as the son of the great Commoner opened the Western States silver conference with a plea for bimetalism.

Metal miners from mountain ghost towns joined with representatives of twelve Western States in decrying gold as a basis for the world's transactions and chorusing a demand for the rehabilitation of silver.

"In 1896," said Bryan, "the statement was frequently made that the silver question was dead. Today we are painfully aware that the silver question was never dead, but sleeping.

Applause Is Generous.

"Unless silver is again made to do duty as primary money, by the side of gold," Bryan declared, "there is no relief from falling prices, unemployment, bankruptcy, suffering and misery for the unnumbered millions of the world."

Russell F. Collins, of Seattle, stirred round after round of applause as he urged America to force the issue to establish bimentalism.

He declared nature has fixed the ratio between gold and silver down through the ages. He insisted that miners returning from the hills invariably bring in from 13 to 14 ounces of silver to 1 ounce of gold.

Former United States Senator Charles S. Thomas, of Denver, urged the convention to "briefly and unequivocally declare for the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the historic ratio established by statute a century ago."

Nebraskan on Program.

The statutory ratio was slightly more than 15½ to 1.

C. G. Binderup, of Lincoln, president of the Silver League, said present economic conditions have as a basis, not overproduction, but lack of purchasing power, which he believes bimetalism would remedy.

Most of the speakers avoided reference to a definite ratio for the coinage of gold and silver.

Morrison Shafroth, son of a former governor and United States senator from Colorado, was elected permanent chairman, and Caroline Davis, secretary of the Bimetallic Association, secretary of the conference.

Governor of Oklahoma Opposed to Wilkerson

Oklahoma City, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A protest against confirmation of the appointment of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, as judge of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals was wired by Gov. W. H. Murray today to Senators Gore and Thomas, of Oklahoma.

"The appointment should not be confirmed," Gov. Murray said. "As district judge, he violated the Constitution and should be impeached rather than confirmed."

Police Raid Still Screened By Arbor of Pine Boughs

A still protected from aerial observation by a layer of pine branches arranged overhead was raided yesterday by Prince Georges County policemen, who arrested George McClain, of Laurel, as one of the operators.

The New York airlines pass over the location of the still, which was on the Bowie road, and the owners were apparently afraid the location of the plant would be given away by the pilots. A rough framework held a screen of green boughs over the mash boxes and still, which were on top of a hill. The reason for the camouflage was revealed yesterday afternoon while the still was being dynamited when a Ludington plane flew over the place.

McClain was only one of the two men working at the still, which had a capacity of 100 gallons, police said. The other man escaped in the underbrush when the raid was made. In addition to the still 1,000 gallons of mash were found and 46 gallons of alleged whisky. The raid was made by Policemen Claude Reese, Ralph Brown and William Clifton.

A raid on a 100-gallon still near Leonardtown, Md., netted two brothers, Albert Graves and B. F. Graves, over the week-end, Federal dry agents said yesterday. The brothers, who live at Leonardtown, are charged with possession, manufacture and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor. In addition to the still 1,100 gallons of mash were found.

6 CHANGES DECREED IN FOOTBALL RULES UPHEAVAL

Ball to Be Declared Dead When Player Falls to Ground.

Tackler and Blocker Can Not Leave Feet as Formerly.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—To safeguard school and college football from the mounting toll of casualties which reached an unprecedented number last season, the national football rules committee today announced the most drastic revisions the game has known in a quarter century.

Chief among six major changes in the playing code for 1932 are regulations which abolish the dangerous "flying wedge" formation from kick-off and outlaw the aggressive use of hands on the defense, with severe penalty for violation.

Going farther in its sweeping move to root out the sources or causes of gridiron injuries and deaths, the rules makers decided to liberalize the substitution rules to permit the reentry of any withdrawn player in any subsequent period; to abolish the flying block or tackle, recently developed by many high-powered offensive systems; to make the ball "dead" when any part of the ball carrier's body touches the ground, except his hands or feet, and to alter the player equipment, with greater safety and protection in view.

Greatest Change Since Forward Pass.

Not since the forward pass was introduced, paving the way for the modern "open" game, has the gridiron code been given a more severe shaking up.

The committee's decisions, jointly announced after a three-day session at Hanover by Chairman Edward K. Hall and Secretary William S. Langford, were hailed today by leaders all over the country as the solution to manifold troubles besetting the sport. Hall expressed the conviction that these ills had been properly diagnosed and the remedies applied to accomplish a "great forward step" in reducing the chances of player injuries. Leading coaches and officials collaborated with the committee in framing the changes that apparently cover all factors blamed for the heavy toll in youthful lives.

Based chiefly on the exhaustive investigation of newspaper reports by Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at the University of Michigan, the committee's analysis developed a maximum of 21 deaths attributable to football, as compared with approximately 50 listed in newspaper reports from all parts of the country. Misleading or incomplete reports, the committeee learned, were responsible for the erroneous charging of a number of youthful lives to the game. In one instance, Yost found a reported victime alive and healthy.

Rule Unhesitatingly Against Wedge

The committee, although charging exaggeration, did not minimize the sports dangerous trend, or modify its action. For example, it ruled unhesitatingly against the so-called "flying wedge" on kick-off, despite conclusive evidence that not a single fatal injury resulted from such mass formations. Dick Sheridan, the Army end who died from injuries in the Yale game, was hurst in tackling the ball carrier on kick-off.

Under the new kick-off rule, the ball may be put into play from its customary spot on the 40-yard line by any one of three methods—drop kick, punt, or, as formerly, the place kick. On the defensive side, at least five men must remain on their own 45-yard line until the ball is kicked. This provides for more strategy on the kick-off, besides preventing a mass formation to protect the ball carrier, who will nevertheless be given an opportunity to make a fair catch.

Aim to Check Injuries Among Linemen

The new rule covering use of hands on the defense deals with what many coaches considered the most serious factor in injuries on the line. "Players on defense are forbidden to strike an opponent on the head, neck or face with hand, wrist, forearm or elbow," the new regulation provides, adding, "such players may hereafter use the palms of their hands on the head of an opponent to ward off or push such opponents in order to get at the ball or the player carrying it."

This apparently will call for some fine arts of discernment by officials charged with the task of distinguishing between legal and illegal use of hands. The panalty for violation is disqualification of the individual and loss of half the distance to the offending team's goal line.

Piling Up Target of New Rule

Abolition of the flying block or tackle, with a 5-yard penalty for violation, extracts something from the defensive; but it appears offset by the rule making the ball "dead" at any time the carrier's body touches the ground, excepting his hands and feet. This is aimed at dangerous "piling up," the source of numerous injuries, but it also will cut down the gaining powers of many a back who specializes in making progress under difficulties or in getting loose after a partial knockdown.

Under the new rule affecting substitutions it will be possible for one player to enter and leave the game four times, instead of twice. The withdrawn player can go back in any subsequent period. Thereby one of the causes for keeping a star in the game until he nears the point of exhaustion is removed. However, the team making a substitution will be charged with a "time out," unless time already has been called for some other reason.

Changes in Football Rules Since 1906

(Associated Press.)

The more important changes since 1906 as listed by Parke Davis in Spalding's Football Guide:

1909—Value of goal from field reduced to 3 points from 5.

1910—Player withdrawn from game allowed to be substituted at end of subsequent period; dimensions of field altered to provide playing length of 100 yards, with 10-yard zones behind each goal established in which forward pass may be legally caught; kick-off set back of 40-yard line from midfield; limitation of 20-yard minimum on forward passes removed; value of touchdown increased from 5 to 6 points.

1920—Clipping curbed.

1922—Try for point after touchdown rule changed to allow either place-kick, drop-kick, forward pass or scrimmage from 5-yard line.

1924—Tees abolished; shift required to come to absolute stop; try-for-point moved up to 3-yard line.

1926—Penalty of down and loss of 5 yards imposed for all incomplete forward passes after first in series of downs.

1927—Goal posts set 10 yards behind goal line.

1929—Muffed or fumbled ball recovered by opponents after striking ground ruled dead on point of recovery; try-for-point moved up to 2-yard line.

REVISION OF RULES FOR 1932 SEASON

(Associated Press.)

1. Rule governing equipment amplified "so that hard and unyielding substances, if used in the construction of thigh guards, shin guards and braces, must be padded on the outside with felt, from rubber or other soft padding at least three-eighths of an inch thick. No hard or unyielding knee or elbow pads will be allowed, and the recommendation is made that soft knee pads be worn by all players."

2. On kickoff or free kick, at least five men of the team receiving the kickoff are restricted to own 45-yard line until ball actually kicked. The kickoff may be made by either a punt, dropkick or place kick, but the receiving team is to have the opportunity of making a fair catch without interference by members of the kicking team even though they are on side.

3. Blocking and tackling. It will no longer be legal to use a flying block or tackle of any opponent, which is defined as diving at or throwing the body through the air. It will be legal for the tackler to leave his feet only at the instant he makes contact with an opponent. Loss of 5 yards for violation.

4. Substitutions liberalized to permit replacement of a player at any time, and the player withdrawn allowed to return once in any subsequent period.

5. Ball dead when any portion of ball carrier, excepting hands or feet, touches the ground, whether or not he is in the grasp of an opponent. Only player excepted from this rule is holder of ball on place-kick.

6. Use of hands on head and neck—Players on defense are forbidden to strike an opponent on the head, neck or face with hand, wrist, forearm or elbow. Such players may hereafter use palms of their hands on the head of an opponent to ward off or push such opponent in order to get at the ball or at the player carrying it. Penalty for breach of this rule is disqualification and loss of one-half distance to the offending team's goal line.

Notre Dame System of Line Play Hit, Tom Mills Says.

Bergman Likes New Rules; Hardell Is Also in Favor.

VEHEMENT shafts of criticism, intermixed with hearty concurrence, greeted the six major modifications of the codes of football advanced yesterday by the national football rules committee after the new grid laws had been absorbed by District of Columbia coaches.

Local football mentors, in a consensus arranged by The Post last night, regarded the modifications, as a whole, as a slightly radical and sweeping action of the N. F. R. C. to even up the scales of public opinion which followed last year's unprecedented number of gridiron deaths. Several coaches believed that the year after next would see a repeal, or a modification of the modifications, particularly in sections 6 and 5, which concern the use of hands and the point at which a ball is "dead."

New Stress Laid Upon Officials

New stress will be laid upon the football official by the change in rules, one prominent arbitrer said. His duties have been trebled, and his importance in the general scheme of proposed football has multiplied accordingly.

Tommy Mills, veteran Georgetown University grid instructor, and former coach of the Notre Dame back field—and a confirmed disciple of the system of play accredited to the late Knute Rockne—said in effect last night:

"Section 6 of the new rule is a definite blow at the Notre Dame system, where use of the hands is an integral part of line play. If the rule is as stringently enforced as the blunt language of the new rule would have us believe, I believe that it will do more harm than good. A player's hands, on the defense, are his greatest weapons; the armor of a weak man against the charge of a heavier foe. I would hate to see the abolition of the unvicious use of my players' hands. It will do away with much pretty line play.

"It may react in the direction of end running, for the linemen who have been taken out by the hands of the enemy could generally retain enough equilibrium to get into an end play. Now, it seems, there will be general piling up, as the linemen crouch lower and depend on their heads and shoulders and hips to open holes and protect themselves.

Section 5 Takes Thrills From Game

"The public will not like section 5. Half the thrill of open-field running crops up when a player, with bad underfooting beneath him, for instance, falls and gets up again and goes on. The committee seems to have overlooked this aspect of the 'dead' ball rule—namely, when a man falls, slips or is toppled by a poor tackle, although I believe that, in the general mix-up, it would be a good thing for the ball to be called 'dead' to keep players from attempting another inch or two gain, with half the opposing club on his neck."

"The new football rules, in general, will not affect the essentials of the game," Head Coach Dutch Bergman, of Catholic University, told The Post last night. "However, they will bring into the sport interesting innovations—the punt back of a kick-off, for instance. The ban on flying blocking and vicious use of the hands should minimize injuries and the new rules in general should engender new ideas in the game.

"I like the 'dead' ball ruling. It is true that some snap will be taken out of the game if a player slips when he is out in the open far from tacklers, but there are not many instances during a game when a player is bowled over, or falls, when he is clear.

Maryland U. Adds 13th Straight

Washington-Lee Five Routed for Second Time, 49-19.

Norris Leads Attack; Old Line Reserves See Action.

IF these Maryland University basketers keep it up, we'll have to invent some new superlatives. Last night they stretched their rubbery winning streak to thirteen victories, eight in Southern Conference competition, by defeating an unexpectedly inferior Washington and Lee five, 49 to 19. More than 2,000 saw the game in Ritchie Coliseum and shared in the Generals' bewilderment.

So potent was Maryland's attack and defense that it was never in danger after the initial toss-up, and Washington and Lee failed to score a single field goal in the first half. Incidentally, the toss-up was the only phase of play in which the Generals enjoyed the advantage, as Maryland conceded the "tap" to Vic Griewank, 6-foot-9 W. and L. center.

But even Griewank's excellence in this respect was dulled by the fact that the Old Liners sent Shorty Chalmers, 5-foot-8 forward, in the circle to oppose him, and otherwise the touted Generals' center was completely outplayed. Coach Ellerman benched him before the first half was finished. He returned late in the second chapter to sink a couple of free tosses.

1931 Conference Champs Start

Coach Burton Shipley started the team that won the Southern Conference championship last year. This array included Jack Norris, normally a center but who played forward in the revamped order, and Charlie May. Performing intact with Norris, the chief gunner, this combination piled up a 27-6 edge in the first 20 minutes. Norris continued his brilliant work in the second session to garner individual scoring honors for the night with 17 points.

All 12 men of Maryland's squad saw action and nine of them figured in the scoring. Wilbur Wright, sphomore guard, who has been ineligible on account of classroom deficiencies, made his debut in the role of substitute.

Joe Sawyers, who connected for the Generals' first field goal after one minute of the second half, led the visitors on attack with nine points. Jack Jarrett, his running mate at forward, was next in effectiveness with seven points, five on free tosses.

Edith Quier Medalist In Florida Tournament

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A single stroke was the margin by which Miss Edith Quier, brilliant Reading, Pa., golfer, led a field of prominent players in the qualifying round of the Florida women's golf championship today. She shot a 38, 39—77.

Miss Helen Hicks, national champion, missed tying Miss Quier for the medal when she needed 3 putts for the eighteenth hole. Miss Quier dropped her second within 2 feet of the cup and sank her putt for a birdie 3.

Miss Hicks finished with 42, 36—78, 2 strokes over women's par. One stroke behind Miss Hicks came Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., who had 38, 41—79.

Miss Bea Gottlieb, winner of the Miami tournament last week, was badly off her game and shot a 98, failing to qualify in the championship flight. She withdrew from the tournament.

LANDERS AND KOCSIS IN FEATURE

By JACK ESPEY.

TONIGHT'S punch party under auspices of the Day Nursery Athletic Association in Portner's Arena, Alexandria, should lack nothing in frill and thrills, for some of the well-known gentry of the fiestic profession will trample the same resin in the same ring with lads of lesser prestige who concede nothing, however, in willingness to please.

Antol Kocsis, proud possessor of the bantam and flyweight titles of Hungary, and ranked among the first ten bantamweights of the world, is slated to exhibit his well stocked repertoire of hooks and crosses in the main event of eight rounds. His opponent is the popular blond from Norfolk, "Buzzsaw Billy" Landers, who for the second time in five weeks is pitted against one of the pugilistic elite.

In the eight-round semifinal will appear Louie Jallos, a Cleveland youth of Greek parentage, who rode to dizzy heights in amateur boxing before crashing professionals circles last year. Jallos is to meet Bobby Burns, rugged Baltimore lightweight, who dropped a hard-fought bout to the slugging Stumpy Jacobs three weeks ago.

Fists to Fly in Preliminaries

Boys who like to throw gloves to the exclusion of attempting the fancier stuff will appear in the quartet of four-round preliminaries. The piece de resistance of this part of the show finds a pair of hard-hitting flyweights matched—Gabe Navos, Alexandria Filipino, and Young Kid McSheas, all-service 112-pound champion.

Billy Essinger, who scored a sensational knockout over Jack Lamar in his last bout, will trade wallops with Tony Martell, of Philadelphia, who was substituted yesterday for Lamar when the latter sent word from the Quaker City that he would be unable to keep the return engagement. Bingo Brodie, Goldie Ahearn's clouting middleweight, will try his murderous right on Johnny Brock, of Baltimore, while Young Van, making his pro debut, is to oppose Johnny Edwards, from Warrenton, Va.

Landers comes back to Portner's against a man who is respected nearly as much as Midget Wolgast, king of the flyweights, whom Billy fought in the Alexandria ring last month. But in spite of the fact that he absorbed a decisive defeat from Wolgast, the comparison does not mean that Landers has no decent chance of winning. On the contrary, the little Norfolk battler figures to have a chance of winning by a knockout, because in Kocsis he is meeting his own type, a slugger.

Bronson in Charge of Kocsis

Kocsis is highly recommended by Jimmy Bronson, well-known New York fight manager who brought Gene Tunney to the fore. Bronson will be in the Hungarian's corner and also will second Jallos. The latter has won eleven of his fourteen professional fights to date.

The writer's Boxing Bits Selections for tonight follow: Kocsis to defeat Landers; Jallos to outpoint Burns; Navos to shade McSheas; Essinger to decision Martell; Brodie to stop Brock; Young Van to beat Edwards.

G. W. Streak Snapped by Duquesne

Colonial Five Is Dealt First Loss, 38-22, at Pittsburgh.

Dukes Maintain Lead of 18-12 Held at End of Half.

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBUURGH, Pa., Feb. 15.—Duquesne University's five handed George Washington's quintet its first defeat of the season on the Duke floor, 38 to 32. The victors avenged a defeat they received earlier in the season at the hands of the losers on their home floor. It was a fast and well-played game. During the first half the score was tied three times, at 5-all, 7-all and 11-all.

Late in the first half the victors stepped out to a 6-point lead. Brenner, Feldman and MacDougal making goals. Brenner made a foul and Zahn, of G. W., made good on a foul shot. The score at the half was 18 to 12.

Duquesne stepped out to a large load in the early part of the second half, MacDougal, star center for the Dukes, sinking three successive goals, giving them a 12-point lead, but Zahn and Hertzler made goals, reducing the lead to 8 points. Then Moore, Feldman and MacDougal made goals for the Dukes, increasing their lead to 14 points again, with about seven minutes to play.

Burgess Scores 5 Points

Burgess made two goals and a foul to reduce the lead, but it was too late in the game to do any good as Duquesne stalled and killed time Fenlon, a substitute for Washington University, scored three goals in the dying minutes of play, attempting to start a rally, but Duquesne scored two more goals as the game ended, making the final score 38 to 32. Miserable work from the foul line was evident among the losers as they missed ten foul shots.

The entire Duquesne team played well. Feldman, with 14 points, and MacDougal, with 12 points, led the scoring for the victors, while Hertzler Burgess and Fenlon, with 9, 6 and 7 points, respectively, led the scooring for the losers.

Chick Hafey Is Seeking Raise From Cardinals

Berkeley, Calif., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Chick Hafey, bespectacled outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, has joined the list of players who want more money this season.

The leading hitter of the National League last year said today he had not signed his contract because it offered him the same salary as in 1931, and he feels he is entitled to more money on his record.

Hafey said he was holding the contract and had written a letter setting forth his side of the case.

American Sled Also Second; Ruts Make Slide Dangerous.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Billy Fiske, a little bit of a fellow with just the trace of an English accent, closed out the 1932 winter Olympics games in final triumph for the United States today by calmly driving his four-man bob sled to his second consecutive Olympic championship.

Paying no attention to the storm of ill-feeling and argument that has hung over the bob run down the side of Mount Van Hoevenberg since European members of the international Olympic bob sleigh committee wiped out most of its terrors, Fiske carefully nursed the lead he established in the first two heats yesterday to beat Young Hank Homburger's crew by 2.02 seconds in total time for the four heats of the championship.

Only one of the five European teams in races, thrice postponed and finally tacked onto the end of the program after the Olympic games officially closed Saturday afternoon, was able to keep within hailing distance of the two United States teams. That sled was the German combination, sole survivor of the original three entries and piloted by Capt. Hans Kilian.

Remainder of Field Badly Distanced

Kilian put together four heats for a total time of 8 minutes 4-100 seconds, almost five seconds back of Homburger's 7 minutes 55 70-100 seconds. Fiske's total time was 7 minutes 53 68-100 seconds.

The remainder of the field was badly distanced, Reto Capadrutt, the young Swiss, who finally hearkened to advice that life is long and the glory of brave but dead bob sledders fleeting, landing fourth place with a total of 8 minutes 12 18-100 seconds.

Count Rossi di Monteleara, of the Italian Vermouth family, was fifth in 8 minutes 24 21-200 seconds. One one-hundredth of a second faster than the quartet of Roumanian aviators Lieut. Al Papana piloted. Baron Walter von Mumm, more famous for his champagne, brought the reserve German sled home last in total time of 8 minutes 35 45-100 seconds.

Sleighers Discouraged By Course Snow

They were a discouraged band of bobsleighers as they fought another comparatively slow course, filled with snow at the order of Erwin Hachmann, of Germany, and Albert Meyer, of Belgium, international committee members.

Cold last night froze the slushy track given them for yesterday's two heats into ruts that the racers followed whether or not they led through the fastest parts of the course. Getting out of those ruts was dangerous business and despite the slowness of the track, which the boys insist they can drive in 1:40 for the 1½ miles under proper conditions, another crowd of about 20,000 that lined the steep sides of the mountain despite zero weather were given a full quota of thrills.

There were no spills, but Homburger, taking every possible chance in a desperate effort to make up the three-second deficit of the Saranac Lake "Red Devils" after yesterday's heats, almost turned over on the lumpy runway coming out of Whiteface at 70 miles an hour on his first run today.

He barely righted the sled, but the slew cost him about three seconds, enough to have beaten Fiske.

Take High Curves at Terrific Speed

Trying to make up for conditions, every driver was forced to take the curves high and at terrific speed. Once coming out of Shady Corner, Capadrutt's sled trembled on the edge of a little whiplash curve, and he barely got back. Papana, also had a very narrow escape at Shady,

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE men who attend to such matters have seen fit to order six drastic changes in the football playing rules in the interest of safety and sanity, and their points are well taken, except in two instances.

Two of the changes announced yesterday by the national football rules committee are radical departures aimed at the diminution of injuries, forbidding, as they do, the use of the flying block or tackle and decreeing the ball "dead" when any part of the ball carrier's body except his hands or his feet touches the ground.

The scope of the rule against the flying block or tackle threatens to devitalize the game in many respects and rob football of one of its prime thrills. Under the new rule it will be illegal for the tackler or the blocker to leave his feet until he makes contact with his opponent, and the fans no more will be able to thrill at the sight of a player flying through space with a tackle on his mind. The new rule is designed for the protection of the player and not for the entertainment of the spectator; and with more than 50 deaths accredited to football last season, any move to reduce the shock of impact must be accepted, but the game won't be what it was.

With the abolition of the flying tackle and the flying block there is reason to believe that one of the game's most thrilling features of a decade ago, the sweeping end run, will make its reappearance. The wide end runs have been outmoded by the highly developed secondary defense which was able to make the tackle after the interference had been spilled by flying blockers, but this type of defense must now go by the board.

The new rule places a premium on speed, with the flying tackle eliminated. Whereas the ball carrier could be brought down by the simple expedient of leaving the feet, the defense of next season must devise other ways to check the runner. Contact with the ball carrier must first be made before the defender is permitted to leave his feet, and it will be the speed boys who will be given first consideration for the back field by the coaches.

The rules makers have thus put the taboo on that dramatic feature of every game wherein the last lone defender speeding after a fast-stepping ball carrier makes the dive of the dying duck in a final futile effort to bring down his man, often starting his dive from a distance of twenty yards behind with no more chance of making the tackle than a Chinaman in Tokyo.

The net result of these last long dives for alma mammy is usually nothing more than a skinned probocis for the diver and the rules makers by forbidding the boys to leave their feet have done a distinct service to the Junior prom. In the long annals of football history there is as yet no record of a safety man ever having succeeded in making the tackle when they go into the tank on one of these dives that were never calculated to bring down the runner anyway but which always looked good to the grandstands.

The ban on flying tackles is the second set-back for the grandstand performers in recent years. When the rules moguls moved back the goal posts ten yards behind the line they ended that old dramatic custom of making gallant stands in the shadows of the goal posts. No more brave rallies could be staged in the shadows of the goal posts when the posts were so far behind the line they could throw no shadows.

Declaring the ball "dead" when any part of the ball carrier's body touches the ground except his hands or his feet is calculated to eliminate a great deal of the unnecessary roughness which contributed to many serious injuries in the past.

The failure of tacklers to make sure of their prey which earned them the censure from coaches on the bench has resulted in an almost insane desire to "pile on" and smother the ball carrier after he has been fairly tackled. There will now be no excuse for this "piling on" in which a defenseless runner, hugging the ball on the ground, is at the mercy of tacklers. There already is a rule in the book covering this offense but the rules makers have removed this type of roughness from the discretion of the referee and made a penalty mandatory if "piling on" occurs after any part of the ball carrier's body with the exception of his hands or feet comes in contact with the ground.

LONDOS STILL CHAMP.

Coaches of Nation Applaud And Condemn Rules Changes

(Associated Press.)

Howard Jones, University of Southern California coach—With time charged against a team for substitutions, a coach will put in two or three men at once instead of stringing them out over a few plays. The change also should help stop the practice of sending in a man only to give information. I think the committee did a fine job.

Elmer Layden, Duquesne University coach—It seems to me that the rules committee has hurt the game more than it has aided it. The first change, in allowing either a punt, drop kick or place kick on the kickoff, will have a tendency to make teams punt the ball short and try to regain possession of it. The receiver also will be exposed to severe injuries.

The second rule forbidding the players on the defense to strike an opponent on the head, neck or face with hand, wrist, forearm or elbow will eliminate the use of small players such as the type of Bert Metzger, of Notre Dame. This rule is simply a protection for the big boys and looks like football is going back to the caterpillar type. This is the worst rule change.

Dick Hanley, Northwestern University coach—On the whole, I don't think much of the changes. Those on equipment and substitution are fine, but the rules on blocking, tackling, the kickoff and the dead ball, I think, will injure the game by slowing it up. The elimination of the flying block leaves no place for the small player. The "dead" ball rule will destroy the mark that distinguishes a great player from a mediocre one. The kickoff rule will give a team with a good punter too great an advantage, and every change, excepting equipment and substitution, will throw more work on the already overworked officials.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Western Conference athletic commissioner—I think the rules committee did an admirable job. They have eliminated the unnecessary hazards of football without injuring the game; without robbing it of a thrill.

Bernie Bierman, former Tulane coach and now head coach at Minnesota—Mostly a bunch of bunk, except the "dead" ball rule. It's one place where they've got at the cause of accidents.

H. O. ("Fritz") Crisler, athletic director, University of Minnesota—Generally constructive I think, but the "dead" ball rule is going to make the game depend still more on the judgment of officials, and I dislike to see any more responsibility thrust on officials. If the officials had called piling up whenever it occurred, the committee wouldn't have had to make that rule.

George Veenker, head football coach at Iowa State College—The change in the kick-off will permit more open play and more action all the way down the field.

Marvin A. Stevens, Yale University coach—Of course there are always going to be injuries because football is a high-speed sport with a lot of contact, but I think that if the modi-

Dempsey Stops 2 Foes in 2 Minutes

11,000 at Flint, Mich., See One-Round Knockouts by Old Champion.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey knocked out a man a minute in a short-lived exhibition here tonight, dropping George Kohler, Chicago, and Pat McLaughlin, Waupaca, Wis., in just a little more than two minutes. The bouts were scheduled for two rounds each.

Kohler lasted just 61 seconds, then went down before a right to the jaw after Dempsey had chased him into a corner.

McLaughlin showed a disposition to trade punches with the former champion and got in two stiff body pûnches before Dempsey found the range and sent him down for a three-count. Then came a series of rights and left which brought the exhibition to a close. Dempsey weighed 190 pounds, his adversaries about the same. Seven thousand fans saw the match. The gate was estimated at $11,000, of which Dempsey received half.

Grobmeier Latest Capital Mat Hero

The fleeting fancy of Washington's rassling public has bounced in the past year from one head to another, ranging from Rudy Dusek to Doc Wilson, but now it nestles firmly in the uncombed hair of a comparative newcomer, Fred Grobmeier, who heads Thursday night's mat card at the Strand Theater by grappling Matros Kirilenko.

Joe Turner, of course, is the only enduring local favorite, but since the battle-scarred veteran turned his attention to promoting the tides of fortune have bounded merrily about. Last summer Rudy Dusek rated along with the District Commissioners in point of eminence in Washington, and today he's but another rassler on the Curley troupe.

Doc Wilson and Paul Jones caused many of the good burghers to applaud, and so did Matros Kirilenko. Sandor Szabo is another who once was mighty in Washington.

Grobmeier is 6 feet 4 inches tall and looks like a professional basket ball center. His hair is generally hanging in his eyes and he is so thin that you could read a heavy-type editorial through him. He is not quite as young as he appears, for he rassled Joe Turner back around war times.

He has the legs of a brass-ribbed octupus and throws elbow jabs with the best of the modern performers.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, popularly credited with having had a great deal to do with the present inflated condition of major league players' salaries are more sorely beset with contract troubles than any of their rivals, a survey by the Associated Press today discloses.

Their efforts to pare down bulky pay rolls have resulted in bumper holdout crops. The Dodgers have yet to sign nine players, all regulars. The Yankees still are trying to reach an agreement with five of their headliners, including Babe Ruth.

Pittsburgh, with five regulars believed unsigned, and the New York Giants, with three first line stars and a recruit pitcher definitely listed as holdouts, are the only other National League clubs having any real difficulty.

St. Louis and Cincinnati each has one avowed holdout, while Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia either have a safe full of signed contracts or do not choose to regard a man as a holdout until he fails to report at spring camp.

Outside of the Yankees, Washington and St. Louis are the only American League teams known to be experiencing contract trouble. Each has a pair of salary arguments to contend with. The other five clubs claim they are free of holdouts.

Brooklyn's list of backward boys includes three pitchers, Dazzy Vance, Babe Phelps and Joe Shaute; three infielders, Glenn Wright, Del Bissonette and Walter Gilbert; two outfielders, Babe Herman and Johnny Frederick, and last year's big rookie catcher, Ernest Lombardi.

The Yankees have yet to do business with all three of their regular outfielders, Earle Combs, Ben Chapman, and Ruth. Bill Dickey, first string catcher, and Lynn Larry, shorpstop, also are without the fold.

Although the Pittsburgh management has yet listed no holdouts pending the opening of spring camp, five Pirates are understood to be seeking better pay for 1932. They include the Waner boys, Lloyd and Paul; two star pitchers, Larry French and Ervin Brame, and Tony Piet, young infielder.

The New York Giants apparently have three stubborn cases in Bill Terry, first baseman; Freddie Leach, outfielder and Fred Fitzsimmons, pitcher. Herman Bell, International League acquisition, is not yet signed.

Cincinnati is said to be engaged in financial debate with its star pitcher, "Red" Lucas, and the champion St. Louis Cardinals have yet to appease Charlie Gelbert, regular shortstop.

The Washington Nationals still are shy several contracts, but only two players. Pitcher Fred Marberry and Catcher Roy Spencer, are regarded as real holdouts. Warren "Rip" Collins, pitcher, and Rick Ferrell, catcher, are carrying on a long distance argument with the St. Louis Browns.

DOUBLE HEART, CHOICE, COPS HIALEAH SPRINT FEATURE

Six-Year-Old Five Length Victor

Whitney Horses First, Second in Feature at New Orleans.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Double Heart, F. H. Carpenter's honest 6-year-old, showed marked superiority over six other good sprinters in the St. Valentine's Claiming Handicap of 6 furlongs before one of the largest Monday crowds of the season here today. The son of High Time flashed past the pagoda pole a winner by five lengths to reward favorite players with $6 for $2.

Pennate, the disappointing C. V. Whitney color bearer, saved the place by a head from Miss Tulsa. The latter pulled up lame after the finish. Bobby Montgomery, a capable young rider, rode faultlessly astride the favorite. He rated his mount in an advantageous position while Lullaby II, a fast but faint-hearted trick, and Miss Tulsa showed the way.

Pennate and Double Heart raced as a team through the back stretch behind the leaders. Rounding into the final straightaway, Montgomery went to work on Double Heart and the choice responded willingly, wearing down the pacemakers in jig time and drawing far clear through the last furlong. Pennate closing fast under punishment to overhaul Miss Tulsa. The time was 1:11 3-5.

Justinian Easy Winner at New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—In an all-Whitney affair, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Justinian spread-eagled her field and C. V. Whitney's Chimney Sweep ran second in the Tarpon Purse, which featured the program at the Fair Grounds today.

After letting Chimney Sweep set the early pace, Justinian moved into the lead at the head of the stretch and at the end of the 6 furlongs was six lengths in front of C. V. Whitney's 5-year-old son of Whisk Broom II. Third money went to E. F. Prichard's Weideleen.

The victory was Justinian's first of the winter season with the result she returned $13.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket. She ran the distance in 1:12 3-5.

Jacobs Stable, Jockey Gilbert Feature at Havana

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Dr. Irving Jacobs, of New York, and Jockey Johnny Gilbert dominated the program at Oriental Park today.

Runners from Jacobs' stable won two races, while Gilbert put over four consecutive winners for one of the best records of the meetings. Keewatin, a 3-year-old, was the first of the Jacobs color bearers to win and he was followed by Imperial Air, which accounted for the 6-furlong fourth event.

Gilbert started his winning streak with Captain J. S. in the third event and followed in order with Imperial Air, Liberty Ace and Easter Boy. All four were strong favorites, Captain J. S. paying 8 to 5, Imperial Air even money, Liberty Ace, 8 to 5 and Easter Boy, 4 to 1.

FETE FOR WALTER JOHNSON.

A dinner for the purpose of bidding Walter Johnson good luck and a successful season for his Nationals will be staged at the Hamilton Hotel Thursday night. Thomas F. Flaherty, who annually tenders these "get away" affairs just before the Washington Club leader leaves for the Southern training base, again will act as host.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLEASE, $3.20, $3.10, $2.80; BOUNDING DEEP, $7.50, $4.30; DUNROCK, $3.20.

PLEASE ran as if he outclassed his company. He took the track and never was out of restraint, increasing his margin all the way without being urged. BOUNDING DEEP broke slowly, worked his way through, moved up with a rush around bend, but was tiring in late stages to hold DUNROCK. Latter closed ground last three furlongs and was wearing BOUNDING DEEP down. VACATION tired in final furlong after racing well up.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 15.—A well-balanced and diversified program has been arranged for the patrons of Hialeah Park tomorrow, with the Deland Handicap, a 1-mile gallop, as the feature attraction. This event, carded as the fifth, received a select list of five evenly matched thoroughbreds to contest the $1,500 purse. An allowance affair, for 3-year-olds exclusively, a test of 6-furlongs, will support the main event. The remainder of the program is fashioned for the cheaper grade of platers.

In the headliner, G. D. Widener's crack sprinter, EVENING, which equaled the track record for 7 furlongs, is nicely suited by the conditions and with his light impost of 111 pounds, appears best of his four rivals. ARRAS has shown speed in recent efforts, and figures to furnish the opposition, with SANSARICA favored over the others for the minor award.

FIRST RACE — PHANTOM RACK, second in his last start, should improve enough to outfoot his rivals. NORWALK showed a splendid effort to finsh second to Zevar and should go as well here. JELLION will have REGAL KNIGHT to beat for the show.

SECOND RACE — LAST BID has shown improvement in recent races and may take down the honors. ALGERIA and TRY COME should battle it out for the remainder of the purse.

THIRD RACE—F. E. Kraft's MEMORIES DEAR holds a slight edge over his opponents. ELLICE, a game sprinter, is favored for the place, with KENSINGTON as the show possibility.

FOURTH RACE—This secondary feature is an open race with several possibilities. E. J. Holland's JAMES RIVER is selected to score. BAY ANGON figures to finish in the runner-up position, with THURSDAY favored over HEROVILLE for the short end of the purse.

SIXTH RACE—JACK CAMPBELL scored impressively over a similar field last start and under the same conditions is the one to beat. NEGOPOLI is in prime condition and is the place selection. POLYGAMOUS is stepping up in this field, but has shown enough promise to warrant the show.

SEVENTH RACE—FETISH, a consistent plater from the Mose Lowenstein stable, should outfoot his rivals. The Stafen-The Great offspring has only to run back to his last previous victory to score over this mediocre group. TANCRED has raced with better company and may prove a dangerous contender. NEALON KAY, a surprise winner last start, is selected for the short end of the purse.

GRID TUTORS DIVIDED ON CHANGES

Nation's Coaches Hail Revised Rules With Varied Opinions.

fications proposed by the rules committee are followed out, both by the coaches and officials charged with supervising the game, it will result in a general reduction of serious hurts.

Gilmour Dobie, Cornell coach—The changes made in the rules will make the game somewhat safer. I don't believe that they will interfere seriously with the playing of the game.

Andy Kerr, Colgate coach—Anything that will help to get away from injuries is fine.

Harvey Harman, University of Pennsylvania coach—The new rules taken as a whole should improve the game by decreasing injuries and creating changes that should prove interesting to students of the game and spectators.

Dan McGuigan, Vanderbilt coach—The new regulations as a whole are good and constructive and will tend to make the game safer. The new rules offer no loopholes for new strategy, although the kick-off option of the use of the drop-kick, put or place-kick may give advantage to the squad with a good punter.

Morgan Blake, Atlanta Journal sports editor—The committee has certainly done its worst. It has mighty nigh ruined the game. The rule making the ball dead when any part of the ball carrier's body, except his hands or feet, touches the ground strikes me as the most absurd measure. The committee, however, eliminated all possibility of overemphasis of football. There will not be much football left to overemphasize.

Clark Shaughessy, Loyola University coach—The elimination of the flying tackle was proper, but not that of the flying block. A small player is greatly handicapped when he can not throw his body at a larger opponent. The new substitution rule undoubtedly will be taken advantage of to send in information. It is a practice which is distasteful and should be decried.

CAPITAL COACHES DIVIDED ON RULES

"They (the committee) can not do much about football injuries by shuffling rules," laconically commented Hap Hardell, coach of the Tech High team, high school champions for four years. "It looks like they'll need more officials. The rule on the use of hands assumes that most officials are lax in calling the already existant rule of the hands."

Hardell continued, "It looks like there will be more coaching from the bench, with substitutes carrying in the messages. I'm glad the flying butt and tackle is out, particularly if it will protect the passer. The 'dead' ball rule will soften the game."

"Dutch" Eberts, secretary of the District of Columbia board of football officials, anticipates much more work for officials as a result of the new rules. "Coaches, however, hold the future of the new rules' efficacy," said Eberts. "If they persist in continuing their teachings in the use of hands, for example, football officials who interpret the new rules too stringently are very likely to lose favor with the institution concerned and risk future employment."

Rip Miller, Navy's coach, told The Post he agreed with all the modifications save the one concerning the use of hands. "It will make a wrestling match out of what is now beautiful and artful line play," he said.

U. S. SLEDDERS WIN IN 4-MAN EVENT

The bobsled victory of Fiske, with Eddie Eagan, of Yale, and Oxford, 1920 light-heavyweight Olympic boxing champion, riding as pivot; Clifford "Tippy" Gray, songwriter, at No. 2; and Jay O'Brien, chairman of the United States Olympic bobsled committee, and once one of America's finest gentleman steeplechase jockeys, at the brakes, gave the United States the greatest victory in the 12-year history of the winter Olympics.

U. S. Leads Unofficial Point Standing

In the unofficial team point standing, the United States finished with 103 points. Norway, hitherto supreme in winter sports, was second with 77. Only Japan and Great Britain, of the 17 nations entering 331 athletes, failed to score. Canada counted 49 points, Sweden, 28; Finland, 25; Austria, 15; Germany, 12; France, 10; Switzerland, 9; Hungary, 7; Roumania, 4; Poland, 3; Italy, 3; Belgium, 1, and Czechoslovakia, 1.

Tonight most of the drivers prepared for real sport tomorrow in the two heats of the North American and Amateur Athletic Union four-man championships. Tomorrow the local boys plan to rocket down the chute in better than 1:50 just to prove what the slide offers when in perfect condition.

Fiske has not entered his team in the championships and will not compete but three foreign fours, those of Kilian, Papana, and Capadrutt are scheduled to stop over for the fun. Against them three local teams, captained by Homburger, Ray Stevens, and Curtis Stevens will race along with the Olympic alternate team of Harry Grayson Martin.

Hyattsville Defeats Gonzaga Five, 42-29

Unleashing a fast offense beneath the enemy's basket, Hyattsville High's Basket Ball Team upset the court dope yesterday by handing Gonzaga a 42-29 defeat at Gonzaga High Gymnasium. Cogar and Lutz were outstanding for the winners, sinking 22 points between them close in on Gonzaga territory after a good passing attack.

Gonzaga, led by Keegin and Lao, one of the best dribblers in high school ranks, held Hyattsville to 10-12 at the half, but wilted in the stretch.

G. U. Prep Triumphs Over Landon, 23-10

Georgetown Prep boosted its winning games to fifteen yesterday, against five losses, by upsetting Landon School, 23 to 10, at Landon. Nee and Keating were the chief scoring threats of the winners, while Orme, alone, of the losers was able to hit the middle of the rim with consistency.

Landon trailed, 1 to 11, at the half, but held its own against the sturdy Garrett Parkers in the second session.

D. C. Squash Title Is Won by Exnicios

Exnicios, who learned the game only five years ago, and who has become one of the best players in the East in the last year, started slowly against the energetic Jeter, but as soon as he gained his sights and ranges swept his finals rival around the court in vain quests of his thumping shots.

The two survived a field of sixteen chosen players. In the semifinal round Exnicios downed R. W. Miller and Jeter beat A. Minnick. Jeter, it was, who sprang the biggest upset of the tournament by beating H. L. deSibour in the first round.

Washington will send a strong team to the national chimpionship, to be held in Baltimore this week-end, starting Saturday. Besides Exnicios and deSibour, the city will be represented by Knowles Mahon, P. C. Jeter, R. W. Miller, W. N. Goodwin, A. Minnick and Henry Berliner.

SIX DISTRICT A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS SANCTIONED

Track Games Scheduled In June

Sports Body's Initial Meet Planned at Central.

Court Tourney Will Feature Card of Spring Events.

TOPPED by the giant basket ball tournament which will start March 1 at Tech High gym with more than 100 teams and 1,000 players competing, the spring sports offensive of the District Amateur Athletic Union gained impetus last night at the regular monthly meeting of the A. A. U.'s board of managers, held at the office of Norman Landreau, vice president.

Plans were promulgated for the staging of six A. A. U. championships, basket ball, boxing, wrestling, outdoor track and field meet, handball and swimming. Starting with the basket ball tournament March 1, which will be held in conjunction with The Post, the swimming championships will be held March 18 and 19, at the Shoreham; boxing matches at Ritchie Coliseum March 30 to April 2; handball April 1, at the Y. M. C. A.; wrestling April 15, or thereabout, and the track meet during the first week in June.

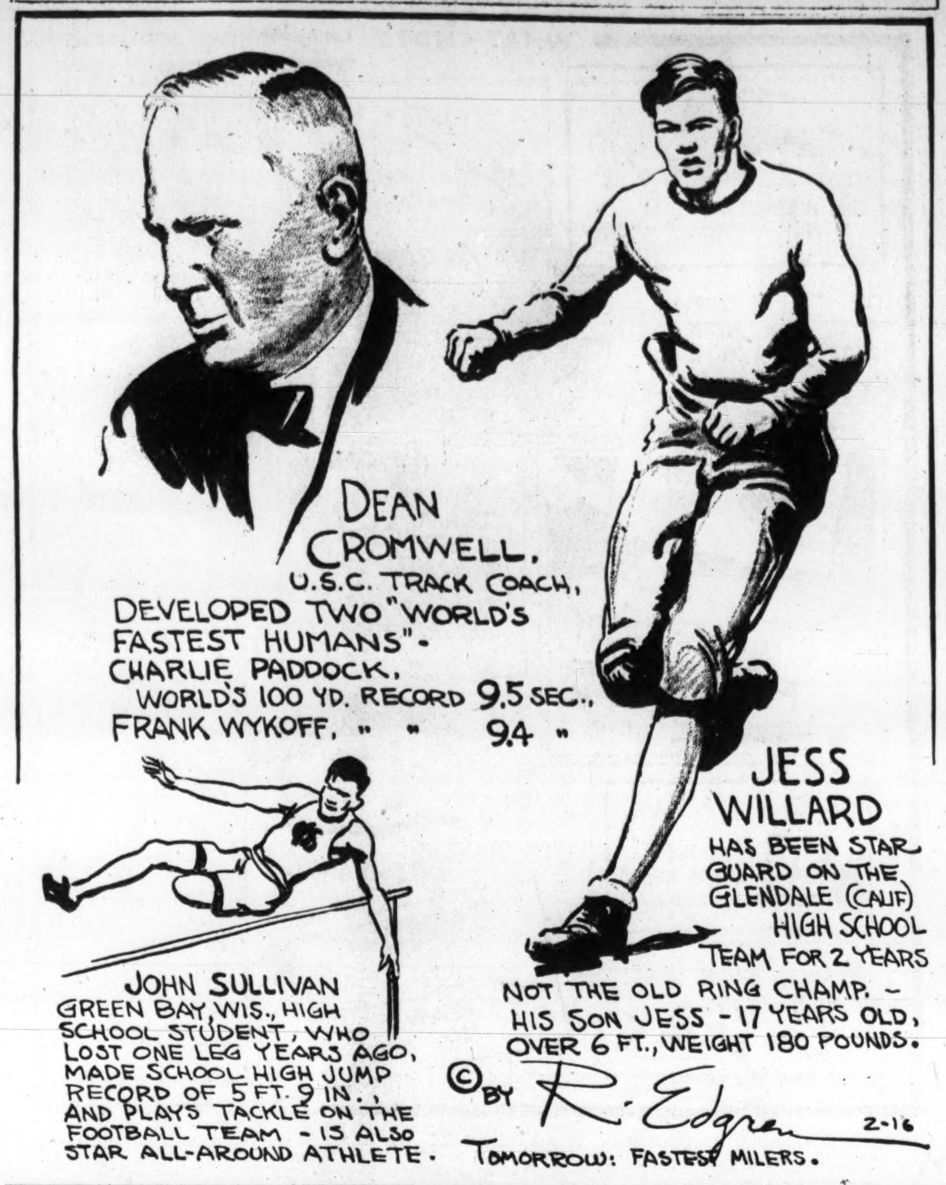

Washington Bicentennial to Sponsor

Every one of the six events will be staged under the general sponsorship of the George Washington Bicentennial sports commission. The board of managers look forward to each event's attracting a record number of entries.

The track meet will be the first of its kind attempted by the local A. A. U. Central High probably will be the scene of the big event. Entry blanks are now available for three of the six events, basket ball, swimming and handball. They may be obtained at the Boys Club.

High hopes are being held for the basket ball and boxing championship, which are expected to cram Tech and Ritchie Gymnasiums to capacity, as the amateur courtmen and leather-swingers of the city, from peanut size to heavyweights, vie for District titles in their respective classes of avoirdupoise.

KELLY AGAIN WILL MEET TOPPINO

AL KELLY, Georgetown University's intercollegiate 70-yard sprint champion, will get a chance to avenge an earlier defeat from Emmett Toppino, New Orleans star, when he races in the 60-yard dash at the New York A. C. games in Madison Square tomorrow night.

In the Millrose games on February 6 Kelly lost by inches to Toppino in the 50-yard final after having won two heats at 60 yards.

C. U. to Enter Lyons and Relay

Catholic University also will be represented in the meet tomorrow night, with Johnny Lyons entered in the sprints and a mile team of Gayle McGuigan, Tom Campbell, John Hickey and Vince McDonald nominated for the relays. Vic Burke, of Georgetown, will compete in an invitational 500-yard run.

On Saturday Georgetown and Catholic will compete in the Meadowbrook games at Philadelphia. The former will be represented by Kelly and Walter Kowalonek in a 40-yard dash; Maurice O'Reilly in a 660-yard run, and Vic Burke, Chuck Carlin, Jack Mara and Capt. Jim Kelly in the 2-mile relay. In addition to Lyons, C. U. will enter its 1-mile and 2-mile quartets; George Garafalo in the 2-mile run and Bob Connors, Felix Farris and McDonald in the 1,000-yard run.

Government League Has 2 Games Tonight

Strengthened for their final dash toward a pennant, four Government League quints will make debuts in the second half play tonight at Bolling Field.

Fort Myer, second place outfit, is slated to engage Norman Hutchinson's Union Printers at 8 p. m. with Bureau of Investigation and Bolling Field taking the floor an hour later. Census, first-half champion, will see action tomorrow against Commerce.

Prep School Coaches Meet At Post to Plan Tourney

Representatives of Eight Teams to Convene Tomorrow Night to Arrange Title Games at G. W. U. Gymnasium.

REPRESENTATIVES of Washington's eight leading prep schools —Gonzaga, Landon, St. John's, Georgetown Prep, Friends, St. Alban's, Emerson and Devitt, will meet at The Washington Post tomorrow night to arrange the schedule of games for the prep school basket ball tournament, which starts February 22 at George Washington University Gymnasium.

The Colonial institution has offered the use of its gymnasium, locker and shower facilities for George Washington's Birthday and the two succeeding days and nights. The Washington Post will offer a silver trophy to the winning team, and medals to the individual players. The George Washington Bicentennial Sports Commission has tucked the tournament beneath its protective wing.

Representatives of the schools concerned will not only arrange the succession of games tomorrow night, but will decide whether games will be played during the day or night. Artie Boyd, coach of the noncombatant Tech High team, yesterday stated that he believed afternoon games will carry the greater appeal. Boyd, whose Tech teams have won two high school court championships, heartily indorsed the idea of bringing the prep schools together under a common head and with a common end in view.

Some idea of what a close race can be expected of the prep tournament may be had by reference to past performances of the teams. St. John's excises a claim to eminence by virtue of victories over Eastern and Tech in outside contests, but Georgetown Prep beat St. John's and Gonzaga beat Georgetown Prep. Friends beat St. Alban's, but Devitt turned back Friends.

NAT TRAINER LEAVES FOR BILOXI

MIKE MARTIN, Washington Club trainer, and his assistant, Frank (Bobo) Baxter, leave for the Biloxi training base this morning. They are due to arrive tomorrow night and will start work bright and early Thursday morning getting things in readiness for the battery candidates, who are scheduled to show up in time for their 1932 initial workout next Monday morning.

In addition to getting the paraphernalia to the camp and in readiness for use, overseeing the arranging of the locker room, showers, &c., they also supervise the laying out of the diamond. Both are fast workers and, unless they register their first failure this spring, it is a sure bet that the Nats' first squad will find every item taken care of when it arrives.

Those scheduled to leave here Saturday morning, along with Manager Walter Johnson and Coach Nick Altrock, or to join the party en route, are Pitchers Fred Marberry, Al Crowder, Lloyd Brown, Carl Fischer, Bobby Burke, Monte Weaver, Frank Ragland, Johnny Freidrichs, Lynn Griffith, Mike Delaney, John Boyle and Bud Thomas; Catchers Roy Spencer, Cliff Bolton, Ed Gharrity and Howard Maple, and Coach Al Schacht.

Central, Duke Frosh List Game at Durham

Central High's basket ball team has arranged a game with Duke freshmen for Saturday and will take the trip south to Durham if it can arrange another tussle, preferably with Wake Forest freshmen. Eastern winds up its season Saturday, against Episcopal. Tech has stopped practice sessions for the week, but holds high hopes of entering the Washington and Lee tournament later in the month.

Today, Western entertains the Wilson Teachers, Eastern takes on Devitt at Eastern, St. John's meets Alexandria at St. John's, and Georgetown Prep plays host to the Maryland Deaf School.

Takoma-S. S. Scores 17th Straight Victory

Takoma-Silver Spring High School scored its seventeenth consecutive victory of the season when it defeated Kendall School by a score of 27-13, at Silver Spring yesterday. The two teams battled neck and neck in the first half, going into the second half with the score knotted at 6-6.

The eventual winners speeded up their attack in the second half, and with Bozievich leading the way, rapidly drew away. In a preliminary game the Takoma-Silver Spring Juniors defeated the Kendall Juniors, 29-10.

Howard U. Tossers Beaten by Morgan

The Bison court tossers of Howard University went down to their fourth consecutive defeat, after five straight victories, last night in the university gymnasium, when the Morgan College quint, of Baltimore, trimmed them to the tune of 36 to 25. The half ended 18 to 8 in favor of the Oriole aggregation.

Skippy Gibson, at forward, and Regiment Troupe, at guard, caused the principal offensive, while Sallie Hall and Mickey Syphax, Howard forwards, were unable to get away. Brutus Wilson and Troupe covered them at every turn and smeared two-score attempts at field goals by split second speed.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

A BIT of ancient Greece will be transplanted to Convention Hall Saturday night when the top-notch Greek bowlers of the city vie in a match between the Sunrise Bakery and Five Greeks. Interest is running high, and it is rumored that supporters of both teams have thrown away the rubber-band that holds the old bankroll together.

The Bakery line-up will be Placos, Chaconas, Pappas, Genarius and Panos. Al Chipouras, Gus Tompros, Lefty Poulos, Jim Poulos and George Dracus will be the Five Greeks to oppose them.

Entries are coming in at a fast clip for the American Legion handicap tournament to be held Saturday, February 27, at the Arcadia alleys. The affair is open to all veterans of the World War. Competition will consist of three games, total pins plus a handicap to count. The entrance fee is $1, which does not include the cost of games. Entries close at midnight Saturday night. Blanks may be secured at any alley in the city.

Mike Vitale's 136-game and 400 set won the individual honors in the Merchants League at Convention Hall. It was the first time in several months that Mike Kapneck failed to land any fish. Kapneck's team rolled a 596 game and 1,703 set to clinch the team laurels and an odd-game win over Southern Dairies. Thompson's Dairy and Penn Electric were beaten by National Glass and Uneeda Bakers, while W. R. Winslow and Thompson's Furniture shut out W. B. Moses and Southern Dairies.

Paul Clark was the big gun in the North of Washington League of Silver Spring. He twanged the ten pins, all of 'em, for 388, but the high game was rolled by Johnny Anderson, who knocked them down for a 150 score. The Shade Factory took the team prizes with its 593 game and 1,733 set, and also won a 3-0 victory over Kensington. Silver Spring Electric took all three from Howitzer Co., and Acme Sheet Metal and F. G. P. won the odd-ones from L. E. Brueninger and Faulconer-Proctor.

Schlosser's 152 and 375 scores were high in the General Counsel Men's League at Lucky Strike. The Reds picked off 541 pins for high game and the Robins turned in a 1,545 set.

In the Ladies section of the same loop, Miss Merseglia's 114 game was best. Miss Butrimawich (I think the spelling is correct), toppled the pins for a 312 set. Petitions led the teams with a 443 game and 1,262 three-set total.

Messrs. Young and Simon barely won their first game with Mr. Barnes Auto Salesmen in the first game of their National Capital League match at Lucky Strike, rolling a 542 to their opponents' 541. But after the initial game it was no contest. Barnes rolled 489 and 560, and Young and Simon 583 and 607. Jack Mooney's 135 game and Ray Ward's 355 set were best for the losers. Ben Hare had a game of 120 and Carl Waggel a set of 340 for the winners.

Al Swetzer's 143 total for the ten boxes, and Bob Rothgeb's 349 three-game total took the cake in the Sanico League at Convention Hall. The La Billies rolled 563 and 1,612 to hand the Hendricks a doughnut. The Fagans, Tienckens and Fosters won by shut-outs, the Kings, Wynn's and Willis' receiving the zeros.

"Mac" McDonald's 367 set was high in the King Pin Business Men's loop. King Pin took the odd one from Hecht Co. and the First Americans finished one up on Hecht Annex despite the latter's 643 game and 1,705 total.

The bandmaster in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia was Barnard, who led the parade with his 146 game and 381 set. His team, G. P. O., rolled a 1,732 set, and high game went to Navy Yard with 609.

McCane and Dykes divided the individual honors in the Engineering Reproduction League at Arcadia. McCane took high game with 112, and Dykes the set, with 328. Photos tallied 537 and 1,513, to take the team honors.

Just like the famous Pied Piper who enticed the children away from home with his magic music, Carrol Piper's splendid bowling took quite a few pins away from the alleys at Columbia. She rolled a game of 125, and a set of 301. Cooperation, with a 489 game and 1,353 set took the odd one from Cotton. Foreign Service and Extension also won by a 2-1 decision, Accounts and Live Stock receiving the aces. Information won all three from Inter-Bureau.

Frank Mischou's 139 game and 367 set enabled him to win the individual honors in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike. National Publishing clamped down on the team laurels with a 599 game and 1,665 set. Haywood Printing, Adams, Big Print Shop and Judd & Detweiler shutout Craftsmen, Maxwell Jones, Central Press and Ransdell Printing. Standard Engraving, Potomac Electrotype, Charles H. Potter and Columbia Printing won the decision over National Capital Press, National Publishing, American Electrotype, Big Print Shop (which rolled a double-header) and Caslon Press.

Ollie Pacini will go to Baltimore Saturday to team up with Ray Barnes in a match with Nick Tronsky and Bill Tato, of the Connecticut Blue Ribbons. The affair will be staged at the Recreation alleys, with five games in afternoon and five at night. Singles will also be rolled. There is a possibility that should Pacini and Barnes go well together the former will forsake "Reds" Megaw, his present doubles partner, in favor of the Baltimore man.

Melvin Rock's 156 game and 372 set looked awful big in the Petroleum League at Columbia. His team, Crew-Levick, was the pacemaker for the teams, rolling 593 and 1,672, while taking a trio from American Oil. Chapman and Lord Baltimore won the deciding games from Gulf and Tidewater.

Here's Fruits and Vegetables again, winning two from the Nomics, in the Men's Agriculture League at Columbia. Grain's 572 game enabled it to take the odd one from Farm Management. It also had a 1,642 set. Crop Estimate and Standards were one better than Horticulture and Cooperation. Crosswhite's 138 game and Hevener's 366 set topped the individual pin-spilling.

Clarence Kibbey's 156-game and 418 set were good for the cash in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia.

American U. Five In Action Tonight

Eagles Meet Bridgewater Here; Strayer's Host to Baltimore Team.

Two games are scheduled tonight for Capital college quintets. American University will meet Bridgewater on the Eagles' court, and Strayer College will oppose Baltimore Strayer at Central High School. Both games will start at 8 o'clock.

American resumed its winning ways against Gallaudet last week, after St. John's College, of Annapolis, had snapped its winning streak of nine games, and the Eagles are hopeful of making it two in a row against the Virginians. It will be Bridgewater's first visit to Washington this season, and little is known of its strength. In previous years, however, it has always provided stiff competition for the locals.

The clash between the Strayer teams will mark their second meeting this year. Washington won the first game, a thriller, 26 to 23, and the Baltimoreans will be out to avenge this defeat.

Griffith-Consumers And Saks Play Tonight

The Griffith-Consumers can clinch the championship in Section A of the Community Center League by winning over the Saks Clothiers when the two teams clash tonight at 9:30 o'clock in the Central High School gym. The Griffs are leading the league with a record of 8 victories against no losses. Saks is in second place, with one loss in 8 games. Should the Clothiers win tonight a triple tie is possible, as Mount Vernon is tied with Saks for second place and has only one more game to play.

Tonight's principals are regarded as two of the strongest teams in unlimited ranks. This will be their first meeting.

J. C. C. and "Y" Meet For D. C. Mat Crown

Hotly contested amateur wrestling is expected to develop tomorrow night at the Jewish Community Center Auditorium, where the J. C. C. matmen engage the Y. M. C. A. team in a match advertised as for the city team championship. The public is invited at a charge of 25 cents per person.

These teams are warm rivals, having dominated the District A. A. U. wrestling championships in 1931. Each garnered three individual titles.

NAVAL HOSPITAL WINS.

The Naval Hospital quintet opened the second half schedule of the Government League by winning over the Commerce Department five, 26-12, at Bolling Field last night. Perkins and Ring were best for the winners, while Grimsley was the only member of the losing team able to score consistently.

STOCK MARKET SAGS UNDER PROFIT SALES

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Stocks took a step or two backward today with the very practical theory that profits were safer in the pocket than on the books.

Urgent needs of the shorts had been so well satisfied on Saturday that further support from this source was not forthcoming and the market thus found itself vulnerable to realizing sales.

However, Wall street professed its satisfaction at the day's showing, for the net loss of 2.4 points approximated only 25 per cent of the advance made last week. There was little or no snap to the reaction after the first half hour, which accounted for one-quarter of the volume.

Action of Markets.

Opening lower, the market extended its decline to 1 to 5 points in the early trading, reduced these losses by a point or so, sagged again and then moved horizontally to an uninteresting close. Final quotations were above the early minimums. Transactions totaled 1,975,494 shares, well below the turnover in Saturday's short session.

U. S. Steel's net loss of 1¼ was just half of its extreme decline. American Telephone, trading actively, off 5⅛ at the worst, closed a point above the bottom and was one of the few stocks that sold lower in the afternoon than in the morning. American Can, Westinghouse, Du Pont, General Electric, National Biscuit, Woolworth, American Tobacco "B," Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe and Union Pacific finished 2 to 3 points lower.

Rails, generally speaking, offered better resistance than other major classifications. General Motors was rather steady and Case staged a late recovery.

Copper Shares Soften.

Copper shares softened in response to the unfavorable dividend action of the Kennecott companies and International Nickel. Du Pont's directors came up to expectations by declaring the regular quarterly payment of $1 a share. Return of the Giannini interests to control of America Corporation was accompanied by a fractional rise in the stock.

Business has now seen a month and a half of the first quarter and is forced to admit that its hopes for seasonal gains have not been fully realized. So far, steps toward reconstruction are little more than in the formative stage, and it may be some time before they have tangible influence. Wall street believes, nevertheless, that the campaign against deflation represents an important move forward, and that the confidence it is likely to inspire may stimulate a spring recovery.

What effect the Ford company's plans will have on the automobile industry generally, or on steel production, remains to be seen, although sentiment has been clarified. Just at present steel operations appear to have lost most of their gain since mid-January, and with construction demands very small and railroads still filling only minimum requirements, the steel producers are hoping that automotive inquiries will be sufficient at least to support current schedules.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Dominated by stock market recoils, grain prices took a general downward course today, although wheat displayed absorptive power on breaks of a cent a bushel.

Houses with Eastern connections were heavy sellers of wheat at times, and much emphasis was placed on statements from trade sources calling attention to "the sore spot in the market," the "enormous block" of United States Government-financed wheat and to "threatened legislative attacks on the grain exchanges." Considerable late selling was also associated with improved weather in domestic winter wheat territory Southwest and with Washington reports that widespread prolonged drought was ended.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1⅛ under Saturday's finish, corn ⅜ to 1 down, oats ⅜ off to ⅛ up, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

From the outset, wheat showed a reactionary trend here despite higher quotations at Liverpool, and notwithstanding reports of stringent need of prompt shipments to transatlantic countries. Temporarily, buying of Chicago wheat futures promoted rallies, helped by 1,238,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total, contrasting with 2,078,000 increase a year ago. There were also predictions by a leading authority that within four or five weeks the domestic stock of wheat in sight would be smaller than at the corresponding time last year.

Fresh outbursts of wheat selling, though, led to new downturns lower than before, with North American export sales totaling only 500,000 bushels. Some of the selling appeared to include liquidation of a large holding for a Chicago operator. Other selling was ascribed to profit taking on the part of recent speculative purchasers. A picturesque phrase which caught general notice relative to threatened legislative attacks on grain exchanges was that the attacks were "a reminder of the Chinese custom of beheading the luckless individual who happened to be nearest the corpse when a murder was discovered."

Corn and oats tagged after wheat. Eastern shipping demand for corn remained slack and 1,528,000 bushels increase of the corn visible supply was a handicap to bulls.

Provisions reflected the decline of securities and grain.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—A further advance of 5 to 9 points in cotton at the opening today was followed by reactions under Southern selling and realizing.

May contracts, which had sold up to 7.00 at the start on a continuation of the buying movement which developed toward the end of last week, declined to 6.88 but recovered part of the loss, closing at 6.93 compared with 6.91 at the close of Saturday. The final tone of the market was steady with prices net unchanged to 2 points higher.

The market at the start received encouragement from relatively steady Liverpool cables and the pressure here of buying orders said to come partly from the continent, Liverpool and the Far East.

The advance to 6.81 for March and 7.38 for October met increased Southern selling, and there was considerable realizing, causing prices to yield gradually, with March selling off to 6.70 and October to 7.27 during the early afternoon. The market later was comparatively quiet and fairly steady with the closing quotations showing rallies of some 3 to 5 points from the lowest.

The falling off in the volume of business was regarded by some traders as indicating a disposition to await further developments in connection with the banking legislation pending in Washington.

The carded cloth statistics showing a reduction of 12.5 per cent in stocks during January, with an increase of about 21.5 per cent in unfilled orders, made a favorable impression but seemed about in line with expectation.

Liverpool cables said that covering and continental buying had been supplied by realizing in that market. Exports today, 33,564, making 5,461,786 so far this season. Port receipt, 21,684. United States port stocks, 4,837,040.

U. S. BONDS ADVANCE IN STRONGER TREND

Some Rail Issues Decline Under Profits Pressure; Foreigns Drop.

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Marked strength characterized today's bond market with United States Government issues moving forward more than a point in some instances and domestic corporation loans exhibiting resistance under apparent profit taking.

The Federal list took cognizance of the feature of the Glass-Steagall credit expansion bill which will release some $700,000,000 of "free gold" and will make Government securities the basis for currency issues by the Federal reserve banks. Dealers interpreted all of this to mean an easy money policy which will not only benefit Treasury obligations but other high-grade mortgages.

The activity in today's market was shown by the fact that the sales totaled $14,825,000, the highest since January 15. While the average for 60 corporate bonds advanced only 2-10 of a point, gains in various issues ran from fractions to 8½ points.

The railway section started out for a repetition of its stellar performance of Saturday, but traders were apparently unable to resist large profits, and many of the recent high climbers gave way under realizing. A majority of the low-priced speculative liens gave up some of their previous gains, but others registered substantial advances sufficient to keep the average for the transportation department up 1-10 of a cent.

The industrial and utilities were in demand, and liens of Armour & Co., Brooklyn Union Elevated, Consolidated Gas, International Match, American Telephone, International Telephone, Western Union, Postal Telegraph, Sinclair Oil and Standard Oil of New Jersey closed with gains.

The foreign category was spotty. South Americans, including the Argentines, Brazils, Colombians, Chileans and Peruvians advanced.

On the other hand, German governments sagged, as did those of New South Wales, Great Britain and Poland. Japanese issues were mixed, the government 6½s being off 1½ points, while the 5½s closed higher.

RACQUET CLUB BODY TO PROTECT BONDS

Committee Will Be Formed to Safeguard Issue in Interest Default.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Holders of first mortgage 7 per cent bonds of the Racquet Club, which defaulted in interest January 1, recently appointed a committee of five to make a survey of the situation and report to the bond holders.

This committee, headed by Y. E. Booker, of Y. E. Booker & Co., as chairman, held a meeting with bond holders yesterday and was asked by the latter to continue its work and arrange the formation of a permanent bond holders' protective committee to take such action as may be deemed necessary to safeguard the interest of the bond holders.

The committee will prepare a deposit agreement and will elect a permanent bond holders' protective committee, it was announced. It will also cooperate with the finance committee of the club. To facilitate the work of the present committee, holders of bonds are asked to communicate with Chairman Booker at 730 Fifteenth street northwest. The total amount of bonds outstanding is $575,000. Other members of the committee are W. C. Sullivan, W. Wallace Chiswell, Allen MacCullen, of this city, and H. R. Hawthorne, of New York.

Sun Life Assurance.

The annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada shows a gain of more than $36,000,000 in assets; $26,000,000 paid or allotted during 1931 in dividends to policy holders, more than $93,000,000 in total payment to policy holders and beneficiaries; an increase of $12,000,000 over 1930; nearly $528,000,000 of new business and assurances in force passing the $3,000,000,000 mark.

Since the organization of the company 61 years ago nearly $600,000,000 have been paid to policyholders or beneficiaries, while during the year just closed the Sun Life paid out well over $93,000,000. Of this amount more than $68,000,000 was paid to living policyholders in matured endowments, annuities, dividends, &c., indicating in no uncertain terms the modern trend of insurance. The assets at the end of the year totaled more than $624,000,000, an increase for the year of more than $36,000,000, while the surplus and contingency reserve stands at more than $21,000,000.

Home Owners' Payments.

Home owners' payments to Investors Syndicate, with local offices, on first mortgage residence loans totaled $5,420,374.81 during 1931, according to a statement issued yesterday by E. E. Crabb, vice president of the company.

This exceeded by $264,329.73 the collections for the year 1929, which were $5,156,045.08. It was slightly less than 1930, when a larger number of complete liquidations by borrowers increased total collections to $5,638,284.71.

"The remarkable record of collections on these loans, which are on the monthly pay-off plan, is a demonstration of the depression-proof security of carefully selected homes as an investment," said Mr. Crabb. "It suggests that home owners as a class are thriftier and are less likely to lose their jobs during periods of unemployment."

As of January 31, Investors Syndicate had outstanding first mortgages and first deeds of trust totaling $34,055,675.92, on 11,880 homes, in 26 cities of the United States and Canada. Average ratio of loans outstanding to appraised value of property was 45 per cent.

Total loans funded during 1931 were $6,927,290.66, the report showed. This compared with $7,315,788.69 in loans funded during 1930.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Following its uprush of last week, the New York Curb Market had a resting spell today, transactions totaling 300,000 shares against 350,000 on Saturday, and prices slid back moderately.

Fractional declines occurred in most of the leading stocks, but a number of less active issues, which had not figured in Saturday's purchases, jumped forward with gains of 2 to 4 points. These were described as "catching up" with the main market, which had swept forward on Friday and Saturday.

Reports that United Light & Power is negotiating with Columbia Gas & Electric for natural gas service to Detroit lent support to the "A" stock of that company. The price was steady, the closing quotation being ⅛ point below Saturday's final figure of 7. Electric Bond & Share yielded ⅝ point to 11⅞. Insull Utility Investment gave up 1⅜ points following statement that a merger of two Insull properties was planned. Other utility issues were down around 1 point or so.

Ford Motor, Ltd., continued steady despite the action of its German subsidiary in passing its 1931 dividend. Ford of Canada "A" held its gain of Saturday. Another stock of a company doing business abroad which went through the day without net change was Woolworth, Ltd.

Southwest Penn Pipe Line and New England Power Association preferred stocks were steady to firm on strength of favorable earning reports for 1931 showing, respectively, $3.20 and $4.45 earned per common share.

Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation stock yielded a fraction. An accounting suit brought by a stockholder against the management was begun today.

Aluminum Co. and Gulf Oil, which figured vigorously in the Saturday rally, lost part of their gains today. Aluminum reacted 2¾ points to 53¼, and Gulf Oil was down 2 points to 30.

River Bulletin.

Increase Is Recorded By Canadian Customs

Ottawa, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Canadian customs and excise revenue showed a $409,947 increase for January over January a year ago. The total for last month was $14,348,109, and for January, 1931, $13,938,161.

Customs receipts were lower, and so were the excise collections, which chiefly come from duties on liquors, &c., but these decreases were more than offset by the large increase in the excise tax chiefly resulting from higher sales taxes.

Stockholders Expected To Vote Sinclair Plan

Independence, Kans., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—With proxies on hand from stockholders whose shares aggregate more than two thirds of the company's stock, officers of the Prairie Pipe Line Co. said today they expected the proposed merger with the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation would be overwhelmingly approved.

W. F. Gates president of Prairie Pipe, said among the largest blocks of stock in the merged company will be the Rockefeller holdings, which will aggregate more than 1,100,000 shares of the total of 14,218,000 shares to be outstanding.

Receivership Is Sought For Grasslands Downs

Gallatin, Tenn., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Receivership petition was filed in Chancery Court today against the Sumner County Land Co. holding corporation for the internationally famous Grasslands Downs racing foundation.

Eight purported creditors alleged in their bill that the company is insolvent. The complainants, all Gallatin business concerns, contend the company's liabilities will total at least $1,065,000. They seek to have their petition made a general creditors' bill and have a receiver appointed. The steeplechase course on the vast rolling estate at Grasslands Downs hailed as "sportsman's paradise," has been described by sports lovers as the most difficult in the country. It is modeled after the famous Aintree course in England.

Seaboard Receivers May Issue Certificates

Richmond, Va., Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Receivers for the Seaboard Air Line Railway today presented through counsel in United States District Court here, arguments in support of their petition seeking authority to issue approximately $15,000,000 in receivers certificates.

It is the plan of the receivers, the petition set forth to offer to exchange these receivers certificates, which would mature February, 1935, for approximately $10,500,000 of equipment trust obligations of the Seaboard Air Line Railway which will mature within the next three years, and to refund with the new certificates an existing $4,000,000 issue of outstanding receivers certificates which were issued under authority of the court last May. The $4,000,000 issue will be due in May, 1932.

TRAFFIC IS SNARLED BY CLOTHING STORE BLAZE ON F STREET

BIG CROWD ATTRACTED; 300 SUITS ARE BURNED

Fox Doorman Sounds Alarm; Four Lines of Hose Play Water on Flames.

A spectacular downtown blaze, which for a time threatened to spread to adjoining buildings, last night destroyed more than 300 suits and a number of overcoats in the Bond Clothing Store, at 1335 F street northwest, tied up traffic for half an hour and attracted a crowd of several hundred persons at the height of the theater rush hour.

The flames were first seen by Ralph Smith, doorman at the Fox Theater, who immediately sounded an alarm. The fire, confined to a rear second-floor section of the Bond establishment, rapidly spread before firemen arrived. The first engine company to reach the scene experienced difficulty in bringing trucks near the building, because of the large number of persons who gathered to watch the flames as they played against a huge plate-glass window.

Smash Second-floor Window.

Firemen were forced to smash the second-floor window in order to gain entrance. Four long lines of hose, two from the front and two from the rear, were used to battle the stubborn blaze.

The fire was quickly brought under control, but not until several racks of men's suits and overcoats had been destroyed and considerable damage done to furnishings. O. J. Ryan, assistant manager of the store, was unable to estimate the damage.

Origin of Blaze Unknown.

A number of years ago the entire stock of Bond's was wiped out by fire, which caused $50,000 damage. The present stock, Mr. Ryan said, consists of about 7,000 suits and 800 coats and hats.

The origin of the blaze is not known. John B. Roberts, manager of the Nisley shoe store at 1339 F street, and S. B. Trewolla, manager of the Enna Jettick shoe store at 1337 F street, reported considerable damage to their stock by water. The two stores are located directly beneath Bond's and a large quantity of water seeped through the ceiling.

BAR SPEAKER URGES REORGANIZATIONS TO AVOID SALARY CUTS

Representative Dallinger, of Massachusetts, Advises More Efficiency.

FEDERAL PAY SLASHES MENACE LIVING SCALE

Proposes Garage Under Mall to Solve Parking Issue; Hoarding Assailed.

Reorganization of Government departments under a plan of consolidation and gradual removal of unnecessary overhead was suggested as a substitute for reduction of salaries of Government employes by Representative Frederick W. Dallinger, of Massachusetts, in a talk before the Federal Bar Association last night at the University Club.

Reducing the salaries of Government employes would be a dangerous step because it would conflict with the efforts of the administration to raise the standard of living, Mr. Dallinger told the lawyers who are employed in various departments of government. Many business and industrial leaders are anxious to have the Government lead the way in reducing salaries so that they can follow suit, he declared.

Suggests Parking Remedy.

Mr. Dallinger expressed a strong belief that when the final legislation is passed, the salaries will not be reduced. In regard to the parking problem in the Government buildings, he suggested a plan of constructing a subterranean garage beneath the Mall.

The Massachusetts representative devoted a portion of his talk to an explanation of the developments leading up to the economic collapse. He praised the Hoover reconstruction program as the right course to take, but warned that reducing salaries would tear down a great deal of the constructive work now being attempted.

He advocated increased production of articles that other countries must have and can't produce for themselves as one means of bringing back prosperity.

Hoarding Is Criticized.

Commenting on the hoarding of money, he said that $1,000,000,000 is a conservative estimate of the sum hoarded, adding that there is undoubtedly $2,000,000,000 being kept out of circulation by the American people.

An illuminating discourse on the proposed amendments to the citizenship laws of the United States was given by Richard W. Flournoy, assistant legal adviser in the Department of State. William R. Vallance, president of the association, presided.

WOMEN HONOR SUSAN B. ANTHONY

COPELAND DIRECTS SISK DEATH INQUIRY; STUPIDITY CHARGED

Senator Says Auto Victim Called Drunk Probably Delirious.

'CARELESSLY HANDLED,' CAPPER SAYS OF CASE

Officials of Emergency Hospital to Be Questioned on Youth's Treatment.

Hearings into alleged "stupid" treatment accorded Joseph Sisk, Baltimore newspaperman, who died from critical injuries at Gallinger Hospital after he had been pronounced drunk at Emergency Hospital were ordered last night by Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman of the Senate District subcommittee on public health, hospitals and charities.

Dr. Copeland, who set no date for the hearings, said he was convinced that the case of Sisk "was stupidly handled."

"He probably was delirious from injuries suffered, and some interne thought he was drunk," Senator Copeland told newspapermen.

Full Inquiry Promised.

Earlier, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, declared the case "carelessly handled." He wrote Senator Copeland, asking him as a doctor of medicine to inquire into "this apparently preventable tragedy."

Senator Copeland had previously interested himself, however. Last week he wrote Director George S. Wilson, of the Board of Public Welfare, for facts in the case. Director Wilson's reply, setting forth how Sisk was injured in a Mount Rainier auto crash, removed to Emergency in a patrol, treated for intoxication and later taken to Gallinger, where he died from his injuries, was received just before Senator Capper's request. Dr. Copeland said.

He promised a thoroughgoing inquiry, in which officials of Emergency, Gallinger and the Twelfth Precinct probably would be invited to testify.

"This looks to me like bad business," he said. "If the boy was 'obstreperous' as hospital authorities report, it probably was because of delirium caused by his injuries."

Drinking by Sisk Denied.

Senator Capper took up the investigation last week where Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Republican), Maryland, personal friend of Sisk, left off. Palmisano, who declared "he did not know what further he could do," said the Senate committee had "better facilities" to conduct the investigation.

Turner Catledge, correspondent for the New York Times, who Sisk visited two hours before the injury said he could say "without any reservation" that Sisk was not drunk nor did he have a drink while at his home.

"I desire to refer to your subcommittee, for such action as you deem advisable, a serious matter involving a Washington hospital which receives a large allowance annually from the District budget for the care of charity and emergency cases," Senator Copeland wrote his subcommittee chairman.

U. S. PAY CUT PLAN BRANDED 'POLITICS'

Brookhart Says Borah Bill Would Save Government Only $3,000,000.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, (Republican), Iowa, who is taking his time calling hearings on the Borah Federal pay cut bill, yesterday declared the Idaho senator's measure a "political gesture."

The Borah bill to cut Federal salaries over $5,000 would net the Government only $3,000,000, Senator Brookhart, chairman of a special Senate civil service subcommittee, estimated.

"If they want to save money, why don't they cut down military and naval appropriations," he said. "And I don't mean officers' salaries, either, though they might reduce the number of officers."

Senator Brookhart said he had not fixed a date for hearings on the pay cut bill that was referred to his subcommittee Saturday by Chairman Porter H. Dale, of the Senate civil service committee.

Senator Brookhart reiterated that "big business" is behind the pay-cut movement. He said large business interests are taking this means of distracting attention from the bigger issues.

Meanwhile Senator William E. Borah is biding his time. He has the assurance of Senator Dale that the bill will be reported out, either favorably or unfavorably, and figures his time will come when the issue comes up on the Senate floor.

Thief Gets $535 Robes From Auto of Visitor

A laprobe valued at $500 and a blanket worth $35 were stolen yesterday from the automobile of a New York woman visiting the Capital, police were told.

The chauffeur of Miss Ethel Clyde, of 941 Park avenue, New York City, said the articles were taken from the car when it was parked in a garage in the rear of 1433 L street northwest.

5 More Policemen In Brutality Quiz

Bride Urges Action After Inquiry; Laflin One of Accused.

Charges are to be made against five District policemen, for allegedly using third degree methods in their treatment of prisoners. The charges are the result of the investigation made by the Department of Justice into alleged brutality on the part of policemen.

After studying 56 cases of alleged brutality, which were classed as non-indictable, it was suggested that charges against five of the men be heard before the Police Trial Board. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride recommended to Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby that charges be made against the following: Patrolmen William McEwen, William R. Laflin, James E. Bennett, George E. Sorber and Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley.

In Sorber's case, Mr. Bride recommended that a charge of intoxication be placed against him. Laflin is now appealing from a conviction of an alleged assault on James Henry Harker, for which he was sentenced to one year in jail and fined $500.

Mystery of Flat Tires Epidemic Held Solved

The flat-tire mystery has been solved at last, according to police.

Since the first of the year residents of 1000 Rittenhouse street northwest have been hurrying downstairs of a morning with just time enough to get to work, only to find, like as not, that the flat-tire man had been at work again.

Every tire on an automobile he had visited during the night would be flat. Even the spare would not be spared. All would have small, round holes neatly through their middles.

Yesterday morning five persons complained that their tires had been flattened during the night. A short time later police arrested James R. Robertson, 37 years old, colored, janitor of an apartment at 6120 Georgia avenue northwest, on eight charges of destroying private property.

He did it with his little ice pick, police said he told them. He appeared to like the sibilant sound of expiring tires.

NEW SUSPECT HELD IN SNIPER CASE QUIZ

Former Fireman Implicated by Price in Connection With Bell Shooting.

Ernest Meile, 30 years old, a former city fireman, was taken into custody yesterday in connection with the investigation of a series of shootings which took the life of Paul Riedel and wounded three others.

Meile, who lives on Foote street near Thirty-fourth street northeast, is reported to have been in company with John C. Price, another former fireman, in the vicinity when a bullet was fired from a cab through the window of the home of Stanley Bell, radio announcer for WMAL.

Both of them deny any connection with the series of mysterious shootings. The decision to question the men in connection with the Riedel shooting came after police learned that the bullet that went through Bell's window was of .32 caliber. However, the bullet was copper-jacketed, while those in the other shootings were copper-dipped.

Meile was dismissed from the Fire Department on May 27 for being absent without permission. Price, who lives at 620 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, was dismissed a few months ago for "tardiness and unfitness." Bell's home, 3940 Fourteenth street northwest, is next to that of Fire Chief George W. Watson.

Price was arrested shortly after the shooting on a tip given to police. He named Meile as his companion.

$1,600 Ring and Fur Coat Worth $150 Stolen

A diamond ring, valued at $1,600, was stolen yesterday from the home of Helen Torreyson, 1619 Thirtieth street northwest. The stone is blue-white and the ring is white gold and has a platinum setting.

A fur coat valued at $150 also was stolen.

POSTOFFICE BRANCH URGED NEAR G. W. U.

West End Citizens Indorse King Measure to Restrict Practice of Law.

A resolution was adopted last night by the West End Citizens' Association, recommending the establishment of a branch post office near Pennsylvania avenue between Seventeenth and Twenty-second streets northwest, at a meeting held at Stockton Hall of the George Washington University Law School.

The association indorsed a bill introduced by Senator William H. King, of Utah, before the District committee restricting the practice of law in Washington to those who are members of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. This bill disallows the use of the term "law office" or "counsellor" to any person or corporation not having membership of the bar.

Delegates to the public utilities commission hearing on gas rates were appointed at the meeting, and the bill restricting the sale of fire arms in the District, which was introduced by Senator Arthur Capper was indorsed.

Mrs. Bell Parker, the chairman of the committee on public schools, reported that the committee was invited to appear before the House of Representatives subcommittee on appropriations of the District, and to present the association's request that a new school to replace the old Grant School on Twenty-second and G streets, be built.

The association appointed a committee to study old age security board bill, providing for all old-age pensions, and an invitation to Mrs. Mary Norton, chairman of the House District committee, to speak before the organization about the bill at their next meeting will be extended.

In preparation for the Bicentennial celebration a committee was appointed by the president of the association, Robert D. Lyons, to confer with the commission to arrange that processions on Pennsylvania avenue should extend their route to the Washington Circle. Twenty-fourth and the Avenue, and that this circle be appropriately decorated.

Street Car Merger Bill Urged by Citizen Group

A resolution asking Congress to pass the bill effecting a merger of the street car lines as recommended by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and William McK. Clayton, of Federation of Citizens' Associations, which provides for free interline transfers, a 3-cent fare for school children, and a charter granted by Congress instead of incorporation under the District code, was adopted last night by the Lincoln Park Citizens' Association at a meeting in the Bryan School, Thirteenth and B streets southeast.

S. V. Patterson, of the Takoma Park Citizens' Association, addressed the meeting on prohibition, and a discussion of the law followed. Joseph L. Gammel, president of the association, announced the acceptance of 49 new members and a continuance of the membership drive.

District Officials Guests Of Progressive Citizens

District officials and civic leaders were guests of the Progressive Citizens Association last night at a program presented at the Curtis School.

Dr. Luther C. Reichelderfer, Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, and Maj. D. A. Davison, all spoke briefly. Other guests were George Offutt, of the Washington Board of Trade, and C. Melvin Sharpe, executive assistant to the president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

A certificate of accidental death was issued in the case. Members of the family pointed out that it was his habit to turn on the burners of the stove and light them simultaneously. Mr. Schwab had been in ill health lately, according to his wife, who said she believed he suffered a stroke after opening the jets, and that he was unable to light the gas.

Members of the fire rescue squad and a private physician were called as soon as the accident was discovered. Mr. Schwab was pronounced dead upon their arrival. Mr. Schwab was a native of New Orleans, but had lived in Washington for 38 years. In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, Frederick, jr., and Charles M. Schwab. CLUB HEARS OLD AGE SECURITY APPEALS

A prediction that a Federal relief bill would be passed by Congress today was made last night by Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, in speaking on need for old age security legislation before the thirty-sixth annual dinner of the Monday Evening Club at the Y. W. C. A.

The other speaker on the program was Louis A. Lipp, assistant director of Public Welfare of Massachusetts. He outlined the workings of the Bay State's old age pension law, which has been in effect for seven months.

The labor leader outlined several of the causes which make old people dependent upon outside aid for their support. A particular factor, he said, was disability due to industrial accidents and occupational diseases.

He briefly mentioned the points of the Norton bill, which would create old age security for the District. It provides a maximum of $9 per week for persons who are eligible.

Elwood Street, president of the club, presided at the dinner. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

After weeks of delay the Senate judiciary committee yesterday formally approved President Hoover's appointment of F. Dickinson Letts to be associate justice of the District Supreme Court.

A native of Ainsworth, Iowa, Judge Letts served three terms in Congress from that State, and earlier for 12 years occupied the position of judge of the District Court for the Seventh Judicial District of Iowa.

Opposition to Judge Lett's nomination and the appointment of Daniel W. O'Donoghue on the same bench, led to hearings by a Senate judiciary subcommittee. Two disbarred attorneys asked the Senate to withhold confirmation. Judge O'Donoghue's appointment was approved shortly after the hearings.

About $1,000 will be required to move the main, according to Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, but more money is actually involved as otherwise the two parties probably would go to court.

Expedition Sought In Cannon's Case

Prosecutor Asks Court to Aid Early Decision on Appeal.

In order to expedite the matter of appealing to the District Court of Appeals from the ruling of Justice James M. Proctor, who upheld the demurrer of Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs to an indictment charging them with violating the corrupt practices act, Assistant United States Attorney John J. Wilson yesterday asked Justice Proctor to permit the incorporation of a possible enlargement of the justice's ruling in any appeal that might be filed prior to the actual hearing of the appeal.

Justice Proctor indicated that he might enlarge upon his findings in sustaining the demurrer, and it would be necessary to include this enlargement in the record that the higher court will be asked to hear.

The ruling will enable the Government to rush to an early decision the appeal on the ruling.

Robbers Leave Explosives In Safe, Offering Problem

Police had a neat problem in explosives on their hands this morning. They understood how the burglars had packed nitroglycerin in the safe of the Brakhall Food Products Co., at 2800 Tenth street northeast, but could not figure how to get it out again without blowing up the safe.

Walter Bramhall, of 2032 Belmont place northwest, almost caught the burglars in the act of blowing the safe. He had occasion to stop in the office last night about 11 p. m. and found a haze of smoke about the top of the safe.

There was an open window near it. The burglars had just exploded one charge of "soup" which set the bags on fire. The first charge was not strong enough and the men were preparing the second and had filled the combination with it when they heard Mr. Bramhall coming and ducked out the window.

Mr. Bramhall said the yeggmen would hardly have gotten more than $5 in cash if they had succeeded in blowing the safe open.

Yeggs blew open two safes at Hahn's Shoe Store, Seventh and K streets northwest, and set off a burglar alarm on three separate occasions early yesterday, but each time investigators reported they could find nothing wrong. The alarms were set off in a store next door. Each was investigated, but the yeggs in the shoe store escaped notice. The safes contained only ledgers and files.

Speakeasy Map of Capital To Be Explained to Senate

Crusader Rufus S. Lusk's "speakeasy" map of Washington was hung high on the walls of the Senate chamber yesterday for wet and dry blocs alike to admire with damp or arid contemplation.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, hung it there. He is so wet that dry Senators Robert B. Howell and Morris Sheppard complain of humidity in his presence.

Senator Tydings expects to "explain" the map to the Senate in a day or two, he told newspapermen yesterday.

Prepared by the local "Crusaders" organization, it contains 1,155 spots for every place raided for liquor here last year. The 1930 edition gained world-wide circulation, and was reprinted in England, Germany and France. Mr. Lusk told the Senate District committee last week.
